U. S. Rushes Aid To India

Reds Drive To Plains Of Assam

Chinese Swarm Toward Rich Land Of Northern India

By PATRICK J. KILLEN

NEW DELHI, Thursday (UPI) —The Chinese Communists, who broke through retreating Indian defenders while Peking was talking of a cease-fire, drove to the edge of the lush plains of Assam Wednesday and claimed all but total victory in disputed areas of Ladakh.

The threat to Assam was grave. There were reports here the Indian army had abandoned its headquarters at Tezpur, barely 30 road miles from the Communist spearheads, and set up new headquarters 100 miles to the southwest. Tezpur, a city of 50,000, was being evacuated.

The 9:30 p.m. (11 a.m. EST) deadline for the cease-fire passed Tuesday night with no word from the fighting areas whether it went into effect. Peking Radio ignored it. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru appeared leery of it while carefully avoiding rejecting it.

Not until 11 o'clock Tuesday night—an hour and a half after the cease-fire deadline—did India acknowledge receiving the formal Peking offer. A spokesman said Nehru was adopted a "wait and see" attitude, neither accepting nor rejecting it.

India Avoids Proposal

An official statement obviously did not quarrel with the end of hostilities by the onrushing Communist Chinese but it also avoided committing India to the political demands which followed on the Chinese proposal.

The question of a cease-fire seemed almost academic at the moment. The Indian defenses were in ruins and Red China stood poised with a military dagger in its hands against any Indian military activity along the entire 2,500-mile border.

A two-pronged Communist offensive was squeezing Assam from east and west.

At the eastern end the Reds drove 100 miles through the mountains to the village of Hayuliang on the Lohit River, a tributary of the Brahmaputra, a 66 mile advance this week showing both a massive Indian withdrawal and a Chinese breakthrough. The Reds were 50 air miles from the oil fields of Digboi and its Romanian-built refineries.

Trap Entire Division

At the western end of the tea and rice growing state, the Communists, trapping an entire Indian division in the process, moved 100 miles along winding mountain roads to a village in the foothiils a few miles from Assam and only 30 miles by road from Tezpur. Indian demolition experts were reported blowing up mountain passes to try to stem the advance.

Nine hundred miles to the west in the Ladakh area of Kashmir, the Communist victory seemed all but complete. Peking Radio announced triumphantly it had ousted Indian forces from what it called their "43 aggressive strongpoints" set up "in Chinese territory."

These were checkpoints set up by the Indians in 1959 to investigate reports of Chinese "aggression" in Ladakh. Red China said the last "four aggressive strongpoints" had fallen and that the Indians were in full retreat.

The Communist cease-fire offer said Red Chinese armies would withdraw within 10 days to previous border positions but the statement posed a new peril to India. The Chinese showed in Korea they need about 10 days of rebuilding between each human wave assault.

Began Communist Roundup

India meanwhile began a wholesale roundup of Chinese and India Communist party members throughout the country. At least 165 were reported arrested in New Delhi. A Calcutta dispatch said

Ocean City Phlimhimmon Hotel Burns

$750,000 Loss Reported At Big Summer Resort

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — The Phlimhimmon Hotel was all but destroyed by fire early Wednesday. Damage was estimated at $750,000.

Ocean City Police Chief Jack Phillips said he was investigating the cause of the blaze which apparently started in the north wing of the summertime hotel. Phillips gave the damage estimate.

The fire began at 4 a.m. and threatened to spread to adjoining hotels, but a favorable shift in the wind removed other buildings from imminent danger of fire.

Fourteen fire companies from Worcester, Wicomico counties and from Selbyville, Del., brought the blaze under control at 6 a.m. One fire engine was still on the scene nine hours after the fire broke out, as a precaution.

Only the two rear wings, both gutted, remained standing after the fire. The Phlimhimmon was the largest and one of the oldest hotels on the boardwalk at Ocean City.

Personnel at the Coast Guard tower near the inlet noticed sparks at 4 a.m. Police checked the area and turned in the alarm.

Chief Phillips said carpenters and plumbers had been working at the hotel Tuesday. The hotel owner, Williard I. Donoho of Mardela Springs, Md., had begun an expansion program to increase the number of rooms from 280 to 400.

The hotel was closed for the winter and unoccupied. Several firemen suffered minor cuts and smoke inhalation while fighting the blaze.

Chief Marshal Is Indicted For Inciting To Riot

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Chief U.S. Marshal James D. McShane gave himself up for arrest here Wednesday on charges of inciting to riot and breach of the peace growing out of the University of Mississippi desegregation riots.

Dist. Atty. Jesse Yancy Jr. said McShane, who was indicted last Friday by a county grand jury, was expected to seek release on a writ of habeas corpus momentarily before U.S. Dist. Judge Claude F. Clayton.

McShane was being held in the federal court building here, Yancy said.

Soviet Tug Discovered In U.S. Waters

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP) —A Soviet seagoing tug discovered Tuesday within United States territorial waters off Cape Cod was advised by the Coast Guard it was inside the three-mile limit and departed.

Capt. Manuel Phillips reported he passed within 50 feet of the Soviet ship in his fishing craft, the Silver Mink, in Cape Cod Bay, near Provincetown.

He said the tug—the Slavnij, an estimated 200 feet long and of 1,600 tons—had the hammer and sickle Soviet emblem on its stack.

He notified the Coast Guard, which sent a boat to advise the Slavnij it was within American territorial waters.

The Coast Guard reported the skipper apologized, but did not explain what he was doing at the scene, and then sailed away.

In October, several Soviet vessels, seeking shelter, moored near Provincetown. Coast Guard and customs officials checked the craft at that time and they later put out to sea.

Cargo Planes Enroute To Move Troops

High-Level Teams To Determine Scope Of Need

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States Wednesday moved quickly to aid India by dispatching a fact-finding team to New Delhi and assigning a dozen big cargo planes with American crews for urgently requested India airlift capacity.

The swiftness with which the United States acted indicated that President Kennedy was prepared to pump massive arms aid into India if necessary to help that country counter Communist Chinese border assaults.

High-Level Team Leaves

The high-level team of U.S. officials left nearby Andrews Air Force Base for India for an on-the-scene assessment of India's military needs in the current border crisis. Assistant Secretary of State W. Averell Harriman headed the team.

The State Department earlier announced that 12 C130 jet-prop transport planes would depart from U.S. bases in Europe for India Wednesday or Thursday.

The developments came as Red Chinese forces were reported to have broken through Indian lines and driven to within a few miles of the plains of Assam. Indian defenders were said to have fallen back 80 miles along the Lohit River along a route leading to the Digboi oilfields in eastern Assam.

Evaluate Cease-Fire

Meanwhile, India and the Western powers continued evaluation of Red China's offer Wednesday for a cease-fire and a drawback of troops from the disputed border zone.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said that in addition to the transport planes, the United States was "urgently working" on other Indian arms requests and "shipment will continue."

White said in response to questions that he was unable to say whether the Hercules cargo aircraft and their U.S. crews would fly into actual combat zones.

The purpose of sending them, he said, was to enable India to transfer its troops and military equipment more rapidly to meet the Red Chinese threat.

The Harriman team will determine what type of arms and equipment Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru meant when he issued a plea recently for "massive military aid" from the United States, Britain and others.

Harriman faces the task of deciding on what weapons to send, possible method of payment, and what the diplomatic repercussions would be of a large scale aid program.

Khrushchev Cancels All Combat Alerts

MOSCOW (UPI) —Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev Wednesday canceled all emergency "combat readiness" measures ordered at the height of the Cuban crisis and recalled Soviet submarines from the Caribbean.

Official announcements said relaxation of the special alerts of Soviet air, ground, sea and rocket forces was made possible by President Kennedy's lifting of the naval quarantine of Cuba.

The armed forces of the Warsaw Pact—the Communist counterpart of NATO—also were ordered to stand down from alerts ordered last month when Kennedy demanded the withdrawal of Soviet missile bases and bombers from Cuba.

According to the official announcements, Soviet Defense Marshal Rodion Malinovsky was instructed to call off the alerts on the "basis of agreement" reached by Khrushchev and Kennedy. It referred to Kennedy's decision to call off the quarantine of Cuba in light of Soviet pledges to withdraw its missiles and bombers from the island.

Terms of the order disclosed publicly for the first time the massive extent to which Soviet armed forces apparently girded for what appeared for a while like a possible military showdown with the United States.

Russian-Born Man Wanted By FBI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bank robber David Stanley Jacubanis, 52, a Russian-born "man without a country," was placed on the FBI's ten most wanted list Wednesday.

The FBI said Jacubanis is considered extremely dangerous. He is wanted for the $6,004 robbery last March 27 of the Dedham, Mass., bank.

He also is sought for parole violation, and is charged in Rhode Island with the robbery of a North Smithfield bank.

Teamsters Show Displeasure With President Hoffa

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz said Wednesday there are signs that rank and file members of the Teamsters Union are dissatisfied with their President James R. Hoffa.

Wirtz made the statement at the first formal news conference he has held since he succeeded Arthur J. Goldberg last August.

He was asked if he attached any significance to an election held recently in Philadelphia in which rebel Teamsters came close to overturning Hoffa's regulars in an effort to bargain for 9,000 drivers in the area.

Wirtz said the narrow vote in Philadelphia and other developments involving the Teamsters "suggests a very serious facing up" by Teamsters to Hoffa and his lieutenants.

Korean Orphan Made Citizen

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Alan Stevens, a shy Korean orphan two years ago, beamed with confidence Wednesday as he became an American citizen.

When enrolled in kindergarten in 1960, Alan was a frightened boy in a strange land. He was photographed peering from behind the protective arm of his foster father.

Yesterday, the youngster posed proudly, with a big smile. He has acquired self-confidence, sometimes too much, his mother said. She said Alan had virtually abandoned the Korean language and speaks English readily.

The Stevens said they would not try to make Alan forget Korea. They said also they hoped to adopt a Korean girl to join their family, which includes their own daughters, Wendy, 15; Dawn, 13, and Beth, 10.

Diplomats See Optimism In U.S.-Soviet Relations

MOSCOW (AP)—The agreement on Cuba touched off optimism in the Soviet capital Wednesday that a nuclear test ban might follow and later a Berlin settlement.

There was no definite feeling of urgency in high diplomatic quarters on these issues but an atmosphere of easing tension was clearly evident.

The Soviets canceled the state of combat readiness proclaimed for the Red armed forces at the height of the Cuban crisis. A similar alert that went out to Warsaw Pact military forces was called off.

One sign of better times—President Kennedy's statement on Cuba, made at a Washington press conference—was read in part over Moscow radio and distributed apparently in full to Soviet papers by the official news agency Tass.

Most American statements are cut to ribbons here, mingled with critical comment or raillery. Wednesday it was different. Premier Khrushchev's order pulling the Soviet submarines out of the Caribbean, calling off the rocket and armed alert, and removing the bombers from Cuba, was read slowly over Moscow radio after a fanfare that signals a special announcement.

A short time later, essential chunks of Kennedy's statement were read. Then Tass sent the text to the Soviet papers.

Following that came a reading of the Chinese directive for a cease-fire in the Himalayas, a bit of important news not given earlier to Moscow citizens.

AWOL Soldier Is Arrested For Kidnaping Young Girl

Army Pvt. Edward Dean Palmatier, 17, of South Bronson, Branch County, Mich., was accused of kidnaping Barbara Louise Fitzgerald of Groveton, Va., in the Washington suburb of Alexandria, Va.

The FBI said Palmatier took the girl into Washington, where she escaped unharmed, but Palmatier drove off with her automobile. Palmatier was absent without leave from Ft. Belvoir, Va., the FBI said.

At a hearing before U.S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart, Palmatier was held in lieu of $10,000 bail to await arrival of a warrant from Alexandria.

The red-haired soldier was arrested at Baltimore's Central Y.M.C.A. after he tried to borrow 10 cents from the office clerk to make a telephone call. The clerk recognized Palmatier — because he had talked to the FBI about the soldier — and called the FBI.

FBI agents and the city policeman on the beat, Patrolman Francis Howard, then made the arrest. Palmatier was not armed.

Miss Fitzgerald told police she was sitting in her car in a church parking lot Sunday when a stranger forced his way into the car and abducted her. She said the man told her he had hand grenades and a .45 caliber pistol in an overnight bag he was carrying.

When Palmatier left Washington Sunday night, the FBI said, he drove Miss Fitzgerald's car to Baltimore and registered at the Central Y.M.C.A. Agents said he had checked out sometime Tuesday but returned at 1 a.m. Wednesday.

The car has not been found.

Blockade Ships Steaming Into Home Ports

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A force of Cuban blockade ships bigger than the powerful 6th Fleet steamed into home ports Wednesday as the Cuban crisis settled into a lull. But difficult diplomatic problems remained.

The easing of tensions here was paralelled by the announcement in Moscow that the Soviet Union was canceling military preparedness measures it took last month at the height of the Cuban crisis.

At the same time, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said the Air Force will release more than 14,000 reservists called to active duty in the Cuban crisis, and the Navy was ready to cancel orders extending duty tours of an estimated 17,000 Navy men and Marines.

Both East and West cautioned against too much relaxation now that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has promised to take jet bombers out of Cuba.

McNamara, in a Thanksgiving Day message to all military and civilian personnel in the armed forces, emphasized President Kennedy's statement Tuesday night that "difficult problems remain."

Despite Russia's agreement to remove the bombers and the resulting end of the Cuba blockade, McNamara said the danger to peace has not been eliminated.

Luis Gomez Wanguemert, editor of the Cuban government-controlled newspaper El Mundo, used similar words. He said "danger still persists" while the United States continues reconnaissance flights over Cuba.

But for 25,000 men aboard 63 ships, the crisis had at least taken a holiday.

Pilots Sign Union Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trans World Airlines and its pilots and flight engineers signed an agreement here settling their long dispute over the makeup of jet cockpit crews. President Kennedy expressed hope it will set an industry pattern.

The President also commended the bargaining process that produced the settlement, as an example not only for the airlines but for other industries in working out the problems of technological change.

In essence, the new pact gives presently employed members of the Flight Engineers International Association priority for the third seat in jet airliner cockpits in cutting the crews from four men to three. After those men are out of the picture a third pilot takes over.

Insults Exchanged By Red Delegates

BUDAPEST, Hungary (UPI)—Soviet and Chinese Communist delegates traded angry insults before the Hungarian Communist party congress Wednesday over Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's handling of the Cuban crisis.

The exchange underlined differences between Moscow and Peking even though both delegates concentrated their attacks on favorite whipping boys in the Communist world.

The almost back-to-back exchange of recriminations took place before 1,300 delegates to the eighth Hungarian Communist party congress, including representatives from Cuba and other Soviet bloc nations.

Seismological Boat Blown To Pieces; Two Brothers Dead

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—A 55-foot fishing boat carrying five tons of dynamite for a seismological survey operation blew up in Cook Inlet late Tuesday and two brothers were "blown to smithereens."

Dead were Robert and Allen Roehl, Homer, Alaska. They were setting dynamite charges from the vessel Ketovia, under charter by the United Geophysical Corp. of Pasadena, Calif.

An eyewitness said that apparently the brothers got their signals mixed and set off a charge prematurely as it was just beyond the stern of the vessel.

"They must have been blown to smithereens," the eywitness said.

There was no trace of the vessel nor of the brothers Wednesday.

Nussbaum Enters Plea Of Innocent

NEW YORK (AP) — Albert F. Nussbaum pleaded innocent Wednesday at his arraignment on charges of participating in the $34,000 holdup of the Lafayette National Bank of Brooklyn last Dec. 15. A bank guard was slain by machine gun bullets in the robbery.

Nussbaum, tagged by the FBI as the brains behind "a vicious gang of bank robbers," was brought here Tuesday night by three U.S. deputy marshals from Buffalo where he was caught.

With his wrists and ankles manacled, Nussbaum, 28, appeared in Brooklyn federal court before Judge Walter Bruchhausen. The defendant, neatly dressed and well groomed, told the court he had no attorney and asked that one be appointed to represent him.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

It started a long time ago, when the harvest was done, the crops were in, and the earth once more had yielded of its bounty to man.

"When thou hast gathered in thy fruit of the barnfloor and of the winepress," wrote Moses, "thou shalt make merry in thy festival time, thou, thy son, and thy daughter, and the stranger within thy gates."

It was a time of thanksgiving in that ancient biblical era, and so it is today, a tradition that has traveled down the centuries, in many forms and many lands.

America celebrates it with family gatherings, with heaped tables, with games and travel, and with worship.

"It is fitting that we give our thanks for the safety of our land, for the fertility of our harvests, for the strength of our liberties, for the health of our people," President Kennedy said in the annual proclamation.

In the present age, it is not just the agricultural output that provisions man, and is cause for his gratitude, but also the industries, the arts, the sciences that treat his ills, the knowledge that enriches his mind, the inventions that broaden his potentialities, and the services and institutions that secure his rights.

In churches across the country, there will be special services, with music, and singing and prayer. Christians, of most denominations, will make annual offerings next Sunday to aid the needy, near and far.

The customary turkey is on the menu almost everywhere, at family reunions, in veterans' hospitals, in prisons, in orphanages, and at military posts.

Highways, railroad trains and airliners bulged with the usual surge of holiday travelers. Parades, pageants and football games were scheduled in many places.

President Kennedy is to spend Thanksgiving with his wife and daughter, Caroline, at their Hyannis Port, Mass., home. Son John Jr. was to remain in Washington with his nurse because of a cold. Most of the Kennedys are expected to be on hand at Hyannis Port.

Although the harvest-time festival, in many countries and ages, has taken on various customs, it has its own particular flavor and roots in America.

However, there was another American Thanksgiving, even before the Mayflower sailed to New England. It was on Dec. 14, 1619, after 39 colonists arrived from England at what is now Berkeley Plantation, Va.

There, the records state, Capt. John Woodleaf told the small company that the day "shall be yearly and perputually keept holy as a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God." The spelling is from the record.

The first president, George Washington, proclaimed the initial national observance, on Nov. 26, 1789, calling for thanks to God for his benefits, and urging prayers that he "render our national government a blessing to all the people."

Afterward there were various local and regional observances, and occasional presidential proclamations for Thanksgiving on different dates.

Not for almost a hundred years, in 1863, in the midst of the Civil War, did President Abraham Lincoln establish the annual national celebration, on the last Thursday of November.

He was asked if he attached any significance to an election held recently in Philadelphia in which rebel Teamsters came close to overturning Hoffa's regulars in an effort to bargain for 9,000 drivers in the area.

Wirtz said the narrow vote in Philadelphia and other developments involving the Teamsters "suggests a very serious facing up" by Teamsters to Hoffa and his lieutenants.

Korean Orphan Made Citizen

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Alan Stevens, a shy Korean orphan two years ago, beamed with confidence Wednesday as he became an American citizen.

When enrolled in kindergarten in 1960, Alan was a frightened boy in a strange land. He was photographed peering from behind the protective arm of his foster father.

Yesterday, the youngster posed proudly, with a big smile. He has acquired self-confidence, sometimes too much, his mother said. She said Alan had virtually abandoned the Korean language and speaks English readily.

The Stevens said they would not try to make Alan forget Korea. They said also they hoped to adopt a Korean girl to join their family, which includes their own daughters, Wendy, 15; Dawn, 13, and Beth, 10.

Diplomats See Optimism In U.S.-Soviet Relations

MOSCOW (AP)—The agreement on Cuba touched off optimism in the Soviet capital Wednesday that a nuclear test ban might follow and later a Berlin settlement.

There was no definite feeling of urgency in high diplomatic quarters on these issues but an atmosphere of easing tension was clearly evident.

The Soviets canceled the state of combat readiness proclaimed for the Red armed forces at the height of the Cuban crisis. A similar alert that went out to Warsaw Pact military forces was called off.

One sign of better times—President Kennedy's statement on Cuba, made at a Washington press conference—was read in part over Moscow radio and distributed apparently in full to Soviet papers by the official news agency Tass.

Most American statements are cut to ribbons here, mingled with critical comment or raillery. Wednesday it was different. Premier Khrushchev's order pulling the Soviet submarines out of the Caribbean, calling off the rocket and armed alert, and removing the bombers from Cuba, was read slowly over Moscow radio after a fanfare that signals a special announcement.

A short time later, essential chunks of Kennedy's statement were read. Then Tass sent the text to the Soviet papers.

Following that came a reading of the Chinese directive for a cease-fire in the Himalayas, a bit of important news not given earlier to Moscow citizens.

AWOL Soldier Is Arrested For Kidnaping Young Girl

Army Pvt. Edward Dean Palmatier, 17, of South Bronson, Branch County, Mich., was accused of kidnaping Barbara Louise Fitzgerald of Groveton, Va., in the Washington suburb of Alexandria, Va.

The FBI said Palmatier took the girl into Washington, where she escaped unharmed, but Palmatier drove off with her automobile. Palmatier was absent without leave from Ft. Belvoir, Va., the FBI said.

At a hearing before U.S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart, Palmatier was held in lieu of $10,000 bail to await arrival of a warrant from Alexandria.

The red-haired soldier was arrested at Baltimore's Central Y.M.C.A. after he tried to borrow 10 cents from the office clerk to make a telephone call. The clerk recognized Palmatier — because he had talked to the FBI about the soldier — and called the FBI.

FBI agents and the city policeman on the beat, Patrolman Francis Howard, then made the arrest. Palmatier was not armed.

Miss Fitzgerald told police she was sitting in her car in a church parking lot Sunday when a stranger forced his way into the car and abducted her. She said the man told her he had hand grenades and a .45 caliber pistol in an overnight bag he was carrying.

When Palmatier left Washington Sunday night, the FBI said, he drove Miss Fitzgerald's car to Baltimore and registered at the Central Y.M.C.A. Agents said he had checked out sometime Tuesday but returned at 1 a.m. Wednesday.

The car has not been found.

Blockade Ships Steaming Into Home Ports

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A force of Cuban blockade ships bigger than the powerful 6th Fleet steamed into home ports Wednesday as the Cuban crisis settled into a lull. But difficult diplomatic problems remained.

The easing of tensions here was paralelled by the announcement in Moscow that the Soviet Union was canceling military preparedness measures it took last month at the height of the Cuban crisis.

At the same time, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said the Air Force will release more than 14,000 reservists called to active duty in the Cuban crisis, and the Navy was ready to cancel orders extending duty tours of an estimated 17,000 Navy men and Marines.

Both East and West cautioned against too much relaxation now that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has promised to take jet bombers out of Cuba.

McNamara, in a Thanksgiving Day message to all military and civilian personnel in the armed forces, emphasized President Kennedy's statement Tuesday night that "difficult problems remain."

Despite Russia's agreement to remove the bombers and the resulting end of the Cuba blockade, McNamara said the danger to peace has not been eliminated.

Luis Gomez Wanguemert, editor of the Cuban government-controlled newspaper El Mundo, used similar words. He said "danger still persists" while the United States continues reconnaissance flights over Cuba.

But for 25,000 men aboard 63 ships, the crisis had at least taken a holiday.

Pilots Sign Union Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trans World Airlines and its pilots and flight engineers signed an agreement here settling their long dispute over the makeup of jet cockpit crews. President Kennedy expressed hope it will set an industry pattern.

The President also commended the bargaining process that produced the settlement, as an example not only for the airlines but for other industries in working out the problems of technological change.

In essence, the new pact gives presently employed members of the Flight Engineers International Association priority for the third seat in jet airliner cockpits in cutting the crews from four men to three. After those men are out of the picture a third pilot takes over.

Insults Exchanged By Red Delegates

BUDAPEST, Hungary (UPI)—Soviet and Chinese Communist delegates traded angry insults before the Hungarian Communist party congress Wednesday over Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's handling of the Cuban crisis.

The exchange underlined differences between Moscow and Peking even though both delegates concentrated their attacks on favorite whipping boys in the Communist world.

The almost back-to-back exchange of recriminations took place before 1,300 delegates to the eighth Hungarian Communist party congress, including representatives from Cuba and other Soviet bloc nations.

Seismological Boat Blown To Pieces; Two Brothers Dead

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—A 55-foot fishing boat carrying five tons of dynamite for a seismological survey operation blew up in Cook Inlet late Tuesday and two brothers were "blown to smithereens."

Dead were Robert and Allen Roehl, Homer, Alaska. They were setting dynamite charges from the vessel Ketovia, under charter by the United Geophysical Corp. of Pasadena, Calif.

An eyewitness said that apparently the brothers got their signals mixed and set off a charge prematurely as it was just beyond the stern of the vessel.

"They must have been blown to smithereens," the eywitness said.

There was no trace of the vessel nor of the brothers Wednesday.

Nussbaum Enters Plea Of Innocent

NEW YORK (AP) — Albert F. Nussbaum pleaded innocent Wednesday at his arraignment on charges of participating in the $34,000 holdup of the Lafayette National Bank of Brooklyn last Dec. 15. A bank guard was slain by machine gun bullets in the robbery.

Nussbaum, tagged by the FBI as the brains behind "a vicious gang of bank robbers," was brought here Tuesday night by three U.S. deputy marshals from Buffalo where he was caught.

With his wrists and ankles manacled, Nussbaum, 28, appeared in Brooklyn federal court before Judge Walter Bruchhausen. The defendant, neatly dressed and well groomed, told the court he had no attorney and asked that one be appointed to represent him.

AP Religion Writer

It started a long time ago, when the harvest was done, the crops were in, and the earth once more had yielded of its bounty to man.

"When thou hast gathered in thy fruit of the barnfloor and of the winepress," wrote Moses, "thou shalt make merry in thy festival time, thou, thy son, and thy daughter, and the stranger within thy gates."

It was a time of thanksgiving in that ancient biblical era, and so it is today, a tradition that has traveled down the centuries, in many forms and many lands.

America celebrates it with family gatherings, with heaped tables, with games and travel, and with worship.

"It is fitting that we give our thanks for the safety of our land, for the fertility of our harvests, for the strength of our liberties, for the health of our people," President Kennedy said in the annual proclamation.

In the present age, it is not just the agricultural output that provisions man, and is cause for his gratitude, but also the industries, the arts, the sciences that treat his ills, the knowledge that enriches his mind, the inventions that broaden his potentialities, and the services and institutions that secure his rights.

In churches across the country, there will be special services, with music, and singing and prayer. Christians, of most denominations, will make annual offerings next Sunday to aid the needy, near and far.

The customary turkey is on the menu almost everywhere, at family reunions, in veterans' hospitals, in prisons, in orphanages, and at military posts.

Highways, railroad trains and airliners bulged with the usual surge of holiday travelers. Parades, pageants and football games were scheduled in many places.

President Kennedy is to spend Thanksgiving with his wife and daughter, Caroline, at their Hyannis Port, Mass., home. Son John Jr. was to remain in Washington with his nurse because of a cold. Most of the Kennedys are expected to be on hand at Hyannis Port.

Although the harvest-time festival, in many countries and ages, has taken on various customs, it has its own particular flavor and roots in America.

Ordinarily, the first observance here is regarded as that of the Pilgrims in the autumn of 1621, celebrating their first harvest, after a hard year in the new land.

However, there was another American Thanksgiving, even before the Mayflower sailed to New England. It was on Dec. 14, 1619, after 39 colonists arrived from England at what is now Berkeley Plantation, Va.

There, the records state, Capt. John Woodleaf told the small company that the day "shall be yearly and perputually keept holy as a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God." The spelling is from the record.

The first president, George Washington, proclaimed the initial national observance, on Nov. 26, 1789, calling for thanks to God for his benefits, and urging prayers that he "render our national government a blessing to all the people."

Afterward there were various local and regional observances, and occasional presidential proclamations for Thanksgiving on different dates.

Not for almost a hundred years, in 1863, in the midst of the Civil War, did President Abraham Lincoln establish the annual national celebration, on the last Thursday of November.

Commissioner Of Education To Be Named

Kennedy To Make Announcement Over Weekend

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The White House Wednesday said a new United States commissioner of education is expected to be named sometime this weekend.

Figuring high in the speculation for the post of Francis Keppel, dean of the Harvard graduate school of education. The announcement will be made at Hyannis Port, Mass., where President Kennedy will be spending the Thanksgiving holiday.

Former Education Commissioner Sterlin M. McMurrin vacated the job last September.

The White House also put off until "some time this weekend" the naming of a new director of the Agency for International Development (AID), replacing Fowler Hamilton. Press Secretary Pierre Salinger previously had indicated the announcement of a new AID chief would be made before Kennedy departed for Cape Cod.

Other major Indian developments:

—Indian air force authorities began a round-the-clock airlift of the civilian population from Tezpur and other Assam towns in the path of the Chinese advance. Already aviation fuel was running short.

—British Royal Air Force planes arrived in Calcutta to fly out the approximately 1,700 British nationals in Assam. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said he believed the 200 Americans in Assam already were being removed.

—A major airlift of British supplies began arriving in Calcutta and more planes were expected shortly. U.S. and British high-level missions were en route to India to check its military needs.

Sen. Proxmire Urges Cut In 1963 Federal Spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., urged the administration Wednesday to cut spending in the 1963 budget if taxes are to be cut.

"For Congress even to consider the tax cut which business, labor, and top administration officials have been pushing so hard in recent days will be grossly irresponsible unless federal spending requests in the coming year are sharply cut back," Proxmire said.

He recalled his own "economy fight" during the 1962 session. The $7.8 billion deficit recently announced by the Treasury Department is, he said, "shocking evidence of the importance of carrying on the fight in 1963 more intensively than ever."

Proxmire figured that if his stand on economy had been adopted President Kennedy's recommended spending would have been cut by more than $5.5 billion.

This would have reduced domestic spending by almost $4 billion, 10 per cent under the President's recommendations, Proxmire said. Foreign aid would have been cut by more than $1.3 billion, 18 per cent less than Kennedy requested, he added.

Mexico's New Pro-Labor Laws To Affect Investors

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The government Wednesday enacted new pro-labor laws exepcted to affect adversely future foreign investment in Mexico.

President Adolfo Lopez Mateos signed a bill compelling industry to share profits with labor and requiring heavy indemnity payments for workers who are dismissed.

U.S. businessmen expressed fears the new law will act as a psychological brake on further investment. Finance Minister Antonio Ortiz Mena said, however, it will boost industrial output by enlarging employes' buying power.

The law makes it virtually impossible for companies to fire any employes to trim staffs and set up extensive dismissal pay provisions.

A special commission of government, labor and business representatives now has the task of drafting implementing regulations to spell out the basis for estimating the amount of corporate profits to be shared with workers.

The commission is to report to Congress next month and the completed law is expected to go into effect Jan. 1.

VA May Pay Extra Dividend On GI Insurance In 1963

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is considering payment of a special dividend during 1963 to holders of participating GI life insurance policies, it was learned Tuesday.

Sources in a position to know said tentative plans call for a special dividend of about $90 million in addition to a regular dividend of $230 million, with both payments to be covered in one check.

The regular dividend paid this year by the Veterans Administration was about $240 million. There were reports several months ago that this might be supplemented by a special dividend this year, but this idea apparently has been shelved.

There are now about 5,187,000 holders of participating GI life insurance policies, including nearly 4.9 million World War II veterans and 287,000 World War I veterans.

Head Police Association Favors Whipping Post Law

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Charles A. Dukes, president of the Delaware Association of Police said Tuesday statistics show that the whipping post is a deterrent to crime.

In a statement which he said had the backing o fthe membership, Dukes supported Judge Stewart Lynch of Superior Court who last week imposed a 20-lash sentence on Franklin W. Cannon Jr. of Dover for violation of probation after convicted of stealing a car.

Lynch last Saturday criticized what he termed the bleeding hearts and nice nellies crying over the flogging he had ordered.

Dukes, a retired Wilmington detective sergeant, said, "it is interesting to observe that not one of those persons who have voiced their opposition to this form of punishment has made any attempt whatsoever to make inquiries to learn the facts."

Lynch has not set a date for the whipping.

Government Reports

The reports diminished the likelihood of an economic recession early in 1963 and enhanced the possibility that the economy would continue to expand. There remained the chance that it would merely level off.

The world's population currently is more than two and one-half billion.

Learn The Joy Of Positive "Thanking"

There's an old truism that tells us much about ourselves: "You never miss the water 'til the well runs dry!" How many times do we catch ourselves counting our blessings by subtraction—instead of addition and multiplication.

Only at Thanksgiving time are we reminded to reflect in a positive way on the things that we have. For the rest of the year, we're apt to fall back on that negative habit of measuring ourselves and our lives by the things we don't have.

Any gifts we possess will seem greater only because another's gifts are fewer. We can appreciate our material abundance only when we're made consciously aware of others' poverty. Even the problems we're forced to solve, the crosses we're forced to bear become acceptable only when we can be shocked by the heavier burdens others must shoulder.

The secret of the balanced personality, the key to a naturally cheerful disposition is to practice a positive attitude. And the consistent keeping of a positive attitude of gratitude is a vital exercise in that practice.

How do we do this? By stretching that sincere Thanksgiving Day spirit to touch—and transform—every day of the year.

It's not hard if we make a point of taking a minute each morning, another minute each night, to do a little positive "thanking" for another day's opportunity to LIVE.

Good, bad and just humdrum, all our days should be met individually if we want to be able to replenish our hopes and desires to make the most of each minute they contain.

There's nothing Pollyanna about this sort of approach to life. We're not going to find that every day is "our" day and we know it! But even the bad days, the difficult times, the periods of physical breakdown and mental and emotional stress will come to serve our needs in a positive fashion, after a while. It's how we surmount the obstacles in these valleys of existence that gives genuine meaning to life at its peak.

That you and yours may come to experience this feeling is my hearty wish this Thanksgiving Day.

Mark Twain's Daughter Dies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The last of Mark Twain's four children died Monday night. She was Mrs. Clara Clemens Samossoud, 88. Death at Sharp Memorial Hospital followed a long illness of heart trouble and infirmities.

Mrs. Samossoud, wife of Jacques Alexander Samossoud, retired symphony orchestra and grand opera conductor, was one of three daughters of Samuel Clemens, who wrote under the name of Mark Twain. A son died in infancy.

Investor Study

NEW YORK (UPI) — Individual investors from every part of the country played a big role in the turbulent stock market of the last three trading days of May, a study by the New York Stock Exchange showed. The special study said that "persons in the middle and upper income brackets, both cash and margin customers, were particularly active sellers."

Progress Noted

MOSCOW (UPI) — The one-ton Soviet Mars probe launched Nov. 1 to photograph the planet was reported Wednesday to have covered 4,349,000 miles and "successfully continuing" its seven-month journey.

Small Doses Of Old-Fashioned Emetic May Make Sleeping Pills Suicide-Proof

By FRANK E. CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirteen years ago Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., suggested a way of preventing death from an overdose of sleeping pills. Kefauver's way proved wrong. But the suggestion led scientists to discover another way that may prove right.

Dr. Theodore Koppanyi says Kefauver's lead prompted research—at the Georgetown School of Medicine—into making barbiturate sleeping pills suicide-proof and accident - proof. Koppanyi heads the school's department of pharmacology.

Koppanyi said the method involves incorporating into sleeping pills another drug called Metrazole which acts as a stimulant—thereby providing an antidote to a barbiturate overdose.

And, he told a reporter, research is still under way—with promising preliminary results—to improve on the method and eliminate one possible physiological drawback to it.

Kefauver, in 1949, gave national publicity to an idea—credited originally to German scientists—to incorporate into every barbiturate tablet a small quantity of ipecac, a drug commonly used in medicine to promote vomiting.

In This Week, Kefauver wrote: "Take a little impecac and it doesn't act at all—you don't even feel it. Increase the dose beyond a certain point, however, and it will make you vomit. You bring it up, together with anything else you've swallowed.

"Used in sleeping pills, therefore, it acts as a perfect safety valve. You can't overdose yourself because the overdose brings its own correction."

Kefauver was so enthused he introduced legislation "that would make it compulsory to include ipecac in all commercial preparations containing barbiturate." His bill was referred to a committee but never reached the Senate.

"It seemed like a great idea," he recalls. "But, unfortunately, it didn't work out."

"For one thing, research revealed, the barbiturate tends to depress the body's vomiting mechanism as controlled by the brain—thus obviating the vomiting-promoting powers of the ipecac.

"Moreover through animal tests it was found that small, daily doses of impecac, taken over a long period of time—as would be required for certain patients taking barbiturates regularly under doctor's orders—could cause damage to the liver and the bone marrow, and possibly even to the heart."

But the Georgetown researchers, and colleagues elsewhere, decided then to explore other possible avenues.

Finally, they came up with an entirely new approach.

They fashioned sleeping pills containing, in addition to the barbiturate, a quantity of Metrazole—a drug often used in the treatment of schzophrenia, a mental illness, to stimulate certain centers of the brain.

In experiments with animals and human volunteers, it was found that while the normal, sedative effect of one or two pills was not prevented by Metrazole, there was a distinct "antagonistic" effect against the barbiturate when overdoses were purposely employed.

Learn The Joy Of Positive "Thanking"

There's an old truism that tells us much about ourselves: "You never miss the water 'til the well runs dry!" How many times do we catch ourselves counting our blessings by subtraction—instead of addition and multiplication.

Secrets Of Charm

Applied Techniques For Flowing Grace

Grace only comes to those who work for it—no one was ever born with it. With a little instruction and practice, your everyday motion can achieve the flow of a ballerina on opening night.

In such training programs, plenty of emphasis is always placed on the arms. They are a chief source of feminine litheness even in such commonplace actions as passing a teacup or sweeping the floor.

As a matter of fact, the familiar broom if wielded correctly is an excellent instrument for teaching your arms to move without ugly tension and with attractive ease. To get the best results, and this is true both cleaningwise and beautywise, start the swinging of a broom from your shoulder joints and let the motion follow through well-extended elbows to relaxed wrists in a graceful rhythmic sweep.

Get the feel of this action and you will overcome the primary obstacles to graceful arms—rigid shoulders, sharply bent elbows and wrists propelled in nervous jerks. Transpose it into every motion you make with your arms and you will not only increase their grace but tone and firm them into greater symmetry. What appealing appendages to your charm they'll prove then!

To speed the effect, perform this exercise night and morning. Stand with your arms relaxed at your sides. Imagine that someone is standing just beyond your grasp and handing you some object. Reach out for it by bringing your arm up first from the shoulder joint, then, extending the elbow; and lastly, the hand. Practice with both arms and each time see whether you can feel the ripple of grace flow from your shoulder to your finger tips.

When you unfailingly can feel it, your arms will be a joy to possess and to behold!

Easy-to-learn dance steps will bring you added grace and charm! "Dance through a Week to Beauty" shows them . . . quickly, simply. Get your copy now — just send 10c and a stamped, return envelope to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this newspaper.

Stay Is Granted 3 Californians

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas Tuesday granted a stay of execution to three Californians scheduled to die Nov. 30 for the fatal shooting of the owner of a bar in Anaheim in 1959.

The men are Joseph Rosoto, John F. Vlahovich and Donald G. Franklin.

The stay is valid until the three have filed an appeal with the Supreme Court and have obtained action on it.

15 Poles Defect

Khrushchev Says Party Has Embezellers, Bribe-Takers Among Top Red Officials

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has told the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party that "some leading officials" have been involved in bribery totaling more than $61 million in government money and materials, it was disclosed Tuesday.

He said the "leading officials" included Communist party members. And that the bribery total was calculated for the first half of 1961 alone.

Khrushchev told the committee that "swindlers, embezzlers and bribe-takers" must be put out of business.

The disclosures came with the publication of the full text of Khrushchev's five hour speech to the committee meeting Monday. The summary previously released said only that Khrushchev attacked "corruption, extravagance and embezzlement."

The Soviet leader told the 330 committee members that 72,000 tons of grain had been taken from the state in the Russian federation, the Ukraine, Kazakhstan and Lithuania.

"It has been established that they (the embezzlers) made use of negligent control of grain storage, harvesting and grain transportation," he said.

Khrushchev said embezzling of funds and materials had brought much harm to the national economy and added: "Only the cases admitted by the courts in the first half of 1962 totaled over 56 million rubles ($61 million).

The Soviet leader said the "cancer" of bribery had "penetrated certain central offices and departments ... some leading officials who have party cards have contracted it."

As millions of Soviet citizens read the premier's words, speaker after speaker praised his plans for sweeping party reorganization and declared the remnants of Stalinism were a drag on the economy.

It was Khrushchev himself who almost two years ago launched an attack on corrupt officials in farm areas. In recent months, numerous cases of embezzlement and bribery have been reported in the Soviet press and death sentences have been meted out.

Khrushchev's disclosures indicated the problem of corruption was far from solved. Western observers said weeding out dishonesty from party ranks might be one reason behind the wholesale party shakeup he outlined Monday.

The committee urged that the present ban on new associate memberships be continued but that no definite cut-off date be adopted for existing associate memberships which contribute 25 per cent of AMEX business.

Jane Hamilton Platt Becomes Bride Of Harold Patrick Cooper

Miss Jane Hamilton Platt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Platt, 227 Hillside Avenue, Charlotte, N. C., former residents here, became the bride of Harold Patrick Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Cooper, Munden, Kans., yesterday.

The ceremony was solemnized in Myers Park Methodist Church, Charlotte, at 4:30 p. m., with Rev. William B. Bobbitt Jr. officiating.

Mrs. Doris Helms, Granby, Mass., was her sister's matron of honor; and Mrs. Marlene Dawson, Ellicott City, bridesmaid, and Ellen Sander, Falls Church, Va., niece of the bride, was the flower girl. Richard Taketa, El Paso, Texas, served as Mr. Cooper's best man, while John J. Dawson, Ellicott City, was groomsman; and Clement F. Pease, Plainfield, N. J., was the usher.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Doris Williams, Charlotte, soloist; and Frank Jordan, Durham, N. C., organist. It included Handel's Adagio and Adante, from Concerto I; Bach's chorale preludes, "Comest Thou, Lord Jesus," and "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring;" Brahms' "Lo, How a Rose Is Blooming;" Prelude in B Minor, Franck; Lied, Vierne; Prelude on a Welsh hymntune, "Rhosymedre", Vaughn Williams; "In Thee Is Gladness," Bach; Aria in F Major, Handel, and Promenade, Coke-Jephcott.

Her attendants wore gold satin sheath dresses, designed with high scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves, accented with a cascade back. Their bouquets were of bronze mums. The flower girl wore a gold velvet dress and carried a basket of yellow daisies.

The bride attended Allegany High School, graduated from Myers Park High School in 1955 and Duke University in 1959, where she was a Phi Beta Kappa and served as director of Christian education in Washington. She now is a student at Garrett Theological Seminary, Evanston, Ill.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Kansas Wesleyan in 1959, and served in the Park Ministry of the National Council of Churches. Presently he is a student at Garrett Theological Seminary.

Mr. and Mrs. Platt entertained with a wedding reception honoring their daughter and her bridal party following the ceremony. It was held in Ownbey Hall in the church. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Carl A. Sander Jr., Falls Church, sister of the bride, who poured the coffee; Mrs. W. A. McGraw, Cumberland, who presided at the punchbowl; Mrs. Guy P. Walker, Washington, cut the cake; and Mrs. Clement Pease, Plainfield, was in charge of the guest book.

For their wedding trip in the West Virginia mountains, the bride wore a brown tweed three-piece suit with brown accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper will reside at 2215 Maple Street, Evanston, Ill.

Out of town guests attending were Miss Dorothy Willison, Mrs. Franklin W. Kremer, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley A. McGraw, Cumberland; Mr. and Mrs. Guy P. Walker, Thomas MacMannis, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Clement Pease, Plainfield, and Susan Helms, Granby, Mass.

Bridge Winners Are Announced

With a score of 125, Mrs. James Rexroad and Miss Louise Zihlman topped the field in the Potomac Valley Bridge Club game, Tuesday evening at the civic club house. Nine tables were in play with an average of 108. Other North-South winners were A. J. Feigus, Mrs. Barnet Leibowitz, 119; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Trimmier, 112; Mrs. A. J. Feigus and Russ Minter, 108½.

Jane Hamilton Platt Becomes Bride Of Harold Patrick Cooper

Miss Jane Hamilton Platt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Platt, 227 Hillside Avenue, Charlotte, N. C., former residents here, became the bride of Harold Patrick Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Cooper, Munden, Kans., yesterday.

The ceremony was solemnized in Myers Park Methodist Church, Charlotte, at 4:30 p. m., with Rev. William B. Bobbitt Jr. officiating.

Mrs. Doris Helms, Granby, Mass., was her sister's matron of honor; and Mrs. Marlene Dawson, Ellicott City, bridesmaid, and Ellen Sander, Falls Church, Va., niece of the bride, was the flower girl. Richard Taketa, El Paso, Texas, served as Mr. Cooper's best man, while John J. Dawson, Ellicott City, was groomsman; and Clement F. Pease, Plainfield, N. J., was the usher.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Doris Williams, Charlotte, soloist; and Frank Jordan, Durham, N. C., organist. It included Handel's Adagio and Adante, from Concerto I; Bach's chorale preludes, "Comest Thou, Lord Jesus," and "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring;" Brahms' "Lo, How a Rose Is Blooming;" Prelude in B Minor, Franck; Lied, Vierne; Prelude on a Welsh hymntune, "Rhosymedre", Vaughn Williams; "In Thee Is Gladness," Bach; Aria in F Major, Handel, and Promenade, Coke-Jephcott.

Her attendants wore gold satin sheath dresses, designed with high scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves, accented with a cascade back. Their bouquets were of bronze mums. The flower girl wore a gold velvet dress and carried a basket of yellow daisies.

The bride attended Allegany High School, graduated from Myers Park High School in 1955 and Duke University in 1959, where she was a Phi Beta Kappa and served as director of Christian education in Washington. She now is a student at Garrett Theological Seminary, Evanston, Ill.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Kansas Wesleyan in 1959, and served in the Park Ministry of the National Council of Churches. Presently he is a student at Garrett Theological Seminary.

Mr. and Mrs. Platt entertained with a wedding reception honoring their daughter and her bridal party following the ceremony. It was held in Ownbey Hall in the church. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Carl A. Sander Jr., Falls Church, sister of the bride, who poured the coffee; Mrs. W. A. McGraw, Cumberland, who presided at the punchbowl; Mrs. Guy P. Walker, Washington, cut the cake; and Mrs. Clement Pease, Plainfield, was in charge of the guest book.

Out of town guests attending were Miss Dorothy Willison, Mrs. Franklin W. Kremer, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley A. McGraw, Cumberland; Mr. and Mrs. Guy P. Walker, Thomas MacMannis, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Clement Pease, Plainfield, and Susan Helms, Granby, Mass.

Opening lead: King of ♠

I follow the Perry Mason shows with devoted regularity not merely because I am fond of Erle Stanley Gardner, the author and Raymond Burr the leading man, but because this activity tends to keep me in fine fettle at the bridge table. The successful detective thrives on analysis of the evidence and so should the enterprising bridge player.

In today's hand West shaded his opening no trump down to 15 points, perhaps with an eye on inhibiting his vulnerable opponents, but they were not to be denied and promptly bid themselves into a game in hearts.

West opened the king of spades and then continued with the ace and the queen. With the defensive book in, he shifted to the nine of clubs. Mindful of East's two club bid, South put up the ace from dummy and then returned the queen. East followed with a small club and, after some thot, declarer ruffed in his hand.

The queen of hearts was put thru next and West covered with the king. Trumps were mopped up in two more leads and declarer now tried the diamond finesse. East produced the queen, however, for the setting trick.

It was admittedly a surprising development when East turned up with the queen of diamonds but, had declarer taken time out to count West's one no trump opening, he would have realized that his contract did not hinge on the location of that card. West has shown up with nine points in spades at trick three. He is presumably marked with the king of hearts which brings the total to 12. If he has the queen of diamonds but not the king of clubs, his point count comes to only 14. While it is true that possession of the king of clubs without the diamond honor gives him only 15 points which is still below par, he might conceivably shade his bid by one point. It is doubtful, however, that he would risk misinforming his partner by two points.

On this basis, South should take a club finesse at trick four when West shifts to that suit. When the queen of clubs holds, all that remains is to pick up the king of hearts and, after trumps are drawn, discard a diamond on North's ace of clubs.

East found that possession of the master trump proved to be a millstone around his neck in today's hand. He could have eluded declarer's trap, however, had he maintained a firmer control over the proceedings.

North felt that a simple raise of South's opening one diamond bid did not quite do justice to his holding, and he responded with one no trump in the hope that this would elicit further action from partner. There was the consideration that, if game were to be contemplated, it might prove easier to win the nine tricks required at a no trump contract.

East entered the proceedings by overcalling with two hearts, and South freely rebid three diamonds. When North raised to four, South cheerfully proceeded to game in diamonds which East doubled.

West opened the queen of hearts and East signalled encouragingly with the nine. Declarer contemplated the situation momentarily and then permitted his opponent to hold the trick. West continued with another heart, and South captured East's jack with the ace.

The jack of clubs was led to dummy's ace and the remaining club ruffed in the closed hand. Declarer's last heart was trumped in the dummy, setting the stage for an end play. A diamond was led throwing East in, and the latter was confronted with a choice of equally unpleasant alternatives. If he returned a spade it would present South with a free finesse, and if he led either a heart or a club it would give declarer a ruff and sluff.

East should have realized the danger inherent in retaining the lone ace of trumps for too long a time. At trick one, he must seize the initiative by overtaking West's queen of hearts lead with the king. If declarer permits him to hold the trick, he will be able to cash the ace of trumps before getting out. If South plays the ace of hearts, on the other hand, it will enable East to exit safely with a heart later on when he is thrown into the lead.

Pilgrims Had Many Reasons For Thanksgiving

By D R.GLEASON L. ARCHER
Written For UPI

PEMBROKE, Mass. (UPI) — The Pilgrims had good reasons for holding a Thanksgiving celebration in November of 1621.

They had survived a visitation of death that had taken half their number since coming to America. They had been delivered from Indian hostility. They had endured famine all summer long while desperately laboring to raise a strange grain. That crop was now harvested — 20 acres of Indian corn.

Now, in autumn's golden days, innumerable ducks and geese had suddenly appeared in Plymouth—manna from heaven for the 25 children and 23 adults of the settlement.

They must give thanks as a people to God. And so Governor Bradford had set a day for the great event — a day of prayer and feasting in the public square of their palisaded settlement.

They would set an example for the heathen Indians, and so they had invited Massasoit to be their guest at the joyous festival.

Their impulsive invitation had hinted that the Indian king might bring a few of his close friends to share their bounty.

But when the royal party appeared on Watson's Hill, across Town Brook, on the morning of the great day, there were no fewer than 90 hungry Indians.

Pilgrim leaders were appalled. The wild fowl that they had killed and dressed, the lobsters that they had gathered, the bushels of clams they had dug would be a mere snack for this multitude!

The friendly Indian, Squanto, was sent to parley with the Indian king to head off the 90 hungry savages. He commanded them to return to the forest for deer and wild turkeys.

"No catchum, no eatum," or words to that effect, Squanto told them.

The might hunters of Pokanoket soon returned in triumph with five deer and many wild turkeys. Indian cooks joined their hosts in the mighty barbecue.

When all was ready, gray-bearded Elder Brewster rose and gave thanks to God.

To the Pilgrims' surprise, the Indians lingered, continuing the feast the next day, and the day after that, until the last turkey drumstick had been gnawed to the gone.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Tucson jeweler Fred Fisher sent a statement to a customer whose account was paid up to date. He included this couplet:

"Nary a penny, sou, or farthing due,
"The coffee's hot and we miss you."

A few days later the statement was returned with this message:

"Your message of glad tidings was received today;

"Its contents were noted and filed away.

"For save I must each penny, farthing and sou;

Thief At Work

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sidney H. Cox told police someone stole his 22-ton tractor from a construction site in Phoenix.

And, the 47-year-old contractor added, the thief first used the tractor to build a dirt ramp so he could drive the vehicle onto a wide flatbed truck.

Whacks Out Fire

HOLBROOK, Mass. (AP) — Holbrook has a hot dog.

Her name is Spanner. She's the Fire Department mascot, hasn't missed a fire in four and one-half years.

They'll Put It Back

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard is being partly dismantled. But don't worry. The 75 tons of Dartmoor granite being removed will be put back.

It's all part of a program of building an underground (subway) station in the area.

Each stone is carefully marked before being moved.

It is intended that when completed Scotland Yard will look exactly as it has done since constructed more than 50 years ago.

The work is expected to last about a year.

Answer To Thursday's Puzzle

On Her Toes

NASHVILLE (AP) — An international ballet star has admitted with unprofessional frankness what the non-dancer has believed all along: toe dancing can be hard on the toes.

"Dancing is not really a natural thing for the body but we have to make it look natural," said Toni Lander, blonde beauty who was born in Copenhagen, lives in Paris and dances with the American Ballet Theater.

The remedy, she said, is universal:

"We soak our feet. But if we don't have time to worry with them, we just grin and bear it."

Orders Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Paperboard orders last week rose to 346,835 tons from 320,004 tons the previous week and 292,355 tons a year ago, the National Paperboard Association reported. However, production declined to 340,565 tons from 355,229 the previous week and 347,339 a year ago.

A single quart of sea water may contain as many as 100 thousand plankton, microscopic ocean organisms on which fish feed.

Young Choir Singer, Minister Arrested

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—A Texas Baptist minister and a 16-year-old choir singer who had been missing from their home town since Nov. 2 were in jail yesterday after police received a tip that they had been living together in a Wichita apartment since Nov. 6.

Picked up by officers were Flora Jean Cole and the Rev. Leroy Daniels, 27, both of Tatum, Tex.

Daniels was working at a liquor wholesale house here.

Officers said the minister had agreed to waive extradition so he can be returned to Texas where he faces a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Dislikes His Product

DUXBURY, Mass. (AP) — Eighty-six-year-old H. E. Merry isn't fond of chickens or eggs, but they're providing a pretty good living for him in his retirement.

When Merry retired from the meat business 10 years ago, he began raising Rhode Island Red chickens and selling "extra large eggs." He says seven of every dozen are double-yolked. He has peddled as many as 215 dozen in a week.

Even so, Merry says, "I dislike both eggs and chickens."

Food Damage Heavy

BELGRADE (UPI)—The flood-stricken province of Macedonia suffered damage estimated to exceed $13 million and several hundred acres of cultivated land still are under water, the official news agency Tanjug reported Wednesday.

Navy Secretary Visits Guantanamo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Navy Secretary Fred Korth announced Wednesday that he will spend Thanksgiving Day at the U.S. naval base on Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

The secretary said he would attend a briefing, tour the base, have dinner and then hold a short press conference.

About 55 per cent of fatal traffic accidents in the United States occur at night.

Answer To Thursday's Puzzle

On Her Toes

NASHVILLE (AP) — An international ballet star has admitted with unprofessional frankness what the non-dancer has believed all along: toe dancing can be hard on the toes.

"Dancing is not really a natural thing for the body but we have to make it look natural," said Toni Lander, blonde beauty who was born in Copenhagen, lives in Paris and dances with the American Ballet Theater.

The remedy, she said, is universal:

"We soak our feet. But if we don't have time to worry with them, we just grin and bear it."

Orders Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Paperboard orders last week rose to 346,835 tons from 320,004 tons the previous week and 292,355 tons a year ago, the National Paperboard Association reported. However, production declined to 340,565 tons from 355,229 the previous week and 347,339 a year ago.

A single quart of sea water may contain as many as 100 thousand plankton, microscopic ocean organisms on which fish feed.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Young Choir Singer, Minister Arrested

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—A Texas Baptist minister and a 16-year-old choir singer who had been missing from their home town since Nov. 2 were in jail yesterday after police received a tip that they had been living together in a Wichita apartment since Nov. 6.

Picked up by officers were Flora Jean Cole and the Rev. Leroy Daniels, 27, both of Tatum, Tex.

Daniels was working at a liquor wholesale house here.

Officers said the minister had agreed to waive extradition so he can be returned to Texas where he faces a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Dislikes His Product

DUXBURY, Mass. (AP) — Eighty-six-year-old H. E. Merry isn't fond of chickens or eggs, but they're providing a pretty good living for him in his retirement.

When Merry retired from the meat business 10 years ago, he began raising Rhode Island Red chickens and selling "extra large eggs." He says seven of every dozen are double-yolked. He has peddled as many as 215 dozen in a week.

Even so, Merry says, "I dislike both eggs and chickens."

Food Damage Heavy

BELGRADE (UPI)—The flood-stricken province of Macedonia suffered damage estimated to exceed $13 million and several hundred acres of cultivated land still are under water, the official news agency Tanjug reported Wednesday.

Navy Secretary Visits Guantanamo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Navy Secretary Fred Korth announced Wednesday that he will spend Thanksgiving Day at the U.S. naval base on Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

The secretary said he would attend a briefing, tour the base, have dinner and then hold a short press conference.

About 55 per cent of fatal traffic accidents in the United States occur at night.

U2 Spy Planes Returned To United States

LONDON (UPI) — The British air ministry Tuesday night announced that an American detachment of U2 high altitude reconnaissance planes based here have returned to the United States.

An air ministry statement said that the planes—the same type "spy aircraft" in which Francis Gary Powers was shot down over Russia — have "completed their current program of atmospheric sampling and high altitude meteorological research."

It was understood the planes left Monday.

It was known that the detachment recently working out of an English base was sampling the atmosphere for radioactive counts in connection with Russian nuclear tests.

Those tests were supposed to end by Tuesday, according to a promise made by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in Moscow.

The detachment that was withdrawn consisted of three planes which arrived at the U.S. Air Force Base at Upper Heyford on Aug. 19.

Red Scientists Contact Mars 1

MOSCOW (UPI) — Scientists made contact with the Mars 1 space probe Tuesday, the Soviet news agency Tass said yesterday.

It said the probe then was 6,350,000 kilometers (about 3,970,000 miles) from earth.

The news agency said contact had been made several times since Nov. 12 and scientists had received information on its functioning, which was normal.

The probe was launched Nov. 1 on its 45-million mile journey.

Husbands Still Wear Pants In Europe

NEW YORK (UPI)—In Europe, the husband still wears the pants —and still buys the auto, the furniture or even the dishes.

That's the firm conviction of Ludwig von Kleydorff, a business management consultant just returned from Germany. He told the International Executives Association Tuesday that the husband is the key to the consumer goods boom in Europe.

Whereas in the United States, women buy 95 per cent of ordinary goods, and often have the decisive voice in buying the big ticket items, such as the family car, in Europe it's different.

"Men buy or make the decisions on virtually all buying in Europe," von Kleydorff said. "Women are afraid to buy labor saving devices for their husbands will think they're lazy. It's the considerate husband who must be sold on something to save his wife's time and complexion."

Structural Failure Blamed In Plane Crash

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) —Space agency scientists said Tuesday an official investigation has indicated structural failure caused the X15 rocket ship to crash recently during an emergency landing.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said a preliminary probe of the crash, in which the X15 flipped over twice on a dry mud lake, pointed toward structural failure in the ship's nose landing gear.

At the time of the incident, the Air Force, which conducts X15 flights with NASA, said it was believed that one of the ski-like skids on which the rocket plane lands ran into a crack on Mud Lake, Nev., during an emergency landing Nov. 10.

U2 Spy Planes Returned To United States

LONDON (UPI) — The British air ministry Tuesday night announced that an American detachment of U2 high altitude reconnaissance planes based here have returned to the United States.

An air ministry statement said that the planes—the same type "spy aircraft" in which Francis Gary Powers was shot down over Russia — have "completed their current program of atmospheric sampling and high altitude meteorological research."

It was understood the planes left Monday.

It was known that the detachment recently working out of an English base was sampling the atmosphere for radioactive counts in connection with Russian nuclear tests.

Those tests were supposed to end by Tuesday, according to a promise made by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in Moscow.

The detachment that was withdrawn consisted of three planes which arrived at the U.S. Air Force Base at Upper Heyford on Aug. 19.

Red Scientists Contact Mars 1

MOSCOW (UPI) — Scientists made contact with the Mars 1 space probe Tuesday, the Soviet news agency Tass said yesterday.

It said the probe then was 6,350,000 kilometers (about 3,970,000 miles) from earth.

The news agency said contact had been made several times since Nov. 12 and scientists had received information on its functioning, which was normal.

The probe was launched Nov. 1 on its 45-million mile journey.

Husbands Still Wear Pants In Europe

NEW YORK (UPI)—In Europe, the husband still wears the pants —and still buys the auto, the furniture or even the dishes.

That's the firm conviction of Ludwig von Kleydorff, a business management consultant just returned from Germany. He told the International Executives Association Tuesday that the husband is the key to the consumer goods boom in Europe.

Whereas in the United States, women buy 95 per cent of ordinary goods, and often have the decisive voice in buying the big ticket items, such as the family car, in Europe it's different.

"Men buy or make the decisions on virtually all buying in Europe," von Kleydorff said. "Women are afraid to buy labor saving devices for their husbands will think they're lazy. It's the considerate husband who must be sold on something to save his wife's time and complexion."

Structural Failure Blamed In Plane Crash

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) —Space agency scientists said Tuesday an official investigation has indicated structural failure caused the X15 rocket ship to crash recently during an emergency landing.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said a preliminary probe of the crash, in which the X15 flipped over twice on a dry mud lake, pointed toward structural failure in the ship's nose landing gear.

At the time of the incident, the Air Force, which conducts X15 flights with NASA, said it was believed that one of the ski-like skids on which the rocket plane lands ran into a crack on Mud Lake, Nev., during an emergency landing Nov. 10.

NEWS IN BRIEF FROM AROUND STATE OF MARYLAND

BALTIMORE (AP) — The second in a series of postgraduate courses for Maryland physicians will be offered Nov. 29 and 30 at Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown.

The series is sponsored by the University of Maryland School of Medicine. The course is titled "Advances in Medicine."

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Employment Service reported Wednesday it had placed 60.4 per cent more clerical and sales personnel during October than during October of 1961.

Cromwell also reported nonfarm placements of 7,609 during October, a 25 per cent increase compared to October of 1961.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Members of the Maryland General Assembly will begin a tour of the state's mental hospitals next week with a visit to Crownsville on Monday.

The purpose of the tour is to show legislators how Maryland's $25 million annual budget is used in treatment of the mentally ill. After Crownsville, the lawmakers will visit Spring Grove Tuesday, Springfield and Eastern Shore Wednesday, Rosewood Thursday and Clifton T. Perkins Friday.

Easton, md. (AP) — There were red faces at the Talbot County Jail Wednesday after a tiny blonde locked a deputy sheriff in her cell and escaped.

Deputy Thomas J. Faulkner was delivering the morning newspaper to Teresa Hays, 28, formerly of Alexanria, Va., when she slammed the cell door shut, locking Faulkner inside.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Maryland's 60,000 boat owners must register their craft because their certificates expire Dec. 31.

The Department of Tidewater Fisheries has mailed out reregistration blanks to all the boat owners in the state. William B. Matthews Jr., chief of the boating and recreation division, said numbers of the boats would not be changed.

MARTINSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — It had to come: The Old National Bank in Martinsburg is offering trading stamps on Christmas Savings Club accounts.

A spokesman said he thought it was the first time a bank had offered trading stamps for deposits.

The bank said it would give one stamp for each dollar deposited.

President Kennedy's Thanksgiving Message

Over three centuries ago in Plymouth, on Massachusetts Bay, the Pilgrims established the custom of gathering together each year to express their gratitude to God for the preservation of their community and for the harvests there labors brought forth in the new land. Joining with their neighbors, they shared together and worshipped together in a common giving of thanks. Thanksgiving Day has ever since been part of the fabric which has united Americans with their past, with each other and with the future of all mankind.

It is fitting that we observe this year our own day of thanksgiving. It is fitting that we give our thanks for the safety of our land, for the fertility of our harvests, for the strength of our liberties, for the health of our people. We do so in no spirit of self-righteousness. We recognize that we are the beneficiaries of the toil and devotion of our fathers and that we can pass their legacy on to our children only by equal toil and equal devotion. We recognize too that we live in a world of peril and change—and in so uncertain a time we are all the more grateful for the indestructible gifts of hope and love, which sustain us in adversity and inspire us to labor unceasingly for a more perfect community within this nation and around the earth.

Now, therefore, I, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States of America, in accord with the joint resolution of Congress, approved December 26, 1941, which designates the fourth Thursday in November of each year as Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, the twenty-second day of November of this year, as a day of national thanksgiving.

I urge that all observe this day with reverence and with humility.

Let us renew the spirit of the Pilgrims at the first Thanksgiving, lonely in an inscrutable wilderness, facing the dark unknown with a faith borne of their dedication to God and a fortitude drawn from their sense that all men were brothers.

Let us renew that spirit by offering our thanks for uncovenanted mercies, beyond our desert or merit, and by resolving to meet the responsibilities placed upon us.

Let us renew that spirit by sharing the abundance of this day with those less fortunate, in our own land and abroad. Let us renew that spirit by seeking always to establish larger communities of brotherhood.

Let us renew that spirit by preparing our souls for the incertitudes ahead — by being always ready to confront crisis with steadfastness and achievement with grace and modesty.

Let us renew that spirit by concerting our energy and our hope with men and women everywhere that the world may move more rapidly toward the time when Thanksgiving may be a day of universal celebration.

Let us renew that spirit by expressing our acceptance of the limitations of human striving and by affirming our duty to strive nonetheless, as Providence may direct us, toward a better world for all mankind.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

We recognize too that we live in a world of peril and change—and in so uncertain a time we are all the more grateful for the indestructible gifts of hope and love, which sustain us in adversity and inspire us to labor unceasingly for a more perfect community within this nation and around the earth.

Now, therefore, I, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States of America, in accord with the joint resolution of Congress, approved December 26, 1941, which designates the fourth Thursday in November of each year as Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, the twenty-second day of November of this year, as a day of national thanksgiving.

I urge that all observe this day with reverence and with humility.

Let us renew the spirit of the Pilgrims at the first Thanksgiving, lonely in an inscrutable wilderness, facing the dark unknown with a faith borne of their dedication to God and a fortitude drawn from their sense that all men were brothers.

Let us renew that spirit by offering our thanks for uncovenanted mercies, beyond our desert or merit, and by resolving to meet the responsibilities placed upon us.

Let us renew that spirit by sharing the abundance of this day with those less fortunate, in our own land and abroad. Let us renew that spirit by seeking always to establish larger communities of brotherhood.

Let us renew that spirit by preparing our souls for the incertitudes ahead — by being always ready to confront crisis with steadfastness and achievement with grace and modesty.

Let us renew that spirit by concerting our energy and our hope with men and women everywhere that the world may move more rapidly toward the time when Thanksgiving may be a day of universal celebration.

Let us renew that spirit by expressing our acceptance of the limitations of human striving and by affirming our duty to strive nonetheless, as Providence may direct us, toward a better world for all mankind.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

CHINESE COMMUNISTS PUSH INTO INDIA—Members of a family of the Himalaya Dafla tribe arrive at a wayside bazar in the Assam Plains, India, after being driven from their home by invading Communist Chinese. Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru told Parliament that "we should expect the worst and be prepared for it." He also announced the new appointment of Lt. Gen. J. M. Choudhery as Commander-in-Chief of the Army to try to stem Communist drive into India.

New Color Inspired By Glenn's Flight

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — It probably will come as a surprise to Lt. Col. John E. Glenn but his achievement in being the first American to orbit the earth has been a big help to the Fashion Committee of the Italian Apparel Manufacturers Association for Spring 1963.

He inspired a new color, called "The Glenn Limit," when he described the reddish band seen at the extremity of the atmosphere. And, as translated into Italian men's wear for Spring 1963, its a blended plum background with shadings to Cardinal purple.

It is one of the novelty colors presented in a collection that includes a variation on bottle green called "Bottom of the Sea." Other major colors in the spring collection are rainbow gray, teak brown and vitalized black.

The big news in Italian spring suits is the preponderance of shiny fabrics such as mohair with irridescence created by blending of silk and wool. Bright and two-color twist effects are seen in tropicals with most of the silk-wool blends limited to summer fahions.

Single-breasted styles with trim-fitting lines are the rule in ready-to-wear clothing. There are a definitely marked waistline, side vents and a slight flare toward the jacket hemline. Narrow lapels and rounded flaps prevail in both two and three-button suits.

Such famous Italian tailors as Brioni, Litrico and Franzoni-Esquire showed jackets a little longer, shoulders a little straighter. There were lots of double breasted styles in addition to the two-or three-button models which were often buttoned somewhat high.

In sportswear the emphasis is on slacks somewhat darker than the jackets. Jackets show a bright, contrasting lining when open. Shown with them are single-breasted sports topcoats which have slim lines and uncovered buttons.

Italian spring rainwear emphases a "T-Line" with wide shoulders and a slim body with raglan sleeves and smaller collar. Light resin-coated fabrics or blended cotton and polyesters, unlined or with a very lightweight lining, are big spring-summer items.

The rain-topcoat or allweather coat is rapidly becoming the leading item in Italian men's wear fashion and is featured in an unlined gabardine in a new range of colors from "Tiber Blond" through a series of medium blues.

As usual there are a number of novelties. One is a one-piece formal at-home costume something like a coverall but made of black wool worsted, sippered up the front. Lapels are narrow and the sleeves have a small cuff.

The perennial glen check takes on a completely different look in a double-breasted style with shawl collar. The color is a deep fuchsia red. And in the field of sports clothes is an extra short leather car coat with six etched silver buttons and withtwo patch and two vertical slit pockets. Made in charcoal glazed leather.

3 Cubans Indicted As Saboteurs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three Cuban were indicted Wednesday on charges of conspiring to commit sabotage and act unlawfully as agents of the Castro government of Cuba, the Justice Department announced.

Antonio Sueiro, 22, New York City, a part-time employe of Orellana.

Cholera Sweeps West New Guinea

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (UPI)—United Nations health director Dr. Mariano Icasiano said Wednesday terrified villagers fleeing "haunted" houses are spreading a cholera epidemic that has already killed hundreds in West New Guinea.

Icasiano said the epidemic still is confined mainly to the southwestern coastal lowlands around Agtas and Kokenao.

But he added villagers often leave their homes after the first few deaths for fear they were "haunted" and are carrying the infection deeper into the lowland swamps.

Brave Bull Is Popular Hollywood TV Star Nowadays

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A popular telvision star in Hollywood these days is the brave bull who fights for his life in the ring against a colorful matador.

In an unusual departure from regular television offerings, two-hour bullfight shows are being shown on KMEX-TV a new ultra high frequency station which telecasts to a Spanish-speaking audience.

Los Angeles, with a large population of Mexican nationality, is the second city in the United States to get a Spanish language station. The other is in San Antonio, Tex.

KMEX-TV vice president Rene Anselmo estimates there are more than a million Spanish speaking people within range of his station.

"And there are a lot of bullfight afficianodos here," he said. "They are converting their sets to UHF."

There have been some complaints from humane societies against telecasting bullfights but Anselmo said much of the argument has been "sensationalism."

"We're programming to a Spanish-language market and basically a Mexican market," he said. "Theoretically you're supposed to serve a community interest."

He also said the Federal Communications Commission, watchdog of television programming, has no law against showing bullfights.

"In the National Association of Broadcasting code it says you should not show excessive cruelty to animals," Anselmo said. "To our audience this is not excessively cruel. This is where the different cultural upbringing comes in.

"What's crueler, for a bull to come down a gangplank in Chicago and get hit on the head with an automatic hammer or to die with glory in the ring? The bull has been fired for this."

He said many bullfight fans consider television's weekly boxing matches excessively cruel.

Anselmo, 36-year-old American from Boston, has been living in Mexico City for the past 12 years. He is associated with Emilio Azcarraga, prominent Mexican businessman and broadcaster.

"Right now all the shows come from Mexico City," Anselmo said. "But we plan to bring in some shows from other Latin American countries."

The programs are videotaped in Mexico city and sent to the KMEX-TV studios in Hollywood for transmission.

Anselmo's associates in Mexico city are part owners of the San Antonio and Los Angeles stations. They also have an application pending with the Federal Communications Commission for a similar station in Paterson, N.J., which could beam programs to New York City, also containing a large Spanish-speaking population.

KINGSTON, R. I. (AP)—Maybe it's more fun being a human being than a bird, after all; birds shiver all night while they sleep.

Prof. George C. West of the zoology department, University of Rhode Island, says birds not only shiver all night, but "they often shiver very violently." Their shivering, he explains, "is a physiological mechanism to keep them warm."

Brave Bull Is Popular Hollywood TV Star Nowadays

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

In an unusual departure from regular television offerings, two-hour bullfight shows are being shown on KMEX-TV a new ultra high frequency station which telecasts to a Spanish-speaking audience.

Los Angeles, with a large population of Mexican nationality, is the second city in the United States to get a Spanish language station. The other is in San Antonio, Tex.

"And there are a lot of bullfight afficianodos here," he said. "They are converting their sets to UHF."

There have been some complaints from humane societies against telecasting bullfights but Anselmo said much of the argument has been "sensationalism."

"We're programming to a Spanish-language market and basically a Mexican market," he said. "Theoretically you're supposed to serve a community interest."

He also said the Federal Communications Commission, watchdog of television programming, has no law against showing bullfights.

"In the National Association of Broadcasting code it says you should not show excessive cruelty to animals," Anselmo said. "To our audience this is not excessively cruel. This is where the different cultural upbringing comes in.

"What's crueler, for a bull to come down a gangplank in Chicago and get hit on the head with an automatic hammer or to die with glory in the ring? The bull has been fired for this."

He said many bullfight fans consider television's weekly boxing matches excessively cruel.

Anselmo, 36-year-old American from Boston, has been living in Mexico City for the past 12 years. He is associated with Emilio Azcarraga, prominent Mexican businessman and broadcaster.

"Right now all the shows come from Mexico City," Anselmo said. "But we plan to bring in some shows from other Latin American countries."

The programs are videotaped in Mexico city and sent to the KMEX-TV studios in Hollywood for transmission.

Anselmo's associates in Mexico city are part owners of the San Antonio and Los Angeles stations. They also have an application pending with the Federal Communications Commission for a similar station in Paterson, N.J., which could beam programs to New York City, also containing a large Spanish-speaking population.

No Electric Blankets

KINGSTON, R. I. (AP)—Maybe it's more fun being a human being than a bird, after all; birds shiver all night while they sleep.

Prof. George C. West of the zoology department, University of Rhode Island, says birds not only shiver all night, but "they often shiver very violently." Their shivering, he explains, "is a physiological mechanism to keep them warm."

Money For Toads

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — the giant cane toad (Bufo Marinus), a native of Central and South America, is bringing pocket money to the children living near the sugar canefields of Queensland.

The toads were imported to control the gray-back beetle on the canefields. They did a good job, and multiplied in thousands.

Today they are sought by Australian universities for medical and other research work.

The other day a call came from the University of Perth to the town of Ingham for 1,400 live toads, each seven inches long. Within a few hours the local kids had delivered the toads to a collection center and received 3 pence (3 cents) for each toad.

Prosperous Development Seen In California Valley

By DONALD REED

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)— California's San Joaquin Valley, the promised land of the dustbowl "Okies" and "Arkies" of the great depression, is on the threshold today of full agricultural and industrial development.

This is the concensus of civic and business leaders in the fertile fruit basket of the nation's soon-to-be most populated state. They confidently predict vigorous, steady growth in future decades.

The key to this development is water—the liquid gold which has resulted already in evolution from desert to thriving croplands and expanding communities. Man-made projects changing the course of the area's rivers are numerous and more are planned under the state's giant water program.

Long range planners say completion of the undertaking will result in a population explosion for the valley.

The valley's population is estimated at 1.5 million, up a half million since 1950. Retail sales subject to state tax approached $2 billion last year, also up significantly as compared to the past decade.

Outlet To Sea

Fresno, the central hub city, has a metropolitan population of a quarter million. Bakersfield is to the south and Stockton to the north where the open-ended valley, bigger than some states, has an outlet to the sea.

Named for Saint Joachim, described by Roman Catholics as the father of the Virgin Mary, the valley is rimmed on the east by the lofty Sierra Nevada Mountains. The coast range on the west and Tehachapi Mountains on the south. The valley is 250 miles long, 130 miles wide and embraces 30,000 square miles or one-fifth of California.

The major river also is named San Joaquin and is one of the few in the nation that flows north. It cascades from the Sierra and joins the Sacramento River in the Stockton area to flow into San Francisco Bay.

The San Joaquin and four smaller rivers have been tapped for power production. And, the stream flows have been diverted for irrigation of a multitude of crops in the valley where the rainfall averages less than 10 inches annually.

The lowly coast range produces little water, but steps are underway to open up vast westside acreage through the north-south movement of water under the California water plan. President Kennedy and Gov. Edmund G. Brown recently joined in groundbreaking for the $511 million San Luis Dam and Reservoir, which will be fed water from Northern California for diversion in the valley and, ultimately, into Southern California via pumping plants over the Tehachapi Range.

Water "Sacred Cow"

Water traditionally has been a "sacred cow" for the state's politicians.

In the hotly contested gubernatorial election, Brown and Richard M. Nixon claimed credit for water projects. Brown pointed with pride to his Democratic administration under which voters approved a gigantic bond issue to finance state projects, while Nixon noted the program was born under Republican leadership and he, as vice president and senator, was partly responsible for federal help.

Nixon called for dismissal of Brown's water resources director on grounds of poor administration. Brown's backers then hinted darkly that Nixon would "scuttle" the program.

The migrant workers depicted by Steinbeck (Grapes of Wrath) and other writers in the depression have eben absorbed, for the most part. Migratory labor still harvests valley crops, but the army-sized forces have been reduced due to mechanization.

Last year, the gross value of crops exceeded $1.5 billion or half of the state's farm income. Cotton was the number one cash crop with an income of nearly $300 million and 90 per cent mechanically harvested.

Fresno County, with an income of $385 million, ranked as the nation's richest farm county—a position it has held for more than a decade. Neighboring Tulare County placed second last year, followed by Kern where Bakersfield is the county seat.

New Word "Agribusiness"

In recent years, the term "agribusiness" was coined to describe the impact of agriculture on the economy and show the extreme interdependence of farming, industry and business. The San Joaquin "agribusiness" is big.

New farm projects underway include a $20 million Spreckels sugar plant and $8.5 million facilities for Sun-Maid rasin growers of California.

In mid 1961, the Navy opened a $100 million air station at Lemoore. Castle Air Force Base near Merced, has long been the Strategic Air Command's prime bomber training facility. Non-agricultural business also is locating in the valley.

Libby-Owens-Ford, a glass manufacturing concern, recently opened a $10.5 million plant at Stockton and Owens-Illinois invested $4.2 million in a plant at Tracy.

Prime Tourist Area

There have been scores of other industrial expansions involving paper, gas and oil, mining, lumber, hydroelectric power and tool manufacturing, plus growth in educational and civic developments. Redevelopment agencies, aided by federal loans, have sprung up to change the faces of the cities, while recreational facilities have mushroomed for a growing population with more leisure time.

Yosemite National Park, the glacial carved Sierra playland, attracts 1.5 million visitors annually. Sequoia-Kings Canyon national parks, where mighty Mt. Whitney rises 14,495 feet above sea level and towering redwood trees are 3,000 years old or more, also is a prime tourist area.

Holding Company

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Illinois Central Railroad said it plans to establish a holding company to acquire the railroad and then diversify into non-transportation areas. The road filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission as the first step in the proposed change. Some rail experts saw the development as the start of a trend in this direction in the railroad industry.

Executives Resign Jobs To Become Teachers

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Two officials at General Electric's Appliance Park here, both in their 50s, are quitting to become teachers—the profession they love.

"I'll take a terrific cut in salary," said Clifford B. Berg, 56, manager of the wage-administration department, "But my job is done with regard to family responsibilities so I've decided to do what I love."

Berg, a native of Pennsylvania, became a tool and die maker in 1925, then taught industrial arts at Ridgewood, N. J., after two years at Buffalo State Teachers College, N. Y.

He quit teaching during the depression. Now his three daughters, all college graduates, are married.

He will do undergraduate work this fall at Florida State Teachers College, Tallahassee, to earn a teaching certificate. Mrs. Berg will take graduate work, also aiming at becoming a teacher.

Reinald F. Schney, 54, a quality-control inspector, earned a degree in political science going nights and summers at the University of Louisville, and will teach in a public school here.

A Time To Remember Who We Are

Let us be grateful for our heritage. For a little pride is the wellspring of courage. Let us endure unflinchingly whatever sacrifices we are called upon to make to defend our free institutions from the night of communism, which is bent on undermining our faith in ourselves. Let us rely not only on the gold in our vaults, but the iron in our blood. And let us cling like ivy to the faith of our fathers until, in God's good time, all men are free.

Peace Corpsmen Practice In Slums Of Manhattan

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP) — She had seen slums before. Remotely. Antiseptically. From the window of a train clickety-clacking its way to the heart of New York City.

Now she was in East Harlem.

Brenda Bouchard. Age 22. Blonde. Blue-eyed. Born Pasadena, Calif. Graduate Bryn Mawr. Political science major. Peace Corps trainee.

"It seemed so cold and foreboding from the train," she says. "But it's not like that. A smile works wonders."

And with 79 other young, energetic, startlingly attractive trainees, she moves, bright-eyed, curious, through the oppressive jungle of slums, where often neighbor is suspicious of neighbor, and the stranger comes to prey or be preyed upon.

These trainees are the first in the Peace Corps program to learn their ABCs against the big city backdrop.

Month-long lessons completed, they were to pack up this week and fly to Columbia. There they will be assigned, along with 30 Colombians undergoing training with them to slums in eight city areas. They will spend two years living and working among the people of the barrios.

Brenda is in a five-member training team. The others are James Coberly, 22, of Laguna Beach, Calif., a tall, crew-cut forthright, easily smiling young man who left San Diego State College last term to enter the corps; Anita Mulay, 18, a green-eyed freshman from San Diego State; and two Colombians, Elena Tobon 23, a social worker of Medellin, and Benjamin Arriaga, 32, a government employe of Tado-Choco.

What can a Brenda Bouchard or a Jim Coberly or an Anita Mulay bring to a big city slum—in Colombia or in New York? What can such a place give them?

"They will try to do something that is very difficult—talk to people some of whom do not want to talk to them," says Mitchell Ginsburg, associate dean of the New York School of Social Work. The school is supervising the training.

"It's easy to say, 'Just talk to people. Just talk.' But it is tough to do."

While a talent for being genuinely friendly and interested in people is admirable and desirable, there's much more at stake and needed.

"This program wouldn't be valid if they just got friendly," says Dean Ginsburg. "It is not our job to provide friends for Colombia, however nice that may be.

"Our job is to train these Peace Corps workers into individuals who will be able to win the confidence and trust of the people in the barrios. Once that is done, the worker then tries to form a group of potential community leaders. The goal is to get the people to decide what they need, what they want, what they are willing to do to get it, and how his can be done. It is not to ask people, 'Do you want a new sewer system?' and then set about building it for them. The idea is to guide them into action, and in this way native leaders will emerge."

Jim, Brenda and Anita have their own ideas. Not included is the notion that they will save the world. That, they make quite clear belongs to the zealots and fanatics.

"We're really what is called 'middleman' power," says Jim. "That means that we're not expert in anything, but able to do something, and willing to do it.

"When we're in Colombia, as far as I can see it, we will be doing jobs that will never be completed. There's no end to the kinds of things people can do because their needs can change."

Brenda likes people.

"When we trained in Puerto Rico, I decided that the Puerto Ricans were the friendliest people I'd ever met. Now I'll go out on a limb and say they are. 'Sweet' is a sickening word, but that's what they are."

Anita, though the youngest at 18, already has worked with what the sociologists euphemistically call "the disadvantaged." In California, as a sociology student, she worked with Negroes and Mexicans.

"I want to do something to help if I can," she says. "Probably, I'll get more than I give."

Jim, Brenda and Anita trained most of their time with American Friends Service Committee's East Harlem House. One of their first assignments was nothing more complicated than telling people about voter registration.

On another afternoon Anita, Brenda and Elena worked as volunteers in Metropolitan Hospital. This is work similar to that which Brenda and Anita probably will do in Colombia.

"There are times you get depressed," Brenda explained afterwards. "Rather, I get depressed. I shouldn't speak for others. It's when you wonder if you are doing enough, if you are going to be successful."

Jim Coberly, who did a lot of job-hunting with boys who had dropped out of school, thought of the same thing.

"You wonder if your approach is proper, if you couldn't do it faster and more efficiently another way," he says.

For each trainee there has been a little of everything. One day, it was over to the Daughters of Israel Home for the Aged, where they joined elderly Jews in a holiday celebration, and got some idea of how the agency worked. Sometimes there were afternoon hours spent in Central Park with all the kids they could gather off East 111th St., near the Friends Service Committee Center. Evenings might be taken up helping a family, or working in an art center, or at a hospital.

Then there was classroom work at the New York School of Social Work, and occasional lectures, and the inevitable bull sessions at the end of the day, when they'd sit around drinking a beer, or smoking, and talk of events little or big.

The Cuban crisis gave them all a start. But they kept concentrating on the job ahead.

"We talk of Cuba, of course," Brenda says. "But there are other things, too. We can see that there are things that must be done this minute, no matter what else goes on in the world.

"There are things that have to be done now. And that's the way it will be in Colombia, I think. While people live, they suffer and they need, and those who are well and strong must help.

"That's all we can do. That's all we're trying to do."

Avoid Yule Headaches

By MARGERY MCELHENY

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Christmas shopping rush starts the day after Thanksgiving.

How to avoid the pressure and rush of an otherwise pleasant shopping trip? That is the big question! Here's the answer:

First, go through with that promise most shoppers make after each season to "plan ahead."

Draw up a gift list and decide in advance what a friend or relative would like to have, instead of roaming through stores wondering "What can I get for him?"

Once your planning is over, consider ordering gifts through mail order or "home shopper" services of department stores.

Another way to take the headache out of the season is to file Christmas Club lists on small index cards, much like your recipe file. Instead of crossing out old addresses and crowding in the new ones in your directory, index cards leave room for additions and can be discarded easily.

With the file organized, you can start addressing a few cards each day. When the mailing date draws near there will be plenty of time to add any personal messages. Rolls of stamps help to simplify this sticky job.

What will you do with your free time while everyone else is racing to complete last minute shopping? Enjoy the season by leisurely decorating the home or planning holiday parties that you could not find time for in past years.

The final week is also a good time to make Christmas cookies and holiday coffee cakes to serve when friends visit.

Peace Corpsmen Practice In Slums Of Manhattan

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP) — She had seen slums before. Remotely. Antiseptically. From the window of a train clickety-clacking its way to the heart of New York City.

Now she was in East Harlem.

Brenda Bouchard. Age 22. Blonde. Blue-eyed. Born Pasadena, Calif. Graduate Bryn Mawr. Political science major. Peace Corps trainee.

"It seemed so cold and foreboding from the train," she says. "But it's not like that. A smile works wonders."

And with 79 other young, energetic, startlingly attractive trainees, she moves, bright-eyed, curious, through the oppressive jungle of slums, where often neighbor is suspicious of neighbor, and the stranger comes to prey or be preyed upon.

These trainees are the first in the Peace Corps program to learn their ABCs against the big city backdrop.

Month-long lessons completed, they were to pack up this week and fly to Columbia. There they will be assigned, along with 30 Colombians undergoing training with them to slums in eight city areas. They will spend two years living and working among the people of the barrios.

Brenda is in a five-member training team. The others are James Coberly, 22, of Laguna Beach, Calif., a tall, crew-cut forthright, easily smiling young man who left San Diego State College last term to enter the corps; Anita Mulay, 18, a green-eyed freshman from San Diego State; and two Colombians, Elena Tobon 23, a social worker of Medellin, and Benjamin Arriaga, 32, a government employe of Tado-Choco.

What can a Brenda Bouchard or a Jim Coberly or an Anita Mulay bring to a big city slum—in Colombia or in New York? What can such a place give them?

"They will try to do something that is very difficult—talk to people some of whom do not want to talk to them," says Mitchell Ginsburg, associate dean of the New York School of Social Work. The school is supervising the training.

"It's easy to say, 'Just talk to people. Just talk.' But it is tough to do."

While a talent for being genuinely friendly and interested in people is admirable and desirable, there's much more at stake and needed.

"This program wouldn't be valid if they just got friendly," says Dean Ginsburg. "It is not our job to provide friends for Colombia, however nice that may be.

"Our job is to train these Peace Corps workers into individuals who will be able to win the confidence and trust of the people in the barrios. Once that is done, the worker then tries to form a group of potential community leaders. The goal is to get the people to decide what they need, what they want, what they are willing to do to get it, and how his can be done. It is not to ask people, 'Do you want a new sewer system?' and then set about building it for them. The idea is to guide them into action, and in this way native leaders will emerge."

Jim, Brenda and Anita have their own ideas. Not included is the notion that they will save the world. That, they make quite clear belongs to the zealots and fanatics.

World Seems Plagued With Uneasiness

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A wave of uneasiness seems to be plaguing the entire world Communist movement in the wake of the Cuban showdown.

The arguing, bickering, explaining and excuse-making now going on hint that confusion is building up toward a crisis for world communism.

One cause appears to be the anxiety of the Khrushchev leadership to keep Communist cold war maneuvers from getting beyond the point of no return and touching off a hot war.

Another source of burgeoning crisis seems to stem from a dilemma which will be brought strongly into focus when the Soviet party Central Committee meets Monday. Its agenda stresses the need for radical industrial and agricultural reforms. This suggests that to make the Soviet system function, Khrushchev must undermine some basic revolutionary theories.

All this has impelled Red stalwarts in the West to search for excuses for a Soviet policy which, to many of the rank and file, must appear to be outrageous surrender of opportunities to advance the cause.

Thus, a veteran of Moscow's policy flipflops, Italian leader Palmiro Togliatti, told his own party that "uncertainties and ambiguities have become apparent" in the movement. These ambiguities must include:

The ideological wrangle with the Chinese and Albanian Communists. It is growing in violence. The Soviet party denounces Albania, and the Chinese by implication, as modern-day Trotskyites, which in itself is confusing. Trotsky was the enemy of Stalin, and the Chinese today, in defiance of Khrushchev, cling doggedly to Stalin as a hero and to his dogma.

The Chinese armed attack on India. This has alienated many in Asia and Africa who might have been easy prey to Red blandishments. It has set back what Red jargon calls "the national liberation movement," meaning revolutionary movements subject to infiltration and capture by the Communists.

Red China's insistence that Khrushchev is "denying the revolutionary character of Marxism-Leninism," and thus harming the world movement. It blasts "concessions" to the West, and the Kremlin admits it made concessions in the Cuban crisis. The Red Chinese and Albanians insist there is only one way to deal with capitalism: "by imposing victory on it, grabbing the power."

Inside the U.S.S.R., Khrushchev's attitude toward doctrine must be painfully obvious to the Communist world.

Khrushchev's trouble is that while he would like to support revolution outside Red borders, the U.S.S.R. no longer has a revolutionary system. Today it is a world power with an entrenched regime.

Inside the Soviet Union there is a turning away from revolution. The old guard Communists complain Khrushchev is "losing touch with the masses." They mean that the Soviet Union is losing its revolutionary spirit. And that can create a challenge from the violently revolutionary regime of Mao Tze-tung in China.

Farmers May Be Persuaded To Vote Down Federal Wheat Controls Next Year

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 1962 convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Atlanta Dec. 9 may launch a precedent-breaking national campaign to persuade farms to vote down government wheat controls next summer.

The drive would be aimed at a farmer referendum in which wheat producers are scheduled to decide whether to accept a stiffened federal acreage and marketing control program for their 1964 crop.

The new control plan would be accompanied by a new two-price system of federal support for wheat prices.

If farmers accept the control program, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has indicated the Kennedy administration plans to support most of the wheat they produce in 1964 at about $2.00 per bushel.

If controls are rejected, supports would drop to about $1.17 per bushel—and even then would be available only to farmers who restricted their output.

The new wheat program was written into law by the last Congress as part of the 1962 omnibus farm bill. Agriculture Department officials believe farmers will accept it if it's fully explained to them, a department spokesman told United Press International

"But it is by no means certain that wheat producers will take the bait that will be offered in an effor to get a favorable vote," countered Farm Bureau President Charles B. Shuman.

Other sources said there is a good chance the Farm Bureau convention will order the organization's full weight thrown into a campaign against the control plan.

There have been times in the past when some state units of the Farm Bureau — the nation's biggest farm group—campaigned actively against adoption of controls in farmer referendums. But neither the Farm Bureau nor any other major farm group has ever waged an open, full-scale campaign against a referendum proposal.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a gripe which will probably seem like a trifle to you but it's a source of continuous teeth-gnashing around our office.

This office a large one. About 150 people work at desks which are fairly close together. The Webster's unabridged dictionary is on the other side of the room. The character who sits beside the dictionary is a smart-aleck know-it-all.

Regardless of who goes over to the dictionary, this creep pops out of his chair and says, "What are you looking up?" If the person doesn't answer he stands there and looks over his shoulder.

I, for one, don't feel that it's any of his business what I'm looking up. When he plants himself behind me and breathes on my neck I could cheerfully strangle him. Any suggestions on how to deal with this insufferable jerk?

READY TO COMMIT MAYHEM

DEAR READY: Your office needs another dictionary—on the opposite side of the room. Get the petition going.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We've been married 20 years and have two children 10 and 8 years of age. I've worked like a horse for the last 15 years and I'm tired.

We own a small cafe which I run myself. My husband has a little business on the other side of town which requires his attention about three hours a day, three days a week. I do all my own cooking, housework, washing and ironing and the yard work. I put in a good 15-hour day.

When I mention quitting work my husband's blood-pressure zooms and he yells, "Fine idea—why don't we BOTH quit and starve to death?" He likes this cafe business because it gives him a chance to sit around and chin with the customers. He fancies himself a poor man's Toots Shor.

Is it a crime to want to stay home and take care of my children? How do I get out of this rut?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: From your description of the ball o'fire you're married to, you just might starve if you quit running the cafe. So here's a suggestion which is practical and fair:

Split the cafe work with the genial host. Make it clear you are taking off two full days a week. On the days when he is sitting around shooting the breeze. Tell him to "take over" for a few hours while you go home. Then GO.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a college sophomore who feels compelled to comment on the letter from the girls who signed themselves "Anti-Make-Outs." Being a male I am qualified to give the OTHER side of the story.

The girls complained that the fast numbers in high school had their pick of the choice guys. The virtuous girls were lucky, they said, to get asked to a school dance, "at the last moment—after two or three tramps had turned the fellows down."

High school boys who date the fast girls and try for the limit are only attempting to prove their "manliness." They care nothing about the girl. After they get what they want they move on to the next challenge. In the meantime they pass the word. The girl who thinks her partner will protect her reputation is kidding herself. The undisciplined guy invariably has a big mouth.

Everybody knows who the cheap girls are because they have hung a cheap price-tag on themselves. When it comes to something important—like marriage—they are left where they belong, on the bargain counter.

BIG MEN

DEAR BEN: Thanks for the word. From you it should mean something.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our six-year-old came home from school yesterday in tears. He tried to avoid me by going straight to his room. It took a while but finally I persuaded him to tell me what was bothering him.

The child had accidentally wet his pants during class. The teacher ridiculed him before all the boys and girls. She called him a baby and said he should be ashamed of himself. He was not permitted to join in the play period but was made to stand alone, his face to the wall.

Now the boy doesn't want to go back. He's a high-strung youngster to begin with and I fear this incident will have a damaging effect on his attitude toward school. What should be done?

SICK AT HEART

DEAR SICK AT HEART: First assure the boy he did nothing wrong and that people should not be ashamed of accidents. If all youngsters who wet their pants in school during a single day were lined up it would be a long, damp line, indeed.

I assume you've taken your taken your child to a doctor for a check-up and that he is physically O.K. Most bed-wetting and daytime accidents are due to emotional problems. Experts say it's a symptom of insecurity.

If the habit persists, the child should be taken to a specialist who deals with disturbed children.

I hope, too, you will go to school and speak to the principal about the teacher who humiliated the boy. She needs educating—badly.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is palsy-walsy with two men he works with. Their wives are nice, but not the type I'd pick for friends on my own.

Arnie is the kind who has to have people around him all the time. Every Friday and Saturday night we go out with these two couples. We usually go to a cocktail lounge where there is a juke box or to a night club or restaurant which has a band. The three men drink and talk bsiness all evening. The wives of these two friends dance with each other.

Strange men are always coming to the table to ask them to dance. They happily accept. I think this is cheap. Where I come from women who dance together in a public place are looking for invitations. Arnie says it's O.K. because the husbands are present. What do you think?

OLD FASHIONED

DEAR OLD FASHIONED: It's purely a personal prejudice but I don't like to see women dancing together, either. I agree that it looks like a bid for invitations.

Don't you people have homes? Why must you go to taverns when you could do the same thing privately — and for one-fifth the price? And then perhaps you could invite others over — people YOU might enjoy.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you think it would be grossly impolite if I tacked a note to my front door saying, "Please don't knock unless you have phoned first."

We live on an Army base and the women run in and out of each other's homes like ants. I have six children, four in school and two at home. Naturally I have a great deal of housework, washing, ironing, cooking and mending to do. It's a mystery to me how wives with families can go visiting every morning and still get their work done.

I've lived on other Army bases and never had this problem. Please tell me what to do. I am

UP AGAINST IT

DEAR UP: Skip the note. Simply tell the uninvited callers that you're sorry you can't invite them in, but you have a terribly busy morning. You'll have a lot less company in short order but then this is what you want, isn't it?

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing wtih your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Another Chance For Disarmament

Resumption of disarmament discussions at Geneva next Monday might, in less critical times, be negated as a further exercise in futility. But there is a chance, however slight, that the close call with nuclear conflict over Cuba may at last produce a more direct approach to agreement.

Confronted by U. S. determination to eradicate the missile menace in Cuba, Khrushchev repeatedly cited the desire of "all peoples" to be freed from fear of thermonuclear weapons and global rockets. In one instance he said a peaceful settlement of the Cuban crisis might lead to agreement on ending nuclear tests. In another he looked to the possibility of easement of tension between the NATO and Warsaw Pact powers.

The sincerity of these words may soon be tested across the conference table. Khrushchev recognized the validity of international "verification" when the Cuban conflict appeared in danger of boiling into nuclear war. To retreat from that position when it may be applied to Soviet arms on Soviet territory would only lead the world further into disillusionment.

Mankind's hopes would rise with agreement on a simple foolproof system of nuclear arms checks. Toward this, the USSR could now make a contribution.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Hiss-Nixon Episode

The fracas over Alger Hiss' broadcast against Richard Nixon has three aspects: the legal, the moral and the esthetic.

From a strictly legal standpoint, the American Broadcasting Company can defend itself on several grounds, some correct, some specious. A broadcasting net work may put on its program whomever it chooses, provided that he does not break certain specified ground rules; namely that the commentator or orator, whichever it might be, does not commit libel or utter salacious terminology, such as four letter words which small boys write with chalk.

There is no law against Alger Hiss talking as much as he likes if he can get a platform and there is no law against providing him with a platform.

But that is only one side of the coin. On the moral side, Alger Hiss was convicted for perjury in a case involving at least subversion in an official position and at most, treason. The offense was never clearly defined, just as Al Capone was not convicted for murder or any crime other than failing to pay his income tax.

What Hiss did on that program was to be vengeful, which is a sin if ever there was one. If Alger Hiss dislikes anyone, it should be Alger Hiss, for he willfully performed the acts of treachery which Richard Nixon, then a young Congressman, uncovered. There was not one word of shame or regret in this author of the United Nation's Charter for his complicity in Whittaker Chambers' espionage activities — not one word of apology. There was only hatred for the man who exposed him and in whose defeat he revelled.

Prior to his getting the job with the American Broadcasting Company, he was President Eisenhower's press secretary and, next to Sherman Adams, the most powerful man in the Eisenhower Administration.

Now comes Emmet John Hughes, a speech-writer for Eisenhower — and also for Governor Nelson Rockefeller. Hughes, in a "kiss and tell" article in "Look" Magazine, provides the clue to Hiss' privilege of damning Nixon on the American Broadcasting Company program. He indicates not only that Eisenhower's staff disliked Nixon, but that "Eisenhower did not regard the succession of Nixon as a blessing either inevitable or irresistible."

Then Hughes goes on to describe the 1960 campaign:

"This climatic electoral battle of the Eisenhower Years found candidate Nixon and Eisenhower's White House still at odd, unadmitted distance for mone another. As Nixon suffered the anguish of irresolution on so many basic issues (was a clean-cut stand on civil rights really worth the loss of that shimmering vision of all those Southern electoral votes?), the same fateful ambiguity afflicted his very relationship with Eisenhower. On the one hand, Nixon knew the vast potential power that the President might wield in his election. On the other hand, he knew, too — along with the quickening criticism of Eisenhower's foreign policy — the rather widespread complaint of the electorate that he, Nixon, had never stood, alone and free, beyond the comforting shade of the taller figure of the President. A vigorous show of self-sufficiency, then, seemed the order of the day — along with a reserve of political aid, of course, to be summoned in emergency.

"In this climate, both personal and political relations between the Eisenhower staff and the Nixon staff grew chill as the political battle grew warm. Men around the President, anxious to lend assistance to guard Eisenhower's personal stake in the electoral verdict upon the past eight years, met repeated rebuffs from men around the Vice-President, anxious to be rid of the burden of past mistakes and to shape their own vision of the next four years."

From this picture, which could well have been written before the broadcast, it is clear that a man like Hagerty, in the Eisenhower entourage, would dislike Nixon and hope that no good befell him. When Nixon was defeated by John F. Kennedy for the Presidency, it was by such a small vote that the Eisenhowerites were silent, but when Nixon was defeated this year in California, Hagerty apparently permitted Alger Hiss to hammer the last nail into Nixon's political coffin. His apology last Sunday night was not convincing.

Esthetically, it was ugly. One does not use a Hiss for anything in the United States.

'Here, I'll Even Give You My Coat'

Red Bosses' Rows Primary Concern For U. S.

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The Cuban affair is moving towards another climax as these words are written; and although it is reasonable to be hopeful, the outcome remains unpredictable.

As an interim footnote of some significance, however, it is worth recording that the divisions in the Communist bloc have been a major topic in all the long and anxious meetings of the leaders of the American government in recent days.

It may seem odd for American policy-makers to be concerned about the Communist bosses' envenomed rows with one another. Yet this has been unavoidable. The point is that the Chinese Communists have been borrowing a leaf from the book of Sen. Barry Goldwater. In other words, they have been seeking to put Nikita S. Khrushchev on the spot politically, for pursuing a "no win" policy in Cuba.

In addition to mocking Khrushchev for being "scared stiff," and for "bertaying" the sacred Communist cause, the Chinese have been trying to make trouble between Khrushchev and Fidel Castro. Besides lauding Castro to the skies, they have repeatedly hinted that he would be just as well off without his link to the Soviets. These propaganda statements have also been reinforced, according to report, by the direct and active secret intervention of the Chinese mission in Havana.

The Chinese have nothing whatever to offer Castro, of course—except for moral support, which will feed, clothe, and arm no troops at all.

It is quite possible, nonetheless, that their Havana trouble-making has had some success.

In the great Sino-Soviet confrontations in Moscow, some Latin American Communists were among the small minority supporting the Chinese. There is reason to believe that the Cuban Communists would also have followed the Chinese line in these earlier debates if their material dependence on Soviet aid had not been so great. In Havana, therefore, the Chinese have at least had sympathetic listeners.

Yet the point of primary concern for the U. S. policy-makers has not been the effect of the Chinese intervention in Havana. It has been, rather, the impact in Moscow of the vicious Chinese attack on the Soviet leadership in general and Khrushchev in particular.

The question has had to be asked, in fact, whether the ideological barrage from Peking was not limiting Khrushchev's ability to carry out his complete Cuban bargain with President Kennedy. Pending the answer to that crucial question (which may be forthcoming before this sees print) it is worth asking what the Chinese motives are in this bizarre but dangerous business.

One motive, very evidently, is to try by all means to topple Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders who think as he does from their present seats of power. Rightly or wrongly—wrongly, if the American experts are correct—the Chinese clearly believe that there are powerful elements in the Soviet Union, probably centering in the armed forces, that can still be stimulated to move against Khrushchev.

Yet one cannot stop there, by any means. Suppose that the American experts are in error, and that elements capable of toppling Khrushchev really exist in Moscow. If so, these unidentified Soviet personages to whom the Chinese are appealing, must logically believe in the nuclear confrontation with the U.S. which the Chinese have been denouncing Khrushchev for avoiding.

In plain words, the Chinese attacks on Khrushchev add up to nothing more or less than a persistent appeal for an immediate nuclear confrontation, plus an effort to secure general Communist support for such a confrontation. The conclusion is unavoidable, in fact, that the Chinese Communist leadership today has reached the lunatic stage of actively desiring an H-bomb war.

There are reasons for this horrifying state of mind in Peking. One reason, beyond much doubt, is simple ignorance of modern weaponry and its meaning. Another and more important reason, again beyond much doubt, is the melancholy and precarious internal situation of China. For leaders who have brought their own country to the very brink of ruin, reducing the rest of the world to ruins may have some attraction.

To be sure, Mao Tse-tung and his colleagues have not lost their cunning. It was cunning of them to thrust a bayonet into the mush to which Krishna Menon has reduced India's defenses, rather than to undertake a bayonet thrust at this time into other, more potentially profitable areas. But cunning is not always inconsistent with megalomaniac madness. And when the leaders of a major power succumb to megalomania, as seems to have happened in China, this grave development needs to be carefully noted and prudently guarded against.

STATISTICS — The Labor Department's monthly figures on employment and unemployment are one of the nation's most keenly watched economic indicators. And, being under the control of one political party or another, they become the instrument of politicians around election time.

Just before the presidential elections of 1960, Democrats and labor organizations complained deeply when the October figures for that year were "delayed," charging they were being suppressed because they showed a large increase in the number of unemployed that would work to the detriments of the controlling Republicans.

This October before the congressional elections, the Labor Department, under the control of the Democrats, rushed out employment figures that showed employment had been raised by some millions during their period in office.

It was the Republicans' turn to cry "foul." It seems that the gains the Democrats claimed weren't completely real in that they disregarded seasonal factors, in effect claiming they had found 1.5 million more jobs than actually existed on a statistical basis.

To most nonpartisan observers, the two efforts to tinker with government statistics for political purposes makes the opposing parties even on the exchange. There is now a hope, frail at best, that politics be taken out of the product of government departments so that economists and businessmen can have some faith in the accuracy of what is issued.

Chinese Refugee Relief Proposes Mrs. Roosevelt Memorial Center

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The day after Eleanor Roosevelt died, cartoonist Herblock published a picture of a small boy looking up at the Statue of Liberty, telling his mother, "Yes, I know who she is. That's Mrs. Roosevelt."

Many memorials will be established for Mrs. Roosevelt in various parts of the world, because she was in real fact the first lady of the world. But none could be more appropriate than that proposed by the leaders of Chinese Refugee Relief. They plan to build a refugee center in Hong Kong to care for the homeless and the hungry who stream down from the barren hills and stagnant rice paddies of Communist China to find a new way of life.

I have stood in the detachment of a room in a hotel in Hong Kong, looking down on the stream of humanity — surging, billowing crowds pushing along the streets like a tidal wave, too much for any traffic regulation, a human sea, an inexorable sea, sometimes a sea of misery, sometimes a sea of curiosity — always surging, surging with no place to go.

Very few today are able to enter Hong Kong. They are barred by the cold and rusty barrier of barbed wire encircling the city. But those who were lucky enough to have entered earlier throng the streets, window-shopping, job-hunting, restless, curious, hopeless. They sit and stare out over the bay, at the junks and ferryboats and ocean liners that make Hong Kong the most fascinating port in the world. They would like to be on one of them. But the quota for foreign emigration is small; so they sit and stare.

Contributions Welcome

In this city of wealth and poverty, Chinese Refugee Relief plans a memorial to help train refugees for a new life, to help them help themselves. The purpose is not to send them on to the United States, but rather to help them make adjustments for a new type of living either in Hong Kong or other parts of Southeast Asia.

This home of hope will be called the Eleanor Roosevelt Memorial Center, and over its door will be written an inscription which best expresses her ideals.

For the most appropriate inscription representing those ideals, Chinese Refugee Relief will arrange a free trip to Hong Kong for the winner and companion, to attend the dedication of the memorial center.

The entries should be sent, if possible with a contribution to Chinese Refugee Relief, care of the Postmaster, Washington 13, D.C., where they will be judged by a distinguished group of citizens, headed by former President Herbert Hoover and former President Harry S. Truman.

Mrs. Roosevelt was one of the founding sponsors of Chinese Refugee Relief. It was the last of the great causes she championed. She had seen the western world open its arms to Hungarian refugees, yet throw up bayonets to bar Chinese refugees. So she led in opening her arms to those who fled Communist oppression for new life in a supposedly free world. We can help carry out her goal of making it free.

Wifely Boost

Two Senate victors who made a beeline for Washington after the election — New Hampshire's lean, canny Tom McIntyre and Indiana's buoyant, young Birch Bayh Jr. — were never expected to make the political grade.

Both credit their uphill victories to the extra push provided by their wives.

"She's the best politician in the family," admits the first Democratic Senator to be elected in New Hampshire since 1932.

She was at her husband's side in the White House, too, nudging him with an elbow, when he tried to tell President Kennedy tactfully that he might have to stray from the Democratic reservation occasionally to vote for New Hampshire's best interests.

The 34-year-old Bayh, a stemwinder on the stump, also confesses that his wife is a better speaker. Indeed, they met at a 4-H Club public speaking contest in Chicago. Bayh won second prize; Marvella Hearn of Enid, Okla., placed first.

She worked so hard for his election that the family worried about her health.

"She has a 100 horsepower motor but only a 20 horsepower chassis," explains Birch Bayh Sr., proud father of the new Senator-elect. He is director of physical activities for the District of Columbia schools.

The youthful Senator-elect and his sister, Mary Alice, have lived on their grandparents' farm, 12 miles northwest of Terre Haute, Ind., since World War II.

Except for a two-year hitch in the army in Germany, Birch has spent his adult life running the farm and studying agriculture. It was as the farmers' spokesman that he entered Indiana politics and ultimately unseated veteran GOP Sen. Homer Capehart.

Bayh and McIntyre have another problem in common. Bayh's 6-year-old son, Birch III, and McIntyre's 15-year-old daughter, Martha, don't want to leave their friends at home for Washington's heady atmosphere.

The two Senators, after persuading the voters to send them to Washington, are now trying to persuade their offspring that it won't be a bad place to live.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

A bale of mail arrived a few weeks ago asking why I was not covering the Cuban crisis. Some remembered that I had been in Havana writing about the triumphal entry of Fidel Castro four years ago when the man came into town frightened, riding inside a tank as the people pelted him with flowers. Some remembered that I was not a fan of the "liberator."

It is impossible for a column such as this to cover hot news. Anything I write must "keep" at least a week because it requires that much time for the material to reach the newspapers around the country which use the column. International crises move so swiftly that sometimes a big story in a first edition of a newspaper is invalid in the second.

For example, these things happened within a period of 24-hours recently: President Kennedy demanded the dismantling of intermediate range ballistics missiles in Cuba. He said that a missile fired from Cuba would be regarded as coming from Russia. Premier Khrushchev replied within a few hours that the missiles would be dismantled if the U. S. removed its missiles from Turkey.

At once, the United States replied that the two items were not related in the current crisis. By morning Khrushchev capitulated and agreed to having his missiles crated and sent home under United Nations supervision. There are four separate stories there; each of them big enough to rate the front page attention of the world press.

So, although I have been close to the Cuban problem for some time and got to Fulgencio Batista's home in time to turn his record player off after he had fled, it would have been pointless for this column to write about an acute situation which is altered from hour to hour.

Then too, the reporters on the scene cover the big assignments with fresh leads to their stories every few hours. The information is so fresh, so superior to any "think piece" written in New York or Washington, that I follow the new editions of the papers as avidly as you.

No, the function of this column, as I see it, is to supply the human touch. The reader gets his tensions elsewhere; in this space he gets an editorial tranquillizer. Unless, of course, I can find a newsworthy story which will remain fresh for a week. The recent lengthy interview with Generalissimo Franco is an example.

At the time of the Cuban revolution, the auxiliary bishop of Havana assured me that Castro was not a Communist. I felt that the bishop was naive. He recited the good Catholicity of the parents of the Castro brothers. I recited the Red record of Senor Che Guevara. The bishop felt sorry for me. I felt sorry for him.

I had an appointment with Castro at 11 p. m. on a January night in the Havana Hilton. At 7:30 p. m. I sent my regrets and took the 9:30 p. m. Pan-American plane home. During the day, I had been out to the Columbia barracks, where the executions were taking place and everything—with the exception of a hugh marble statue of Christ—pointed to Communism.

When I reached home, I was dismayed to find that almost everyone in Congress was praising Castro as a friend of the United States. Two years later, when he began to admit Russian and Chinese delegations and conclude trade agreements to stave off bankruptcy, I wrote that the only thing Castro could offer in return was missile bases.

I went to Guantanamo with Burris Jenkins and asked the admirals about it. They thought I was funny. Still, I wrote the story and it kept a long while.

As a man, Senor Castro is an egomaniac, a bearded Hitler who feels that, if he can promote enough revolutions in the American republics, he will someday dominate this hemisphere. The dismantling of the missile bases will not alter his ambitions. His word, even to his friends, is worthless. The Isle of Pines is littered with the bones of men who helped him to power.

But — there I go again. This column is, basically, a low-key spot; let others better qualified ring the alarm bells. This is a shoes - off - and - please - serve-the-beer-cold-place . . .

Moderns Need Pilgrims' Kind Of Courage

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It is difficult to sit down to a Thanksgiving dinner without thinking of the Pilgrim Fathers. Their admirable type of bravery led them to risk the hardships of a precarious ocean voyage to settle in a new land. They subordinated their health, security, and family to the rules of conduct they believed in following.

Life was a serious business and they must have had little fun and joy out of it. Their first thanksgiving—with feasting and games—broke the monotony of a drab routine and added gaiety—at least for a few hours. They must have looked forward to the holiday when they could become somewhat mellow, even though no outward manifestations of having a good time were shown.

I doubt if many moderns could take the strict discipline of the time and place without rebelling. How many of us, possessed of equal convictions, would agree to sail on the Mayflower, with all the uncertainties of the voyage. We are too fond of our ease, safety and creature comforts.

There are many reasons for us to fuss, stew, and worry but much more will be accomplished by using the intelligence with which we are endowed to preserve the home, state, nation, and our individualities. Perhaps today we are shirking decisions and in need of the type of action calling for the high courage of the Pilgrims.

The gloom and despair we associate with the early settlers are understandable. Every other Pilgrim died during the first year. There was little to do when illness appeared because the boundaries of medical knowledge were extremely limited. They scarcely could be happy but a sense of achievement or of martyrdom afforded them personal satisfaction. They were inspired by the hope of a better day, which many of them never saw.

Our problems and discouragements may seem colossal but they are trifling compared with those of the colonists. Yet — despite pestilence and a high mortality rate—these settlers took time to be thankful. What about you?

ALBUMIN AND POSTURE

R. H. writes: Does albumin in the urine always mean nephritis?
REPLY

No. In orthostatic albuminuria, for example, the protein is noted only after the individual is up and about. It is not present in the urine that is manufactured by the kidneys at night while sleeping. In such instances, posture plays a role. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on albuminuria.

CALORIES AND EXERCISE

M. G. writes: I'm 28 years old and cannot keep my weight down unless I take only 700 to 800 calories a day. I'm not very active. Could this be the reason I have to starve myself?
REPLY

Yes, provided you are otherwise healthy, are telling the truth, and know how to add.

STARVING HEART

T. G. writes: What is the name of the heart trouble caused by too little blood going to the heart?
REPLY

Coronary artery disease may lead to angina pectoris or coronary thrombosis. The symptoms are somewhat the same but differ mainly in severity.

CHANGE AFTER SURGERY

R. W. M. writes: How does a surgical menopause (after a hysterectomy) differ from ordinary menopause?
REPLY

There's no difference. The menses cease and hot flashes may occur just as in the natural menopause.

STARVING

Mrs. M. writes: I've been on a starvation diet for five years. Will this damage the brain?
REPLY

No. If you are healthy after all these years, and you are not a walking skeleton by now, I doubt that you have been on a starvation diet.

MEDICINE MAY SOUR

L. R. writes: Could taking a high blood pressure medicine cause a person to become sarcastic?
REPLY

Yes, provided the medicine makes him irritable or tired.

Abraham Lincoln liked to tell about a pernickety horse owned by a neighbor in Springfield, Ill. The neighbor was riding it down the main street one morning when without warning the nag began kicking vigorously, and got his hind hoof tangled in the left stirrup.

Lincoln's neighbor saw what was happening and hastily declared, "Dawgone, if you're gittin' on, I'm gittin' off!"

When 9-year-old Tricia volunteered to check hats and coats at her parents' anniversary reception, they indulgently accepted her offer. Unobserved, she then sequestered a china saucer from the pantry, put a quarter in it, and left it on a table next to the coat closet.

When the party was over, the parents were astonished to discover their daughter counting the profits — something over eleven dollars!

Another Chance For Disarmament

Resumption of disarmament discussions at Geneva next Monday might, in less critical times, be negated as a further exercise in futility. But there is a chance, however slight, that the close call with nuclear conflict over Cuba may at last produce a more direct approach to agreement.

Confronted by U. S. determination to eradicate the missile menace in Cuba, Khrushchev repeatedly cited the desire of "all peoples" to be freed from fear of thermonuclear weapons and global rockets. In one instance he said a peaceful settlement of the Cuban crisis might lead to agreement on ending nuclear tests. In another he looked to the possibility of easement of tension between the NATO and Warsaw Pact powers.

The sincerity of these words may soon be tested across the conference table. Khrushchev recognized the validity of international "verification" when the Cuban conflict appeared in danger of boiling into nuclear war. To retreat from that position when it may be applied to Soviet arms on Soviet territory would only lead the world further into disillusionment.

Mankind's hopes would rise with agreement on a simple foolproof system of nuclear arms checks. Toward this, the USSR could now make a contribution.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Hiss-Nixon Episode

The fracas over Alger Hiss' broadcast against Richard Nixon has three aspects: the legal, the moral and the esthetic.

From a strictly legal standpoint, the American Broadcasting Company can defend itself on several grounds, some correct, some specious. A broadcasting net work may put on its program whomever it chooses, provided that he does not break certain specified ground rules; namely that the commentator or orator, whichever it might be, does not commit libel or utter salacious terminology, such as four letter words which small boys write with chalk.

There is no law against Alger Hiss talking as much as he likes if he can get a platform and there is no law against providing him with a platform.

But that is only one side of the coin. On the moral side, Alger Hiss was convicted for perjury in a case involving at least subversion in an official position and at most, treason. The offense was never clearly defined, just as Al Capone was not convicted for murder or any crime other than failing to pay his income tax.

What Hiss did on that program was to be vengeful, which is a sin if ever there was one. If Alger Hiss dislikes anyone, it should be Alger Hiss, for he willfully performed the acts of treachery which Richard Nixon, then a young Congressman, uncovered. There was not one word of shame or regret in this author of the United Nation's Charter for his complicity in Whittaker Chambers' espionage activities — not one word of apology. There was only hatred for the man who exposed him and in whose defeat he revelled.

Prior to his getting the job with the American Broadcasting Company, he was President Eisenhower's press secretary and, next to Sherman Adams, the most powerful man in the Eisenhower Administration.

Now comes Emmet John Hughes, a speech-writer for Eisenhower — and also for Governor Nelson Rockefeller. Hughes, in a "kiss and tell" article in "Look" Magazine, provides the clue to Hiss' privilege of damning Nixon on the American Broadcasting Company program. He indicates not only that Eisenhower's staff disliked Nixon, but that "Eisenhower did not regard the succession of Nixon as a blessing either inevitable or irresistible."

Then Hughes goes on to describe the 1960 campaign:

"This climatic electoral battle of the Eisenhower Years found candidate Nixon and Eisenhower's White House still at odd, unadmitted distance for mone another. As Nixon suffered the anguish of irresolution on so many basic issues (was a clean-cut stand on civil rights really worth the loss of that shimmering vision of all those Southern electoral votes?), the same fateful ambiguity afflicted his very relationship with Eisenhower. On the one hand, Nixon knew the vast potential power that the President might wield in his election. On the other hand, he knew, too — along with the quickening criticism of Eisenhower's foreign policy — the rather widespread complaint of the electorate that he, Nixon, had never stood, alone and free, beyond the comforting shade of the taller figure of the President. A vigorous show of self-sufficiency, then, seemed the order of the day — along with a reserve of political aid, of course, to be summoned in emergency.

"In this climate, both personal and political relations between the Eisenhower staff and the Nixon staff grew chill as the political battle grew warm. Men around the President, anxious to lend assistance to guard Eisenhower's personal stake in the electoral verdict upon the past eight years, met repeated rebuffs from men around the Vice-President, anxious to be rid of the burden of past mistakes and to shape their own vision of the next four years."

From this picture, which could well have been written before the broadcast, it is clear that a man like Hagerty, in the Eisenhower entourage, would dislike Nixon and hope that no good befell him. When Nixon was defeated by John F. Kennedy for the Presidency, it was by such a small vote that the Eisenhowerites were silent, but when Nixon was defeated this year in California, Hagerty apparently permitted Alger Hiss to hammer the last nail into Nixon's political coffin. His apology last Sunday night was not convincing.

Esthetically, it was ugly. One does not use a Hiss for anything in the United States.

Red Bosses' Rows Primary Concern For U. S.

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The Cuban affair is moving towards another climax as these words are written; and although it is reasonable to be hopeful, the outcome remains unpredictable.

As an interim footnote of some significance, however, it is worth recording that the divisions in the Communist bloc have been a major topic in all the long and anxious meetings of the leaders of the American government in recent days.

It may seem odd for American policy-makers to be concerned about the Communist bosses' envenomed rows with one another. Yet this has been unavoidable. The point is that the Chinese Communists have been borrowing a leaf from the book of Sen. Barry Goldwater. In other words, they have been seeking to put Nikita S. Khrushchev on the spot politically, for pursuing a "no win" policy in Cuba.

In addition to mocking Khrushchev for being "scared stiff," and for "bertaying" the sacred Communist cause, the Chinese have been trying to make trouble between Khrushchev and Fidel Castro. Besides lauding Castro to the skies, they have repeatedly hinted that he would be just as well off without his link to the Soviets. These propaganda statements have also been reinforced, according to report, by the direct and active secret intervention of the Chinese mission in Havana.

The Chinese have nothing whatever to offer Castro, of course—except for moral support, which will feed, clothe, and arm no troops at all.

It is quite possible, nonetheless, that their Havana trouble-making has had some success.

In the great Sino-Soviet confrontations in Moscow, some Latin American Communists were among the small minority supporting the Chinese. There is reason to believe that the Cuban Communists would also have followed the Chinese line in these earlier debates if their material dependence on Soviet aid had not been so great. In Havana, therefore, the Chinese have at least had sympathetic listeners.

Yet the point of primary concern for the U. S. policy-makers has not been the effect of the Chinese intervention in Havana. It has been, rather, the impact in Moscow of the vicious Chinese attack on the Soviet leadership in general and Khrushchev in particular.

The question has had to be asked, in fact, whether the ideological barrage from Peking was not limiting Khrushchev's ability to carry out his complete Cuban bargain with President Kennedy. Pending the answer to that crucial question (which may be forthcoming before this sees print) it is worth asking what the Chinese motives are in this bizarre but dangerous business.

One motive, very evidently, is to try by all means to topple Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders who think as he does from their present seats of power. Rightly or wrongly—wrongly, if the American experts are correct —the Chinese clearly believe that there are powerful elements in the Soviet Union, probably centering in the armed forces, that can still be stimulated to move against Khrushchev.

Yet one cannot stop there, by any means. Suppose that the American experts are in error, and that elements capable of toppling Khrushchev really exist in Moscow. If so, these unidentified Soviet personages to whom the Chinese are appealing, must logically believe in the nuclear confrontation with the U.S. which the Chinese have been denouncing Khrushchev for avoiding.

In plain words, the Chinese attacks on Khrushchev add up to nothing more or less than a persistent appeal for an immediate nuclear confrontation, plus an effort to secure general Communist support for such a confrontation. The conclusion is unavoidable, in fact, that the Chinese Communist leadership today has reached the lunatic stage of actively desiring an H-bomb war.

There are reasons for this horrifying state of mind in Peking. One reason, beyond much doubt, is simple ignorance of modern weaponry and its meaning. Another and more important reason, again beyond much doubt, is the melancholy and precarious internal situation of China. For leaders who have brought their own country to the very brink of ruin, reducing the rest of the world to ruins may have some attraction.

To be sure, Mao Tse-tung and his colleagues have not lost their cunning. It was cunning of them to thrust a bayonet into the mush to which Krishna Menon has reduced India's defenses, rather than to undertake a bayonet thrust at this time into other, more potentially profitable areas. Chinese Refugee Relief Proposes Mrs. Roosevelt Memorial Center

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The day after Eleanor Roosevelt died, cartoonist Herblock published a picture of a small boy looking up at the Statue of Liberty, telling his mother, "Yes, I know who she is. That's Mrs. Roosevelt."

Many memorials will be established for Mrs. Roosevelt in various parts of the world, because she was in real fact the first lady of the world. But none could be more appropriate than that proposed by the leaders of Chinese Refugee Relief. They plan to build a refugee center in Hong Kong to care for the homeless and the hungry who stream down from the barren hills and stagnant rice paddies of Communist China to find a new way of life.

I have stood in the detachment of a room in a hotel in Hong Kong, looking down on the stream of humanity — surging, billowing crowds pushing along the streets like a tidal wave, too much for any traffic regulation, a human sea, an inexorable sea, sometimes a sea of misery, sometimes a sea of curiosity — always surging, surging with no place to go.

Very few today are able to enter Hong Kong. They are barred by the cold and rusty barrier of barbed wire encircling the city. But those who were lucky enough to have entered earlier throng the streets, window-shopping, job-hunting, restless, curious, hopeless. They sit and stare out over the bay, at the junks and ferryboats and ocean liners that make Hong Kong the most fascinating port in the world. They would like to be on one of them. But the quota for foreign emigration is small; so they sit and stare.

Contributions Welcome

In this city of wealth and poverty, Chinese Refugee Relief plans a memorial to help train refugees for a new life, to help them help themselves. The purpose is not to send them on to the United States, but rather to help them make adjustments for a new type of living either in Hong Kong or other parts of Southeast Asia.

This home of hope will be called the Eleanor Roosevelt Memorial Center, and over its door will be written an inscription which best expresses her ideals.

For the most appropriate inscription representing those ideals, Chinese Refugee Relief will arrange a free trip to Hong Kong for the winner and companion, to attend the dedication of the memorial center.

The entries should be sent, if possible with a contribution to Chinese Refugee Relief, care of the Postmaster, Washington 13, D.C., where they will be judged by a distinguished group of citizens, headed by former President Herbert Hoover and former President Harry S. Truman.

Mrs. Roosevelt was one of the founding sponsors of Chinese Refugee Relief. It was the last of the great causes she championed. She had seen the western world open its arms to Hungarian refugees, yet throw up bayonets to bar Chinese refugees. So she led in opening her arms to those who fled Communist oppression for new life in a supposedly free world. We can help carry out her goal of making it free.

Wifely Boost

Two Senate victors who made a beeline for Washington after the election — New Hampshire's lean, canny Tom McIntyre and Indiana's buoyant, young Birch Bayh Jr. — were never expected to make the political grade.

Both credit their uphill victories to the extra push provided by their wives.

"She's the best politician in the family," admits the first Democratic Senator to be elected in New Hampshire since 1932.

She was at her husband's side in the White House, too, nudging him with an elbow, when he tried to tell President Kennedy tactfully that he might have to stray from the Democratic reservation occasionally to vote for New Hampshire's best interests.

The 34-year-old Bayh, a stem-winder on the stump, also confesses that his wife is a better speaker. Indeed, they met at a 4-H Club public speaking contest in Chicago. Bayh won second prize; Marvella Hearn of Enid, Okla., placed first.

She worked so hard for his election that the family worried about her health.

"She has a 100 horsepower motor but only a 20 horsepower chassis," explains Birch Bayh Sr., proud father of the new Senator-elect. He is director of physical activities for the District of Columbia schools.

The youthful Senator-elect and his sister, Mary Alice, have lived on their grandparents' farm, 12 miles northwest of Terre Haute, Ind., since World War II.

Except for a two-year hitch in the army in Germany, Birch has spent his adult life running the farm and studying agriculture. It was as the farmers' spokesman that he entered Indiana politics and ultimately unseated veteran GOP Sen. Homer Capehart.

Bayh and McIntyre have another problem in common. Bayh's 6-year-old son, Birch III, and McIntyre's 15-year-old daughter, Martha, don't want to leave their friends at home for Washington's heady atmosphere.

The two Senators, after persuading the voters to send them to Washington, are now trying to persuade their offspring that it won't be a bad place to live.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

A bale of mail arrived a few weeks ago asking why I was not covering the Cuban crisis. Some remembered that I had been in Havana writing about the triumphal entry of Fidel Castro four years ago when the man came into town frightened, riding inside a tank as the people pelted him with flowers. Some remembered that I was not a fan of the "liberator."

It is impossible for a column such as this to cover hot news. Anything I write must "keep" at least a week because it requires that much time for the material to reach the newspapers around the country which use the column. International crises move so swiftly that sometimes a big story in a first edition of a newspaper is invalid in the second.

For example, these things happened within a period of 24-hours recently: President Kennedy demanded the dismantling of intermediate range ballistics missiles in Cuba. He said that a missile fired from Cuba would be regarded as coming from Russia. Premier Khrushchev replied within a few hours that the missiles would be dismantled if the U. S. removed its missiles from Turkey.

At once, the United States replied that the two items were not related in the current crisis. By morning Khrushchev capitulated and agreed to having his missiles crated and sent home under United Nations supervision. There are four separate stories there; each of them big enough to rate the front page attention of the world press.

So, although I have been close to the Cuban problem for some time and got to Fulgencio Batista's home in time to turn his record player off after he had fled, it would have been pointless for this column to write about an acute situation which is altered from hour to hour.

Then too, the reporters on the scene cover the big assignments with fresh leads to their stories every few hours. The information is so fresh, so superior to any "think piece" written in New York or Washington, that I follow the new editions of the papers as avidly as you.

No, the function of this column, as I see it, is to supply the human touch. The reader gets his tensions elsewhere; in this space he gets an editorial tranquillizer. Unless, of course, I can find a newsworthy story which will remain fresh for a week. The recent lengthy interview with Generalissimo Franco is an example.

At the time of the Cuban revolution, the auxiliary bishop of Havana assured me that Castro was not a Communist. I felt that the bishop was naive. He recited the good Catholicity of the parents of the Castro brothers. I recited the Red record of Senor Che Guevara. The bishop felt sorry for me. I felt sorry for him.

I had an appointment with Castro at 11 p. m. on a January night in the Havana Hilton. At 7:30 p. m. I sent my regrets and took the 9:30 p. m. Pan-American plane home. During the day, I had been out to the Columbia barracks, where the executions were taking place and everything —with the exception of a hugh marble statue of Christ—pointed to Communism.

When I reached home, I was dismayed to find that almost everyone in Congress was praising Castro as a friend of the United States. Two years later, when he began to admit Russian and Chinese delegations and conclude trade agreements to stave off bankruptcy, I wrote that the only thing Castro could offer in return was missile bases.

I went to Guantanamo with Burris Jenkins and asked the admirals about it. They thought I was funny. Still, I wrote the story and it kept a long while.

As a man, Senor Castro is an egomaniac, a bearded Hitler who feels that, if he can promote enough revolutions in the American republics, he will someday dominate this hemisphere. The dismantling of the missile bases will not alter his ambitions. His word, even to his friends, is worthless. The Isle of Pines is littered with the bones of men who helped him to power.

But — there I go again. This column is, basically, a low-key spot; let others better qualified ring the alarm bells. This is a shoes - off - and - please - serve-the-beer-cold-place . . .

Elderly New York Minister Recalls Boyhood In School

By GERALD S. SNYDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—His hand was trembling slightly and his legs were a bit unsteady.

But his voice was firm. The Rev. Dr. Arthur Judson Brown, on the eve of his 106th birthday anniversary, said he had a Thanksgiving Day message.

The retired clergyman and author settled into an old high-backed chair in his Victorian style apartment on New York's Park Avenue.

"I am a daily spectator of the television," he said slowly, "and I follow its descriptions of current events with mingled eagerness, anxiety and regret.

"Superficially, our country doesn't seem to have much to be thankful for in this time of international and national tumult and tragedy.

Recalls "Huge Beasts"

"But I have often thought that when I was a boy in school, I was appalled by what my teachers told me of the huge beasts that once dominated the earth, 25 or 30 tons, 40 feet in length.

"Later, I learned that they had disappeared and I wondered what other beasts had been called to exterminate them.

"I was told that no stronger beasts had appeared but that the climate had changed and they died.

"So it will be today."

Dr. Brown, a broad-shouldered man with bushy eyebrows and trim white beard, paused to collect his thoughts.

People often ask me about my longevity," he said, "and I can only reply that the only way I know how to live is not to die.

"For those who ask if I would like to live my life over again, I reply 'No.' When I recall my many narrow mistakes I wouldn't dare risk a second trip."

Dr. Brown, a Presbyterian, was born on Dec. 3, 1856, in Holliston, Mass. He was taught that if he wanted anything he could not afford, he should go without it; if he wanted the "good things of life" he should work for them; if he imagined the world owed him anything he would have trouble collecting, and that he should help others instead of expecting them to help him.

Gets Medical Insurance

Dr. Brown's wife, Jennie, died when she was 86.

Three weeks ago, Dr. Brown signed up for a new private basic health and medical insurance plan.

On the question of medical care for the aged, Dr. Brown said: "Clearly, something should be done.

"This period of high cost of living is naturally hard on most elderly people. Their incomes were fixed on their retirement at 65 or more. But the price of food and other essentials have greatly increased while income remains static."

But Dr. Brown said he didn't "feel competent" to discuss the relative merit of private plans or government programs, such as President Kennedy's proposals to link medical care for the elderly to Social Security.

Dr. Brown is still an active member of the Interfaith Church Peace Union founded by Andrew Carnegie and the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, of which he served as executive secretary for 34 years until 1929.

Reads From Memoirs

"I'm not a prophet," he said, "and I don't profess to know the future but do you think your editors might have space for some final words?"

He picked up a copy of the memoirs and chose a passage. It was by Whittier.

"I have faith in these words," Dr. Brown said. Then, not bothering to look at the lines, he slowly and deliberately recited:

"For right is right since
God is God
And right the day must win.
To doubt would be disloyalty,
To falter would be sin."

Stamp Misprints Are Placed On Sale

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Post Office Department put the controversial deliberate misprints of the Dag Hammarskjold stamps back on sale here Tuesday when a court suit that had interrupted the sale was dropped at Newark, N. J.

James F. Kelleher, special assistant to the postmaster general, said the stamps went on sale again shortly after 4 p.m. EST when attorneys for Leonard Sherman of Irvington, N.J., reached agreement with U.S. attorney David M. Satz Jr., at Newark to terminate Sherman's suit.

He said postal inspector Patrick F. Quinn gave Sherman an affidavit verifying that the 50 stamps Sherman has were "genuine and part of the original printing of which only 400 are known to have been distributed."

Road Blocked

RICHWOOD, W. Va. (UPI) — The State Road Commission said W. Va. 20 between Craigsville and Fenwick would be blocked until 10 p.m. Tuesday night. The highway was blocked early Tuesday when three Baltimore and Ohio freight cars left the track Tuesday at Holcomb. No injuries were reported in the derailment.

About a year ago, Blazek, a research engineer, yielded to a lnogtime fascination and brought home a boa for his wife and twin boys, aged 5.

Now 3 years old, the half-grown, 6-foot-long reptile has become a regular members of the household. The family feeds him mice.

"The boys love to play with him and he's no work at all," said Mrs. Blazek. "He's easy to take care of and very gentle with the children. The only thing I ever worry about is ife he should get loose in the house. We'd have an awful time finding him.

"We'll probably give him to a museum when he gets to be eight or nine feet long," Mrs. Blazek said. "By that time, he'll be thicker as well as longer — and I just don't think we'll want to keep him in the house."

Efforts Fail For New Area Power Plant

Efforts to have another 500,000 kilowatt power station in this tri-state area were unsuccessful as the Allegany Power System, of which the Potomac Edison Company is a part, announced plans Tuesday for power plants at Morgantown and Johnstown.

The $350,000,000 coordinated construction program involves 18 investor-owned electric utility companies serving more than 30,000,000 people in eight eastern states.

The Western Maryland Railway, which has extensive timber and mineral lands in north central West Virginia, had been negotiating with the Allegany Power System to have the power station located in Tucker County in the Canaan Valley.

Preliminary arrangements had called for a dam and lake to be formed by backing up the Blackwater River in the Canaan Valley. This would have been used for cooling water.

The 500,000-kilowatt power station being constructed at Mt. Storm by Virginia Electric and Power Company is located not too many air miles from the proposed site in Canaan Valley.

The Western Maryland Railway will service the VEPCO plant at Mt. Storm on the 17.5-mile railroad being constructed from Bayard by the S. J. Groves Company of Minneapolis.

The Allegany Power System is connected with the extensive 345,000-volt facilities of the American Electric Power System. As an initial step, the western terminus of the new 500,000 volt facilities of Allegany Power at Morgantown and Johnstown will be interconnected with the American Electric Power System.

One of the highlights of the new program will be the construction of more than 600 miles of new 500,000-volt transmission lines from West Virginia near Wheeling to terminals near Philadelphia, in northern New Jersey and in metropolitan New York.

One 500,000-volt circuit will provide a tie between the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland pool.

In addition to further assuring ample supplies of power for future load growth, the new lines and power plants should produce substantial operating economies, important in maintain low-cost electric service.

While there are already a number of transmission ties between the electric power systems in Pennsylvania and upstate New York, a further tie between the western end of the new 500,000-volt Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland transmission system northward to the western end of the New York integrated utility systems is contemplated when customer power requirements reach levels which make such an additional connection economically feasible — probably in the 1970-80 period.

Inter-tie studies further suggest that at about that same time it may be desirable to connect the new 500,000-volt transmissions with that of VEPCO, which is now under construction. The Mt. Storm Power Station is an integral part of this work.

The APS power plant will be a 500,000-kilowatt station on the Monongahela River near Morgantown, at a point between Point Marion, Pa., and Hoard, W. Va.

It will be in service by 1967 and is expected to burn over 40,000,000 tons of West Virginia bituminous coal over its life, using as much as 1,350,000 tons annually in the early years of operation.

The Keystone Electric Generating Station will be a 1,600,000-kilowatt power station plant in the coal fields of Armstrong and Indiana counties near Johnstown.

The plant will include two 800,000-kilowatt units, the first to be in service in 1967 and the second is scheduled for 1968.

At a meeting of top executives of the 18 participating utilities, this statement was released:

"The mine-mouth plant, high voltage transmission concept in no way excludes other forms of power supply. These will continue to be many reasons to locate conventional base load power plants at load centers, to actively pursue research and application of nuclear power, and to continue development of gas turbines, Diesels and pumped storage as economical means for providing power during periods of heaviest customer use. Also as a part of the utilities' planning for heavy future load growth, there is bound to be opportunity for further consideration of such concepts as coal delivery by pipe line and integral trains."

Volcano Erupts In N.E. Siberia

MOSCOW (AP)—Klyuchevskaya volcano, the 15,912-foot crater in northeast Siberia, has exploded in its most violent eruption in 17 years, the Soviet news agency Tass reports.

Other volcanoes on the Kamchatka Peninsula also have grown active, the agency said.

Tass said the sky over Kluchevskaya, highest active volcano on the Eurasian continent, was aglow with hot gases. Strong quakes shook the earth at the foot of the volcano and volcanic "bombs" burst from a side crater, Tass said.

Democrats Hold Critique On Election

The group discussed all phases of the election and the concensus was that the voters in Allegany County cast their ballots generally on party lines. It was stated that despite the achievements of the two Democratic county commissioners in cutting taxes, 25 cents for this year alone, and other accomplishments the voters failed to consider this and still voted along party lines.

It was pointed out that the Republicans have a 4,700 majority but that in 1932 their majority was 11,700. The meeting was presided over by William L. Wilson, chairman of the State Central Committee, and Attorney General Thomas B. Finan spoke to the group.

Various candidates spoke on the election campaign. It was emphasized that besides the meetings of the committee, all candidates and interested party members should attend quarterly meetings to coordinate the efforts of the party.

The committee also plans to send resolutions to the state administration headed by Gov. Tawes to seek fulfillment of the various projects which were inaugurated by the two Democratic county commissioners and also the programs which the two delegates to the legislature were interested in having completed.

William Henry Harrison served the shortest term of any U. S. President. He was inaugurated March 4, 1841, and died a month later.

The first governmental employment bureaus were established in France in 1843.

Eisenhower Cattle In Annual Show

CHICAGO (UPI)—Former President Dwight Eisenhower has entered nine head of Aberdeen Angus cattle in the 63rd International Live Stock Exposition which opens here on Friday, exposition officials reported Wednesday.

A spokesman said the three bulls and six heifers were en route to the exposition at the International Amphitheatre by train from Eisenhower's Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

Corps Lauds Upkeep Of Flood Project

The Army Corps of Engineers has cited Cumberland, and Roy F. Maphis, foreman of maintenance, for "most satisfactory maintenance of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project."

The commendation was in a letter from Lt. Col. Orin A. Fayle, deputy district engineer for the corps, following the annual inspection of the project.

Col. Fayle's letter to Mayor Earl D. Chaney said, in part:

"Maintenance of the project is most satisfactory. I commend you and the maintenance crew for the work that has been done. With well-maintained facilities, the full capability of the system will be assured for the protection of the city in time of an emergency."

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum, under whom the flood maintenance crew operates, added his commendation to Maphis, stating that he "has done a tremendous job in keeping the facility in top condition."

The work will be done along the Potomac River channel in the vicinity of the former Smith Island, removed during the time of construction of the project.

Money for the improvement was provided by Congress, which allocated $350,000 for the work under the government's accelerated public works program.

Efforts Fail For New Area Power Plant

Efforts to have another 500,000 kilowatt power station in this tri-state area were unsuccessful as the Allegany Power System, of which the Potomac Edison Company is a part, announced plans Tuesday for power plants at Morgantown and Johnstown.

The $350,000,000 coordinated construction program involves 18 investor-owned electric utility companies serving more than 30,000,000 people in eight eastern states.

The Western Maryland Railway, which has extensive timber and mineral lands in north central West Virginia, had been negotiating with the Allegany Power System to have the power station located in Tucker County in the Canaan Valley.

Preliminary arrangements had called for a dam and lake to be formed by backing up the Blackwater River in the Canaan Valley. This would have been used for cooling water.

The 500,000-kilowatt power station being constructed at Mt. Storm by Virginia Electric and Power Company is located not too many air miles from the proposed site in Canaan Valley.

The Western Maryland Railway will service the VEPCO plant at Mt. Storm on the 17.5-mile railroad being constructed from Bayard by the S. J. Groves Company of Minneapolis.

The Allegany Power System is connected with the extensive 345,000-volt facilities of the American Electric Power System. As an initial step, the western terminus of the new 500,000 volt facilities of Allegany Power at Morgantown and Johnstown will be interconnected with the American Electric Power System.

One of the highlights of the new program will be the construction of more than 600 miles of new 500,000-volt transmission lines from West Virginia near Wheeling to terminals near Philadelphia, in northern New Jersey and in metropolitan New York.

One 500,000-volt circuit will provide a tie between the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland pool.

In addition to further assuring ample supplies of power for future load growth, the new lines and power plants should produce substantial operating economies, important in maintain low-cost electric service.

While there are already a number of transmission ties between the electric power systems in Pennsylvania and upstate New York, a further tie between the western end of the new 500,000-volt Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland transmission system northward to the western end of the New York integrated utility systems is contemplated when customer power requirements reach levels which make such an additional connection economically feasible — probably in the 1970-80 period.

Inter-tie studies further suggest that at about that same time it may be desirable to connect the new 500,000-volt transmissions with that of VEPCO, which is now under construction. The Mt. Storm Power Station is an integral part of this work.

The APS power plant will be a 500,000-kilowatt station on the Monongahela River near Morgantown, at a point between Point Marion, Pa., and Hoard, W. Va.

It will be in service by 1967 and is expected to burn over 40,000,000 tons of West Virginia bituminous coal over its life, using as much as 1,350,000 tons annually in the early years of operation.

The Keystone Electric Generating Station will be a 1,600,000-kilowatt power station plant in the coal fields of Armstrong and Indiana counties near Johnstown.

The plant will include two 800,000-kilowatt units, the first to be in service in 1967 and the second is scheduled for 1968.

At a meeting of top executives of the 18 participating utilities, this statement was released:

"The mine-mouth plant, high voltage transmission concept in no way excludes other forms of power supply. These will continue to be many reasons to locate conventional base load power plants at load centers, to actively pursue research and application of nuclear power, and to continue development of gas turbines, Diesels and pumped storage as economical means for providing power during periods of heaviest customer use. Also as a part of the utilities' planning for heavy future load growth, there is bound to be opportunity for further consideration of such concepts as coal delivery by pipe line and integral trains."

Volcano Erupts In N.E. Siberia

MOSCOW (AP)—Klyuchevskaya volcano, the 15,912-foot crater in northeast Siberia, has exploded in its most violent eruption in 17 years, the Soviet news agency Tass reports.

Other volcanoes on the Kamchatka Peninsula also have grown active, the agency said.

Tass said the sky over Kluchevskaya, highest active volcano on the Eurasian continent, was aglow with hot gases. Strong quakes shook the earth at the foot of the volcano and volcanic "bombs" burst from a side crater, Tass said.

Democrats Hold Critique On Election

Members of the Democratic State Central Committee and the various candidates of the party in the recent general election held a critique Tuesday at the Cas Taylor Restaurant.

The group discussed all phases of the election and the concensus was that the voters in Allegany County cast their ballots generally on party lines. It was stated that despite the achievements of the two Democratic county commissioners in cutting taxes, 25 cents for this year alone, and other accomplishments the voters failed to consider this and still voted along party lines.

It was pointed out that the Republicans have a 4,700 majority but that in 1932 their majority was 11,700. The meeting was presided over by William L. Wilson, chairman of the State Central Committee, and Attorney General Thomas B. Finan spoke to the group.

Various candidates spoke on the election campaign. It was emphasized that besides the meetings of the committee, all candidates and interested party members should attend quarterly meetings to coordinate the efforts of the party.

The committee also plans to send resolutions to the state administration headed by Gov. Tawes to seek fulfillment of the various projects which were inaugurated by the two Democratic county commissioners and also the programs which the two delegates to the legislature were interested in having completed.

Eisenhower Cattle In Annual Show

CHICAGO (UPI)—Former President Dwight Eisenhower has entered nine head of Aberdeen Angus cattle in the 63rd International Live Stock Exposition which opens here on Friday, exposition officials reported Wednesday.

A spokesman said the three bulls and six heifers were en route to the exposition at the International Amphitheatre by train from Eisenhower's Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

Corps Lauds Upkeep Of Flood Project

The Army Corps of Engineers has cited Cumberland, and Roy F. Maphis, foreman of maintenance, for "most satisfactory maintenance of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project."

The commendation was in a letter from Lt. Col. Orin A. Fayle, deputy district engineer for the corps, following the annual inspection of the project.

Col. Fayle's letter to Mayor Earl D. Chaney said, in part:

"Maintenance of the project is most satisfactory. I commend you and the maintenance crew for the work that has been done. With well-maintained facilities, the full capability of the system will be assured for the protection of the city in time of an emergency."

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum, under whom the flood maintenance crew operates, added his commendation to Maphis, stating that he "has done a tremendous job in keeping the facility in top condition."

The work will be done along the Potomac River channel in the vicinity of the former Smith Island, removed during the time of construction of the project.

Money for the improvement was provided by Congress, which allocated $350,000 for the work under the government's accelerated public works program.

Seattle Man Keeps Tabs On Flying Saucer Reports

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Robert J. Gribble of Seattle is a one-man data processing center. He analyzes material on "Unidentified Flying Objects," more commonly called "flying saucers."

Gribble has collected reports on these mysterious objects since 1947. There are 1,200 persons in the Seatle area on his mailing list. He is one of nine national directors of the National Investigations Commission on Aerial Phonomena. Some of them are professional scientists, says Gribble, but they are reluctant to be identified.

"That is one of our largest problems," he asserts. "Hundreds of top scientists are concerned about UFOs, but they stay far in the background. Conversely, the crackpots are quick to speak up and they get the headlines."

Turnout Pleases 'Opry'

Members of the "Grand Ole Opry" troupe who presented two performances here Tuesday expressed surprise at the turnout, explaining that this area is considered "Blue Grass" country that ordinarily does not support "country style" shows.

The troupe, sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce, performed before more than 1,000 persons at the two shows. JC officials said each performance was well received, and it is likely that the project will be repeated again next year.

Based on applause, the two most popular performers were Stonewall Jackson, who "brought down the house" with his presentation of "Waterloo," and Jimmy C. Newman, whose songs also brought repeated encores.

The second show was "emceed" by Dusty Shaver, local radio personality, whose patter also was well received.

Ask Information

MOSCOW (UPI) — Britain again asked the Soviet foreign ministry Wednesday for information concerning British businessman Greville Wynne, arrested in Hungary for allegedly spying and then extradited to the Soviet Union.

The United Nations complex in New York City occupies six blocks of Manhattan which once were cluttered with breweries, slaughterhouses and tenements, the National Geographic Magazine says. John D. Rockefeller Jr., donated funds to buy the property. The city gave some of the land and deeded street and waterfront rights. To finance the buildings, the United States government loaned $65 million interest free.

Frostburg Driver Fined

HANCOCK, Md. (AP) — A truck driver charged with driving an overloaded vehicle more than three years ago has been sentenced to 135 days in jail in default of a $1,210 fine.

The truck driver, Carl M. McKenzie, 29, of Frostburg, was convicted and sentenced Tuesday night by Magistrate John Stottlemyer of Hancock.

McKenzie was arrested June 22, 1959, on a charge of driving a truck overleaded by 22,000 pounds. He failed to appear for trial. When State Police located him this week, he said he had been out of the state.

The fine was the largest ever imposed on such a charge in this area and was believed to be the first time someone so charged had gone to jail.

Carl Belt Firm To Build New W. Va. School

ROMNEY — A contract for the construction of a second new school has been awarded by the Hampshire County Board of Education.

The board has accepted the bid of Carl Belt Inc., of Cumberland, for the new John J. Cornwell Elementary School, which will be located at Points.

The Cumberland contractor's bid of $98,000 was selected from a total of six submitted, according to Bernard D. Hughes, superintendent of schools, who said the school will consolidate the classes from Three Churches and Levels Elementary schools.

The structure will contain four classrooms, an all-purpose room, kitchen and lavatories, Hughes said, with the work scheduled to start immediately.

Target for completion is August 1 of next year, which will make the school available for classes during the 1963-64 term.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held yesterday for the new Hampshire High School, which will consolidate Romney High and Capon Bridge High.

The contract for that structure was given earlier to Baker and Coombs Inc., of Morgantown, on a bid of $695,400. The high school will not be completed until January 1, 1964, some five months behind the original target date for completion.

Hughes said the original bids were held up due to a dispute with the West Virginia Department of Labor over wage scale adjustments.

Prisoner Exchange Is Near

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiator James B. Donovan said today most of the preliminaries have been agreed upon to arrange an exchange of Cuban invasion prisoners for food, medicine and drugs.

Donovan told a news conference the accord on these points was reached between Fidel Castro and Cuban Families Committee, which is seeking the release of the anti-Castro prisoners captured early in 1961.

Donovan, an attorney who arranged the swap with the Soviet Union of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel, is general counsel of the committee.

The attorney did not elaborate on what preliminaries had been agreed to with Castro.

The swap is understood to call for shipments of $62 million worth of medicine, food and drugs to Cuba in return for the 1,113 prisoners.

The attorney did not elaborate on what preliminaries had been agreed to with Castro.

The swap is understood to call for shipments of $62 million worth of medicine, food and drugs to Cuba in return for the 1,113 prisoners.

Elizabeth II was crowned in Westminster Abbey, June 2, 1953.

TWEED AND LOVELY—For sidewalk "orbiting" in the winter weather, Eleanora Garnett of Rome has created the "Astronaut"—a hooded coat in black and white tweed. The open-air look muffles to the eyes with a button-up flap that gives milady exotic touch of mystery.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—New York has paid off for Susan Kohner. She telephoned me in the wee hours of the morning to say she's doing a one-act play by Thornton Wilder, author of "Our Town."

"The title of my play is 'Pullman Car, Hiawatha'," said Susan, "and Jose Quintero, who directed 'The Iceman Cometh' and other very important plays, will direct me. I have been studying with Lee Strassburg ever since I came to New York. My play opens in the Circle of the Square Theatre, which is the ultra of off-Broadway theatres.

"I have never been so happy in life," added Suzie, and she sounded it.

The Actor's Studio in Hollywood will open "The Prisoner" on Dec. 4 with a black tie-champagne premiere, with tickets selling at $50 and the proceeds going to the Dr. Dooley Foundation.

Working on the benefit are Frank Sinatra, Danny Kaye, Peggy Lee, Rhonda Fleming and Betty Lynn and certainly the very worthy cause of the Dooley Foundation plus "The Prisoner" itself deserve all this star-studded attention.

"The Prisoner" is the play Sir Alec Guinness wrote and starred in on both stage and screen, it being based on the arrest of Cardinal Mindzenty by the Communists. The story inspired Guinness so that he converted to Catholicism.

The cast and crew of "Black Zoo" got a scare that wasn't in the script when the lights suddenly went out on a scene in which 25 caged animals were taking part. What was so frightening was that Jeanne Cooper had just opened the cage of a lion, which supposedly had been knocked out with tranquilizers.

Jeanne panicked, slammed the door, which fortunately locked automatically. But Virginia Grey let out a curdling scream which woke the lion and set him roaring—and made the whole company believe some animal had Virginia.

When a light finally was put on, they discovered a bear had reached out of its cage and pulled the electric cable. Virginia was safe. So was Jeanne, and after a roundup of tranquilizers for everyone, work resumed.

Jean Seberg, the 23-year-old Marshalltown, Iowa, girl who is currently starring in Columbia's "In the French Style" in Paris, has what appears to be one of those deathless attachments to author Romain Gary. Since Gary's wife, author Leslie Blanche, has never divorced him, there is nothing much that can be done about Jean relationship with Gary. She dates no one else, but there is no truth to the big stir made in the French press recently that Jean had suffered a nervous breakdown. She was actually suffering from amoebic dysentery which she picked up in Africa while making "Congo Viva" for Columbia.

"In the French Style", Irwin Shaw's story, is practically autobiographical of Jean, since it deals with a young American girl who comes to Paris to study art for a year, and remained for four more to be transformed into a Parisienne.

Discovered: A very old-fashioned modern woman, Mrs. Jack Hawkins, wife of the broad-shouldered British star who is now making "Rampage" at Warners.

Jack found he was missing his wife, who was the London stage actress, Doreen Lawrence. He cabled her to come join him, whereupon Phil Karlson, the director, suggested that Doreen might like to make the trip worthwhile by going into "Rampage" with her husband.

To everyone's surprise, except Jack's, the lady turned down the opportunity. She said, politely, that she had retired when she married her stalwart spouse, she's the happy mother of their three children and she is most content to remain that way, letting Jack get all the glory.

Sabu, the East Indian actor, tells me that although his brother, Shaik, who was also his business associate, was murdered about two years ago when he was robbed by an employee, his estate has not yet been settled. It is estimated to amount to $200,000, but Sabu, who is playing one of the leads in "Rampage" at Warners, has taken over the operation of a furniture store which Shaik had owned.

Sabu, who is now 37, observed his 14th wedding anniversary when he was recently in Hawaii for locations on "Rampage".

Game Wardens Claim Lions Are Good Swimmers

Rhodesian game wardens say they have, and they add that lions are good swimmers.

The Herald's report added:

"An official of the Wild Life Conservation Department said that at least six lions are 'operating' between five islands in Lake Kariba where other animals are stranded. In some cases the lions had to swim about two miles."

The report quoted the conservation official:

"Lions are good swimmers and they are doing this because it is easy feeding for them. There are all sorts of game on these islands which are easy for the lions to kill."

The Herald added that on one Kariba Lake island wild life officers captured two lions in traps and they were taken off to the mainland. Three lions were shot on another island where game rescuers were at work on "Operation Noah," rescuing wild life from drowning.

British Mission Goes To India

LONDON (AP)—A high ranking British military-political mission left for New Delhi Wednesday to study India's needs in the face of Chinese border attacks.

The mission is headed by John Tilney, parliamentary undersecretary at the Commonwealth Relations Office, and included Gen. Sir Richard Hull, chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Hull, Britain's highest ranking active soldier, said before takeoff at London airport: "Our mission will obviously link up with the American team assigned to India."

Hull said he will open talks with Indian military leaders as soon as he reaches New Delhi.

Labor Secretary Urges Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz has renewed his call for a tax cut early in 1963 and added that prospects are good for its enactment.

But he told a news conference that his optimism may be based more on his personal bias than on the actual political situation.

Cuban Papers Report Lifting U.S. Blockade

There was no editorial comment but some newspapers in their stories of President Kennedy's announcement complained, "The United States still maintains political and economical coercion measures."

Hoy, the Communist party organ, said that despite the removal of Soviet rockets and the promise bombers will go, the United States has "not renounced the continued violation of our sovereignty"—an apparent reference to U.S. reconnaissance flights over Cuba.

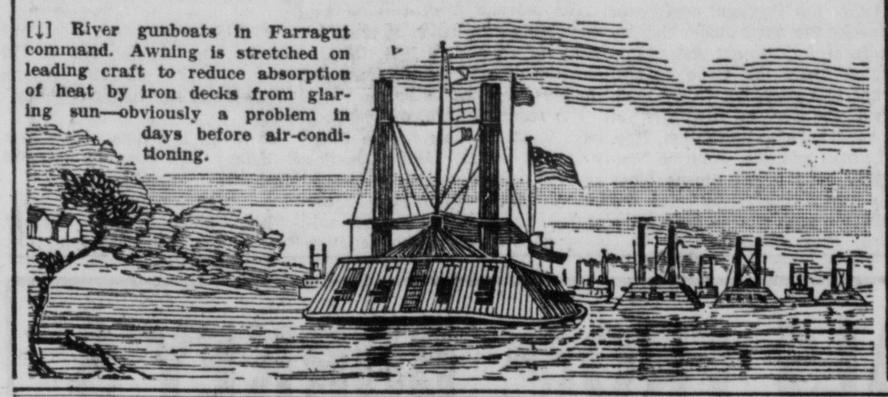
CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 188 To push up the Mississippi from New Orleans in the pincer operation ordered from Washington in spite of Farragut's best advice (he wanted to attack and reduce Mobile first), Farragut had to breech the Confederate defenses at Vicksburg. Although only a brigade of Rebels defended the position, Farragut was unable to do more than take his flagship and seven other warships past the batteries. The bombardment he began with cruisers and gunboats and stepped up with Porter's mortar-boats, June 27, was intensified July 18 by Commodore Charles Davis' gunboats and rams that came down river from captured Memphis. An infantry brigade under Thomas Williams undertook to cut a canal through the peninsula opposite Vicksburg.

Vicksburg was as good as a Mississippi Gibraltar. The Confederates refused to surrender. The Army brigade abandoned its project. Farragut ran the forts again to return to New Orleans, and the upriver forces resumed their covering of Army operations undertaken by U. S. Grant on his own when Henry Halleck was taken away to Washington. To add to Farragut's chagrin, the powerful new Confederate ironclad, Arkansas, which had escaped Davis' squadron at Memphis, charged out of the Yazoo through Farragut's fleet and into sanctuary at Vicksburg—to remain a constant menace to Union operations in the river.

—CLARK KINNAIRD



[↓] River gunboats in Farragut command. Awning is stretched on leading craft to reduce absorption of heat by iron decks from glaring sun—obviously a problem in days before air-conditioning.

The United States was first recognized as a world power by France.

An annular eclipse of the sun occurs when the moon is more distant than usual.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—New York has paid off for Susan Kohner. She telephoned me in the wee hours of the morning to say she's doing a one-act play by Thornton Wilder, author of "Our Town."

"The title of my play is 'Pullman Car, Hiawatha'," said Susan, "and Jose Quintero, who directed 'The Iceman Cometh' and other very important plays, will direct me. I have been studying with Lee Strassburg ever since I came to New York. My play opens in the Circle of the Square Theatre, which is the ultra of off-Broadway theatres.

"I have never been so happy in life," added Suzie, and she sounded it.

The Actor's Studio in Hollywood will open "The Prisoner" on Dec. 4 with a black tie-champagne premiere, with tickets selling at $50 and the proceeds going to the Dr. Dooley Foundation.

Working on the benefit are Frank Sinatra, Danny Kaye, Peggy Lee, Rhonda Fleming and Betty Lynn and certainly the very worthy cause of the Dooley Foundation plus "The Prisoner" itself deserve all this star-studded attention.

"The Prisoner" is the play Sir Alec Guinness wrote and starred in on both stage and screen, it being based on the arrest of Cardinal Mindzenty by the Communists. The story inspired Guinness so that he converted to Catholicism.

The cast and crew of "Black Zoo" got a scare that wasn't in the script when the lights suddenly went out on a scene in which 25 caged animals were taking part. What was so frightening was that Jeanne Cooper had just opened the cage of a lion, which supposedly had been knocked out with tranquilizers.

Jeanne panicked, slammed the door, which fortunately locked automatically. But Virginia Grey let out a curdling scream which woke the lion and set him roaring—and made the whole company believe some animal had Virginia.

When a light finally was put on, they discovered a bear had reached out of its cage and pulled the electric cable. Virginia was safe. So was Jeanne, and after a roundup of tranquilizers for everyone, work resumed.

Jean Seberg, the 23-year-old Marshalltown, Iowa, girl who is currently starring in Columbia's "In the French Style" in Paris, has what appears to be one of those deathless attachments to author Romain Gary. Since Gary's wife, author Leslie Blanche, has never divorced him, there is nothing much that can be done about Jean relationship with Gary. She dates no one else, but there is no truth to the big stir made in the French press recently that Jean had suffered a nervous breakdown. She was actually suffering from amoebic dysentery which she picked up in Africa while making "Congo Viva" for Columbia.

"In the French Style", Irwin Shaw's story, is practically autobiographical of Jean, since it deals with a young American girl who comes to Paris to study art for a year, and remained for four more to be transformed into a Parisienne.

Discovered: A very old-fashioned modern woman, Mrs. Jack Hawkins, wife of the broad-shouldered British star who is now making "Rampage" at Warners.

Jack found he was missing his wife, who was the London stage actress, Doreen Lawrence. He cabled her to come join him, whereupon Phil Karlson, the director, suggested that Doreen might like to make the trip worthwhile by going into "Rampage" with her husband.

To everyone's surprise, except Jack's, the lady turned down the opportunity. She said, politely, that she had retired when she married her stalwart spouse, she's the happy mother of their three children and she is most content to remain that way, letting Jack get all the glory.

Sabu, the East Indian actor, tells me that although his brother, Shaik, who was also his business associate, was murdered about two years ago when he was robbed by an employee, his estate has not yet been settled. It is estimated to amount to $200,000, but Sabu, who is playing one of the leads in "Rampage" at Warners, has taken over the operation of a furniture store which Shaik had owned.

Sabu, who is now 37, observed his 14th wedding anniversary when he was recently in Hawaii for locations on "Rampage".

Game Wardens Claim Lions Are Good Swimmers

Rhodesian game wardens say they have, and they add that lions are good swimmers.

The Herald's report added:

"An official of the Wild Life Conservation Department said that at least six lions are 'operating' between five islands in Lake Kariba where other animals are stranded. In some cases the lions had to swim about two miles."

The report quoted the conservation official:

"Lions are good swimmers and they are doing this because it is easy feeding for them. There are all sorts of game on these islands which are easy for the lions to kill."

The Herald added that on one Kariba Lake island wild life officers captured two lions in traps and they were taken off to the mainland. Three lions were shot on another island where game rescuers were at work on "Operation Noah," rescuing wild life from drowning.

British Mission Goes To India

LONDON (AP)—A high ranking British military-political mission left for New Delhi Wednesday to study India's needs in the face of Chinese border attacks.

The mission is headed by John Tilney, parliamentary undersecretary at the Commonwealth Relations Office, and included Gen. Sir Richard Hull, chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Hull, Britain's highest ranking active soldier, said before takeoff at London airport: "Our mission will obviously link up with the American team assigned to India."

Hull said he will open talks with Indian military leaders as soon as he reaches New Delhi.

Labor Secretary Urges Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz has renewed his call for a tax cut early in 1963 and added that prospects are good for its enactment.

But he told a news conference that his optimism may be based more on his personal bias than on the actual political situation.

Cuban Papers Report Lifting U.S. Blockade

There was no editorial comment but some newspapers in their stories of President Kennedy's announcement complained, "The United States still maintains political and economical coercion measures."

Hoy, the Communist party organ, said that despite the removal of Soviet rockets and the promise bombers will go, the United States has "not renounced the continued violation of our sovereignty"—an apparent reference to U.S. reconnaissance flights over Cuba.

'Old Ironsides' Restoration Will Take Two Years

By TOM HORGAN

BOSTON (AP) — An enduring symbol of the nation's sea power is receiving a million-dollar refurbishing. This token of the country's maritime might is of course the USS Constitution, better known as "Old Ironsides."

At this very moment, two railroad flatcars are rolling across the continent carrying eight titanic timbers, about 250 years in growing. The trees were thrusting green spires skyward in a forest near Molalla, Ore., long before Joshua Humphreys launched the Constitution in Boston in 1797.

"Old Ironsides" is the oldest warship still in commission afloat. She flies the two-starred flag of the 1st Naval District's commandant, who is presently Rear Adm. Joseph Wellings.

Only Lord Nelson's flagship Victory is older, but she is far from in commission, declining in an earth-bound bed at Portsmouth, England.

The timbers en route are Douglas fir, 100 feet long and 18 inches square. When fabricated they will produce a 93-foot foremast and an 86-foot mizzen, with diameters in the vicinity of three feet. The present mainmast does not require replacement.

There are about 800 species of birds in the United States.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 189 "On the 3rd of July 1862, I signed in Liverpool the articles that made me one of the crew of 'the 290'—afterwards the Alabama. The shipping agent, Campbell, warned me against Yankee spies, and assured me that in three months Great Britain would declare war against the United States."

That begins an account by one who sailed for two years in the second of the specially designed cruisers contracted for at Laird's shipyard by the Confederate naval agent, Capt. J. D. Bulloch of Georgia. The first was the Florida, which had departed from Liverpool March 22, 1862, under the English flag. At Nassau, the Florida was outfitted for raiding.

Clearly, "the 290" (consecutive number of the hull at the shipyard) was another Florida. The U.S.A. minister in London, Charles Francis Adams, protested strongly. British officialdom moved slowly. When orders were telegraphed from London for the ship to be held in port, "the 290" had slipped away under pretense of a trial trip, unarmed but fitted for guns. She was 1,020 tons, 220 feet long, with twin 220 horsepower auxiliary engines.

At the Azores, she was supplied by an English ship with guns, munitions, coal, plus "volunteers" for the crew: Englishmen and Irishmen described by contemporary observers as "the most reckless sailors from groggeries and brothels of Liverpool."

Capt. Raphael Semmes drilled these into his crew, and went hunting for unescorted Union cargo carriers. Before she met her match two years later, the Alabama captured, burned or sank more than 60 ships.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 190 Volunteer enlistments were falling to provide all the manpower needed by Union Army and Navy commanders for new regiments and divisions or ships, and as replacements for the fallen or incapacitated. (In the Seven Days' Battles, June 25-July 1, in Virginia, there were 15,849 dead, wounded, or missing. In the same week, there were hundreds of other Union casualties in the Mississippi Valley campaigns, in the Army's drive down the Atlantic Coast, and on Navy vessels in the Mississippi and high seas.)

On July 17, President Lincoln obtained Congress' approval of his calling on the states for 300,000 militia between 18 and 45, to serve nine months. He proceeded to command the governors of the states to draft men from the militia ranks if their quotas could not be filled by volunteers—the initial step in following the Confederates' adoption of mass conscription.

Offering of bounties and making of such appeals as this one [at left] in Connecticut, to "close your manufacturies and workshops; turn aside from your farms and your business; leave for a while your families; meet face to face the enemies of your liberties" remained ineffective, and left the national government no choice except a full-scale draft. It did so after the congressional elections in November 1862.

Incidentally, the Confederate losses in the Seven Days' battles in Virginia were larger than the 15,849 total for the Union. They are given in Burke Davis' book of sidelights, "Our Incredible Civil War," as 3,903 killed in action, 18,735 wounded, and 5,425 missing. A higher percentage of Confederate wounded than Union wounded died because of inferior medical service.

A PROCLAMATION.

Citizens of Connecticut!

You are again called upon to rally to the support of the Government. In the name of our common country I call upon you to enroll your names for the immediate formation of to be used in suppressing the Rebellion. Our troops may be held in check, and our sons die on the battle-field, but the cause of civil liberty must be advanced; the supremacy of the Government must be maintained. Prompt and decisive action will be economy in men and money. By delay our armies, and even the nation, may be imperiled. The Rebellion, contending with the desperation of a hopeless and wicked cause, must be met with equal energy and determination. Close your manufactories and workshops; turn aside from your farms and your business; leave for awhile your families and your homes; meet face to face the enemies of your liberties. Haste, and you will rescue many noble men now struggling against superior numbers, and speedily secure the blessings of peace and good government.

Given under my hand and the Seal of this State, at the City of New Haven, this third day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two.

Wind, Beetles Threaten Western Lumber Crop

By JAMES J. DOYLE

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The Western lumber industry faces a serious price decline and a mammoth clean-up job as a result of a Columbus Day windstorm that turned western Oregon and parts of Washington into a disaster area.

Damage to the timber alone ranges in the millions of dollars, and when salvaged it will glut what is already a buyer's market, pushing prices even further down.

And it must be salvaged quickly. The windfall timber, nearly 5 billion board feet from northern California to Washington, must be saved from a beetle infestation.

The windstorm has wrought an unwanted, potential harvest of some 10 billion board feet, including green timber that must be removed in salvage logging. Altogether it's worth some $250 million dollars.

President Kennedy called a two-day federal, state and private industry conference here recently to plan means of offsetting possible disastrous effects to the nation's third largest industry.

Suggests Import Quota

One means of protecting the market would be an import quota on Canadian softwood lumber imports which have 16 per cent of the domestic market. Lumbermen in the Western states have been fighting for some time, so far unsuccessfully, for such a measure.

As a result of the windfall timber which must be cleaned up and sold, more small douglas fir mills will close, lumbermen say. In the past few years, concurrent with the rise of Canadian imports, more than 200 such mills have closed.

Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon asked President Kennedy at the outset of the Portland conference to invoke the quota under the Agricultural Adjustment Act. Lumbermen made the same request earlier this year, but to no avail.

Two Democratic members of the congressional delegation, Rep. Al Ullman and Sen. Maurine Neuberger, have urged means other than import quotas to solve the industry's problems — before the storm crisis and since.

G. Cleveland Edgett, executive vice president of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, noted a further complication in the marketing of salvage timber: much recovered lumber will be in the common grades because the trees were badly shattered.

Cites Problem

The problem here is to convert this windblown timber into merchantable products and market them at a price commensurate with costs involved.

Dr. Dewayne Kreager, consulting economist of Seattle, says a depressed price appears to be inevitable, because for most of the past decade lumber prices have lagged behind other wholesale indexes in the U.S. economy.

The salvage itself will be tremendously expensive. It must be done before March 1964, to protect the downed timber from the Douglas fir bark bettle.

The reddish-brown, quarter-inch long insect is now in the overwintering stage. Adults bettles are due next March and they will be of endemic number. If the eggs are not cleared through salvage of windthrow, the situation would be epidemic by March 1964. Green timber, not storm damaged, would be attacked by the beetles.

A spokesman for the forest industries laboratories at Oregon State University says they could cause 33 per cent as much damage as the windstorm did.

Another hazard is that of fire. Dry needles now cover the forest floor, nipped off by the wind. They present a serious hazard for the dry months of 1963 and a greater than usual loss is expected.

DeGaulle, 72, Dislikes Birthdays

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles De Gaulle will be 72 today. But it's doubtful anyone will risk singing "happy birthday" to him.

De Gaulle is a man who detests Birthdays. Still more he hates to have them remembered.

No. 188 To push up the Mississippi from New Orleans in the pincer operation ordered from Washington in spite of Farragut's best advice (he wanted to attack and reduce Mobile first), Farragut had to breech the Confederate defenses at Vicksburg. Although only a brigade of Rebels defended the position, Farragut was unable to do more than take his flagship and seven other warships past the batteries. The bombardment he began with cruisers and gunboats and stepped up with Porter's mortar-boats, June 27, was intensified July 18 by Commodore Charles Davis' gunboats and rams that came down river from captured Memphis. An infantry brigade under Thomas Williams undertook to cut a canal through the peninsula opposite Vicksburg.

Vicksburg was as good as a Mississippi Gibraltar. The Confederates refused to surrender. The Army brigade abandoned its project. Farragut ran the forts again to return to New Orleans, and the upriver forces resumed their covering of Army operations undertaken by U. S. Grant on his own when Henry Halleck was taken away to Washington. To add to Farragut's chagrin, the powerful new Confederate ironclad, Arkansas, which had escaped Davis' squadron at Memphis, charged out of the Yazoo through Farragut's fleet and into sanctuary at Vicksburg—to remain a constant menace to Union operations in the river.

Leasing Of Timber Land Draws W. Va. Complaint

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — President E. G. Grimm, Terra Alta, of the West Virginia Sawmill Operators Association, has complained to Gov. W. W. Barron and State Natural Resources Director Warden M. Lane about the leasing of state-owned timber land without competitive bidding.

Grimm said the governor's office has assured him that in the future, the state's timber will be put out on bids.

However, Lane said his timber-leasing plan is in the best interest of the state and that the state attorney general's office had advised him he was acting within the law.

Grimm said members of his association believe they should be given the chance to bid on some 70,000 acres of timber in state forests, just as they are able to bid on timber in national forests operated by the federal government.

Lane said he currently is negotiating with Belcher Lumber Co., Bluefield, for a lease contingent upon the establishment in West Virginia of two furniture plants costing $4 million and employing 1,000 to 1,500 persons.

The director said if the deal goes through, Belcher will build a mill at Cowen, Webster County.

Lane emphasized that he will not sell any timber until the furniture plants are built and ready to begin operations, probably by next fall. He also said he would sell timber to anyone who can guarantee that the timber will be used in West Virginia for the manufacture of wood products.

The director said most of West Virginia's timber is going to out-of-state furniture-makers. He said state timber worth $75 a thousand board-feet is used to make $7,500 worth of furniture in other states.

Lane said that from a 10-year lease, his department can realize a net profit of $100,000 a year for the purchase of additional hunting, fishing and recreation areas.

MT. SAVAGE — Court Theresa 557, Catholic Daughters of Hall with Mrs. Kenneth Logsdon, grand regent, presiding.

A report was given by Mrs. Logsdon on the fall conference which she attended at the Cadoa in Baltimore. Reports were also submitted by the various committees.

A cope and veil, made by a member of the court, was donated to the Capuchin missions. A donation was given to the lepersarium and towards the painting of the interior of St. Patrick's Church.

Plans were made for the annual Christmas party December 12 in St. Patrick's Hall. A prize was won by Mrs. Catherine Fannon.

Sentence Suspended In Theft Of Dime From Blind Man

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A Huntington man who pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a dime from a blind man has been given a suspended sentence by Federal Judge John A. Field Jr.

An FBI agent told Field he watched as Clifford P. Hatfield, 50, stole the dime from the concession stand operated by a blind man, Charles Ellis, in the Huntington Post Office building earlier this month.

The agent said he had put the dime on the counter in an effort to discover who had been stealing money placed there by persons who bought newspapers and sandwiches before the stand opened each day.

Field, who commented that he can't think of anything much more reprehensible than stealing money from a blind man," said he suspended Hatfield's sentence because the defendant had been in jail since the crime and had had no prior arrests.

Train Kills Man

IRONTON, Ohio (UPI)—George Green, 52, Ironton, was killed Tuesday night when he was struck by a Norfolk & Western freight train at the North Second Street overpass. Authorities said crewmembers told them Green was lying on the ground with his head near the track. The victim was struck by an overhanging structure on the diesel engine.

'Old Ironsides' Restoration Will Take Two Years

By TOM HORGAN

BOSTON (AP) — An enduring symbol of the nation's sea power is receiving a million-dollar refurbishing. This token of the country's maritime might is of course the USS Constituion, better known as "Old Ironsides."

At this very moment, two railroad flatcars are rolling across the continent carrying eight titanic timbers, about 250 years in growing. The trees were thrusting green spires skyward in a forest near Molalla, Ore., long before Joshua Humphreys launched the Constitution in Boston in 1797.

"Old Ironsides" is the oldest warship still in commission afloat. She flies the two-starred flag of the 1st Naval District's commandant, who is presently Rear Adm. Joseph Wellings.

Only Lord Nelson's flagship Victory is older, but she is far from in commission, declining in an earth-bound bed at Portsmouth, England.

The timbers en route are Douglas fir, 100 feet long and 18 inches square. When fabricated they will produce a 93-foot foremast and an 86-foot mizzen, with diameters in the vicinity of three feet. The present mainmast does not require replacement.

There are about 800 species of birds in the United States.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 189 "On the 3rd of July 1862, I signed in Liverpool the articles that made me one of the crew of 'the 290'—afterwards the Alabama. The shipping agent, Campbell, warned me against Yankee spies, and assured me that in three months Great Britain would declare war against the United States."

That begins an account by one who sailed for two years in the second of the specially designed cruisers contracted for at Laird's shipyard by the Confederate naval agent, Capt. J. D. Bulloch of Georgia. The first was the Florida, which had departed from Liverpool March 22, 1862, under the English flag. At Nassau, the Florida was outfitted for raiding.

Clearly, "the 290" (consecutive number of the hull at the shipyard) was another Florida. The U.S.A. minister in London, Charles Francis Adams, protested strongly. British officialdom moved slowly. When orders were telegraphed from London for the ship to be held in port, "the 290" had slipped away under pretense of a trial trip, unarmed but fitted for guns. She was 1,020 tons, 220 feet long, with twin 220 horsepower auxiliary engines.

At the Azores, she was supplied by an English ship with guns, munitions, coal, plus "volunteers" for the crew: Englishmen and Irishmen described by contemporary observers as "the most reckless sailors from groggeries and brothels of Liverpool."

Capt. Raphael Semmes drilled these into his crew, and went hunting for unescorted Union cargo carriers. Before she met her match two years later, the Alabama captured, burned or sank more than 60 ships.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 190 Volunteer enlistments were failing to provide all the manpower needed by Union Army and Navy commanders for new regiments and divisions or ships, and as replacements for the fallen or incapacitated. (In the Seven Days' Battles, June 25-July 1, in Virginia, there were 15,849 dead, wounded, or missing. In the same week, there were hundreds of other Union casualties in the Mississippi Valley campaigns, in the Army's drive down the Atlantic Coast, and on Navy vessels in the Mississippi and high seas.)

On July 17, President Lincoln obtained Congress' approval of his calling on the states for 300,000 militia between 18 and 45, to serve nine months. He proceeded to command the governors of the states to draft men from the militia ranks if their quotas could not be filled by volunteers—the initial step in following the Confederates' adoption of mass conscription.

Offering of bounties and making of such appeals as this one [at left] in Connecticut, to "close your manufacturies and workshops; turn aside from your farms and your business; leave for a while your families; meet face to face the enemies of your liberties" remained ineffective, and left the national government no choice except a full-scale draft. It did so after the congressional elections in November 1862.

Incidentally, the Confederate losses in the Seven Days' battles in Virginia were larger than the 15,849 total for the Union. They are given in Burke Davis' book of sidelights, "Our Incredible Civil War," as 3,903 killed in action, 18,735 wounded, and 5,425 missing. A higher percentage of Confederate wounded than Union wounded died because of inferior medical service.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

A PROCLAMATION.

Citizens of Connecticut!

You are again called upon to rally to the support of the Government. In the name of our common country I call upon you to enroll your names for the immediate formation of to be used in suppressing the Rebellion. Our troops may be held in check, and our men die on the battle-field, but the cause of civil liberty must be advanced; the supremacy of the Government must be maintained. Prompt and decisive action will be economy in men and money. By delay our armies and even the nation, may be imperiled. The Rebellion, contending with the desperation of a hopeless and wicked cause, must be met with equal energy and determination. Close your manufactories and workshops; turn aside from your farms and your business; leave for awhile your families and your homes; meet face to face the enemies of your liberties. Haste, and you will rescue many noble men now struggling against superior numbers, and speedily secure the blessings of peace and good government.

Six or more Regiments of Infantry,

Given under my hand and the Seal of this State, at the City of New Haven, this third day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two.

Wind, Beetles Threaten Western Lumber Crop

By JAMES J. DOYLE

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The Western lumber industry faces a serious price decline and a mammoth clean-up job as a result of a Columbus Day windstorm that turned western Oregon and parts of Washington into a disaster area.

Damage to the timber alone ranges in the millions of dollars, and when salvaged it will glut what is already a buyer's market, pushing prices even further down.

And it must be salvaged quickly. The windfall timber, nearly 5 billion board feet from northern California to Washington, must be saved from a beetle infestation.

The windstorm has wrought an unwanted, potential harvest of some 10 billion board feet, including green timber that must be removed in salvage logging. Altogether it's worth some $250 million dollars.

President Kennedy called a two-day federal, state and private industry conference here recently to plan means of offsetting possible disastrous effects to the nation's third largest industry.

Suggests Import Quota

One means of protecting the market would be an import quota on Canadian softwood lumber imports which have 16 per cent of the domestic market. Lumbermen in the Western states have been fighting for some time, so far unsuccessfully, for such a measure.

As a result of the windfall timber which must be cleaned up and sold, more small douglas fir mills will close, lumbermen say. In the past few years, concurrent with the rise of Canadian imports, more than 200 such mills have closed.

Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon asked President Kennedy at the outset of the Portland conference to invoke the quota under the Agricultural Adjustment Act. Lumbermen made the same request earlier this year, but to no avail.

Two Democratic members of the congressional delegation, Rep. Al Ullman and Sen. Maurine Neuberger, have urged means other than import quotas to solve the industry's problems — before the storm crisis and since.

G. Cleveland Edgett, executive vice president of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, noted a further complication in the marketing of salvage timber: much recovered lumber will be in the common grades because the trees were badly shattered.

Cites Problem

The problem here is to convert this windblown timber into merchantable products and market them at a price commensurate with costs involved.

Dr. Dewayne Kreager, consulting economist of Seattle, says a depressed price appears to be inevitable, because for most of the past decade lumber prices have lagged behind other wholesale indexes in the U.S. economy.

The salvage itself will be tremendously expensive. It must be done before March 1964, to protect the downed timber from the Douglas fir bark bettle.

The reddish-brown, quarter-inch long insect is now in the overwintering stage. Adults bettles are due next March and they will be of endemic number. If the eggs are not cleared through salvage of windthrow, the situation would be epidemic by March 1964. Green timber, not storm damaged, would be attacked by the beetles.

A spokesman for the forest industries laboratories at Oregon State University says they could cause 33 per cent as much damage as the windstorm did.

Another hazard is that of fire. Dry needles now cover the forest floor, nipped off by the wind. They present a serious hazard for the dry months of 1963 and a greater than usual loss is expected.

DeGaulle, 72, Dislikes Birthdays

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles De Gaulle will be 72 today. But it's doubtful anyone will risk singing "happy birthday" to him.

De Gaulle is a man who detests Birthdays. Still more he hates to have them remembered.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — President E. G. Grimm, Terra Alta, of the West Virginia Sawmill Operators Association, has complained to Gov. W. W. Barron and State Natural Resources Director Warden M. Lane about the leasing of state-owned timber land without competitive bidding.

Grimm said the governor's office has assured him that in the future, the state's timber will be put out on bids.

However, Lane said his timber-leasing plan is in the best interest of the state and that the state attorney general's office had advised him he was acting within the law.

Grimm said members of his association believe they should be given the chance to bid on some 70,000 acres of timber in state forests, just as they are able to bid on timber in national forests operated by the federal government.

Lane said he currently is negotiating with Belcher Lumber Co., Bluefield, for a lease contingent upon the establishment in West Virginia of two furniture plants costing $4 million and employing 1,000 to 1,500 persons.

The director said if the deal goes through, Belcher will build a mill at Cowen, Webster County.

Lane emphasized that he will not sell any timber until the furniture plants are built and ready to begin operations, probably by next fall. He also said he would sell timber to anyone who can guarantee that the timber will be used in West Virginia for the manufacture of wood products.

The director said most of West Virginia's timber is going to out-of-state furniture-makers. He said state timber worth $75 a thousand board-feet is used to make $7,500 worth of furniture in other states.

Lane said that from a 10-year lease, his department can realize a net profit of $100,000 a year for the purchase of additional hunting, fishing and recreation areas.

A report was given by Mrs. Logsdon on the fall conference which she attended at the Cadoa in Baltimore. Reports were also submitted by the various committees.

A cope and veil, made by a member of the court, was donated to the Capuchin missions. A donation was given to the lepersarium and towards the painting of the interior of St. Patrick's Church.

Plans were made for the annual Christmas party December 12 in St. Patrick's Hall. A prize was won by Mrs. Catherine Fannon.

Sentence Suspended In Theft Of Dime From Blind Man

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A Huntington man who pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a dime from a blind man has been given a suspended sentence by Federal Judge John A. Field Jr.

An FBI agent told Field he watched as Clifford P. Hatfield, 50, stole the dime from the concession stand operated by a blind man, Charles Ellis, in the Huntington Post Office building earlier this month.

The agent said he had put the dime on the counter in an effort to discover who had been stealing money placed there by persons who bought newspapers and sandwiches before the stand opened each day.

Field, who commented that he can't think of anything much more reprehensible than stealing money from a blind man," said he suspended Hatfield's sentence because the defendant had been in jail since the crime and had had no prior arrests.

Train Kills Man

IRONTON, Ohio (UPI)—George Green, 52, Ironton, was killed Tuesday night when he was struck by a Norfolk & Western freight train at the North Second Street overpass. Westernport To Furnish Water For Franklin

WESTERNPORT — A contract agreement between the Town of Westernport and the Franklin Water Company was signed Monday night at a meeting of the Mayor and Commissioners.

Carl Shaffer and Calvin Shay, representatives of the company, requested that the contract become effective February 1 to give the firm time to complete the installation of new water lines and meters. Approval was given

The town will furnish water to Franklin at a cost of 50 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Okey Michael informed council that the Westernport Business Improvement Association has abandoned plans to purchase new Christmas street decorations. He asked the town to install present fixtures which will be turned on November 29, instead of November 30.

Water Commissioner Robert Kalbaugh suggested a water survey to check for leakage. He stated that the town is losing water. Council agreed to investigate the cost of having the survey made.

Mayor Ray L. Wilt disclosed that the water system is working at only about 50 per cent capacity, yet the reservoir and water storage tank is down.

Bernard Guy, filter plant operator, announced that four maintenancemen will be on vacation in December, causing a hardship on the town crew. Next year, vacations for municipal employes should be scheduled according to seniority, the mayor said.

Officials authorized use of the police car for the filter plant operator when it is needed for transportation to the Savage River Dam and other necessary places.

Council decided that James Rogers of Baltimore should be urged to have town books audited as soon as possible.

Barton Officials Plan Decorations

BARTON — At a recent meeting of the Mayor and City Council of Barton a decision was made to have Christmas decorations in the town for the first year.

The lights will be installed by the Potomac Edison Company and will extend from Ritchie's store to the Honor Roll on Main Street. Final arrangements for lighting will be completed after installation.

Thanksgiving Service Set At St. George's

A special offering will also be taken to send Christmas boxes to the men in the parish who are in the armed forces.

Mental Health Clinic Work Is Explained

Functions of the Allegany County Mental Hygiene Clinic were explained by Dr. Arthur F. Jones, acting deputy state health officer in the monthly newsletter issued by the Health Department.

Last month 189 persons were interviewed or attended the mental hygiene clinic for services.

Dr. Jones states the clinic is known as an all-purpose clinic, as its services are for adults, children and paroled patients from Springfield State Hospital. Its function is offering diagnostic services to residents of Allegany and Garrett counties and also limited treatment services.

The staff of the clinic consists of a full-time psychiatric social worker, a medical secretary, two part-time psychiatrists, and a part-time psychologist.

The type of referrals to be considered for clinic services are problems of emotional disturbances, social maladjustment, anti-social conduct; guidance and consultation regarding school, employment or home situation.

When patients are referred to the Mental Hygiene Clinic, either the referral agent or the patient, himself, contacts the Health Department for an intake interview to evaluate if the clinic services can be utilized.

The function of the psychiatric social worker includes intake interviews with the patient or referral agent; making appointments with psychiatrist and psychologist; assisting with hospital arrangements for patients committed to Springfield State Hospital and planning programs of treatment with available community resources and education.

The psychiatrists give diagnostic services to patients selected in conference with the social worker. He determines what cases are suitable for therapy, selects cases for psychological studies and advises the social worker as to what cases she has the responsibility for follow-up treatment.

The function of the psychologist is to administer psychological studies to the patients selected by psychiatrists and write an evaluation of the studies.

One day each month the psychiatric social worker works at Springfield State Hospital. She interviews patients who are residents of Allegany and Garrett counties and plan to return to the community. If there are no resources available through relatives, she helps make us of community resources.

In October, Dr. Carrasco, child psychiatrist, extended his clinic hours in order to offer therapy to adults selected by Dr. Richard W. Trevaskis Jr., clinician of the adult clinic.

4 Face Charges In Bombing Of Public School

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Baltimore County police charged four young men Wednesday with "wilfully and maliciously blowing up and destroying" part of the Westown Elementary School in Catonsville.

Police said the homemade bomb, which exploded during a teen-age dance at the school recreation center, wrecked a classroom. Damage was estimated at $4,500.

Officers said no motive was apparent for the bombing. The four-inch metal bomb stuffed with black powder was placed on a ledge just inside the classroom after the window had been kicked out.

The accused were identified as: Thomas R. Parks, 21, a plumber's helper in Catonsville; Richard A. Zapf, 23, also of Catonsville, a mechanic; Roy E. Harding, 18, of Brooklyn, an apprentice electrician, and Dayton F. Lochery, 21, Baltimore machinist apprentice.

All four were held in the Baltimore County Jail under $10,000 bail each after waiving preliminary hearings. Conviction of the offense carries a maximum penalty of 20 years imprisonment, a $10,000 fine or both.

Boston Gridder Is Fined $500

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jess Richardson, 265-pound defensive tackle for the Boston Patriots, was fined $500 Wednesday for intentionally bumping an official in last Sunday's Boston-Houston American Football League game at Houston.

Commissioner Joe Foss levied the fine—stiffest in AFL history.

Richardson was ejected from the game, which carries an automatic fine of $50, but Foss considered the nature of the offense so severe that he made it 10 times as high.

Richardson argued over a decision too vociferously.

Annual Income Forms Of VA To Be Mailed

Persons presently receiving nonservice pension benefits from the Veterans Administration are advised by Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant state service officer for Maryland Veterans Commission, that the annual income questionnaires which previously had been enclosed with the December checks will be enclosed with the Novmeber checks which they will receive on or about November 30.

This procedure has been inaugurated by the VA in order to allow the pensioner to have two months instead of one to complete the form.

The completed forms must be returned to the VA before January 31, 1963, otherwise pensions will be discontinued, and there is a possibility that the entire amount of benefits received during 1962 will have to be refunded to the Veterans Administration.

The forms, similar to those of past years, must be completed carefully so as not to cause loss of pension, Mr. Kildruff said. The questionnaire card must not be folded, torn or damaged in any way which would prevent it from going through the IBM machine.

Veterans and dependents who are receiving service-connected disability compensation payments will not be required to file questionnaires pertaining to their income. The form enclosed in the November check applies only to veterans who are receiving nonservice-connected disability benefits. It also applies to widows and children of veterans who died as a result of nonservice-connected disabilities.

Persons desiring assistance in completion of the forms may contact the VA office at the County Building, 111 Union Street. Hours are 9 until 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Equal Rights Proposals Are Sent To Tawes

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland's interracial commission submitted proposed legislation to Gov. Tawes Wednesday which would guarantee Negroes equal rights in housing, employment and public places.

If acceptable to the governor, the three bills — plus a fourth providing for enforcement — are expected to be introduced with Tawes' backing at the 1963 legislative session opening Jan. 2 in Annapolis.

The bills on employment and accommodations cleared the Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations easily but there were some objections voiced to the one on housing.

G. Cheston Carey urged dropping the housing proposal on the ground it added too heavy a burden to the commission's blanket request. Commission Chairman William C. Rogers Sr. said its purposes were achieved by President Kennedy's proclamation Tuesday night outlawing racial discrimination in housing built or guaranteed in sales by federal funds.

But two other commission members, Dr. Edward N. Wilson and S. Edward Smith, contended the state bill could do no harm even if it were covered by the presidential action.

"The primary function of this commission," said Dr. Wilson, "is to improve interracial relations and to recommend legislation to implement the provision of the laws."

Essentially, the housing bill adopted by the commission would make it unlawful to refuse to sell, lease, finance or deny or withhold commercial housing because of race.

Blockade Figures Are Disclosed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy disclosed here that its blockade force around Cuba totalled 63 ships and 25,000 men at the time President Kennedy ordered it dissolved Tuesday night. That was a bigger force thean the normal size of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

The city planning process is one that coordinates the future growth of the city with various elements. A master plan is prepared which will govern all future growth of the city and will include physical-land use, street patterns and utilities; social-population growth, parks-recreation; economics-job possibilities and factories; legal-preparing ordinances and coordinating the city planning with the county and state; and fiscal-finance.

Westernport To Furnish Water For Franklin

WESTERNPORT — A contract agreement between the Town of Westernport and the Franklin Water Company was signed Monday night at a meeting of the Mayor and Commissioners.

Carl Shaffer and Calvin Shay, representatives of the company, requested that the contract become effective February 1 to give the firm time to complete the installation of new water lines and meters. Approval was given

The town will furnish water to Franklin at a cost of 50 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Okey Michael informed council that the Westernport Business Improvement Association has abandoned plans to purchase new Christmas street decorations. He asked the town to install present fixtures which will be turned on November 29, instead of November 30.

Water Commissioner Robert Kalbaugh suggested a water survey to check for leakage. He stated that the town is losing water. Council agreed to investigate the cost of having the survey made.

Mayor Ray L. Wilt disclosed that the water system is working at only about 50 per cent capacity, yet the reservoir and water storage tank is down.

Bernard Guy, filter plant operator, announced that four maintenancemen will be on vacation in December, causing a hardship on the town crew. Next year, vacations for municipal employes should be scheduled according to seniority, the mayor said.

Officials authorized use of the police car for the filter plant operator when it is needed for transportation to the Savage River Dam and other necessary places.

Council decided that James Rogers of Baltimore should be urged to have town books audited as soon as possible.

Barton Officials Plan Decorations

BARTON — At a recent meeting of the Mayor and City Council of Barton a decision was made to have Christmas decorations in the town for the first year.

The lights will be installed by the Potomac Edison Company and will extend from Ritchie's store to the Honor Roll on Main Street. Final arrangements for lighting will be completed after installation.

Thanksgiving Service Set At St. George's

MT. SAVAGE — A Thanksgiving Day service will be held at St. George's Church at 10 a.m. Holy Communion will be celebrated.

The choir will sing "Praise Ye The Father" during the Offertory. The altar will be decorated in the harvest home array with wheat, fruits and vegetables and a quantity of various canned goods which will be later sent to St. Gabriel's Convalescent Home.

A special offering will also be taken to send Christmas boxes to the men in the parish who are in the armed forces.

Mental Health Clinic Work Is Explained

Functions of the Allegany County Mental Hygiene Clinic were explained by Dr. Arthur F. Jones, acting deputy state health officer in the monthly newsletter issued by the Health Department.

Last month 189 persons were interviewed or attended the mental hygiene clinic for services.

Dr. Jones states the clinic is known as an all-purpose clinic, as its services are for adults, children and paroled patients from Springfield State Hospital. Its function is offering diagnostic services to residents of Allegany and Garrett counties and also limited treatment services.

The staff of the clinic consists of a full-time psychiatric social worker, a medical secretary, two part-time psychiatrists, and a part-time psychologist.

The type of referrals to be considered for clinic services are problems of emotional disturbances, social maladjustment, antisocial conduct; guidance and consultation regarding school, employment or home situation.

When patients are referred to the Mental Hygiene Clinic, either the referral agent or the patient, himself, contacts the Health Department for an intake interview to evaluate if the clinic services can be utilized.

The function of the psychiatric social worker includes intake interviews with the patient or referral agent; making appointments with psychiatrist and psychologist; assisting with hospital arrangements for patients committed to Springfield State Hospital and planning programs of treatment with available community resources and education.

The psychiatrists give diagnostic services to patients selected in conference with the social worker. He determines what cases are suitable for therapy, selects cases for psychological studies and advises the social worker as to what cases she has the responsibility for follow-up treatment.

The function of the psychologist is to administer psychological studies to the patients selected by psychiatrists and write an evaluation of the studies.

One day each month the psychiatric social worker works at Springfield State Hospital. She interviews patients who are residents of Allegany and Garrett counties and plan to return to the community. If there are no resources available through relatives, she helps make us of community resources.

In October, Dr. Carrasco, child psychiatrist, extended his clinic hours in order to offer therapy to adults selected by Dr. Richard W. Trevaskis Jr., clinician of the adult clinic.

4 Face Charges In Bombing Of Public School

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Baltimore County police charged four young men Wednesday with "wilfully and maliciously blowing up and destroying" part of the Westown Elementary School in Catonsville.

Police said the homemade bomb, which exploded during a teen-age dance at the school recreation center, wrecked a classroom. Damage was estimated at $4,500.

Officers said no motive was apparent for the bombing. The four-inch metal bomb stuffed with black powder was placed on a ledge just inside the classroom after the window had been kicked out.

The accused were identified as: Thomas R. Parks, 21, a plumber's helper in Catonsville; Richard A. Zapf, 23, also of Catonsville, a mechanic; Roy E. Harding, 18, of Brooklyn, an apprentice electrician, and Dayton F. Lochery, 21, Baltimore machinist apprentice.

All four were held in the Baltimore County Jail under $10,000 bail each after waiving preliminary hearings. Conviction of the offense carries a maximum penalty of 20 years imprisonment, a $10,000 fine or both.

Boston Gridder Is Fined $500

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jess Richardson, 265-pound defensive tackle for the Boston Patriots, was fined $500 Wednesday for intentionally bumping an official in last Sunday's Boston-Houston American Football League game at Houston.

Richardson was ejected from the game, which carries an automatic fine of $50, but Foss considered the nature of the offense so severe that he made it 10 times as high.

Richardson argued over a decision too vociferously.

Annual Income Forms Of VA To Be Mailed

Persons presently receiving nonservice pension benefits from the Veterans Administration are advised by Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant state service officer for Maryland Veterans Commission, that the annual income questionnaires which previously had been enclosed with the December checks will be enclosed with the Novmeber checks which they will receive on or about November 30.

This procedure has been inaugurated by the VA in order to allow the pensioner to have two months instead of one to complete the form.

The completed forms must be returned to the VA before January 31, 1963, otherwise pensions will be discontinued, and there is a possibility that the entire amount of benefits received during 1962 will have to be refunded to the Veterans Administration.

The forms, similar to those of past years, must be completed carefully so as not to cause loss of pension, Mr. Kildruff said. The questionnaire card must not be folded, torn or damaged in any way which would prevent it from going through the IBM machine.

Veterans and dependents who are receiving service-connected disability compensation payments will not be required to file questionnaires pertaining to their income. The form enclosed in the November check applies only to veterans who are receiving nonservice-connected disability benefits. It also applies to widows and children of veterans who died as a result of nonservice-connected disabilities.

Persons desiring assistance in completion of the forms may contact the VA office at the County Building, 111 Union Street. Hours are 9 until 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Equal Rights Proposals Are Sent To Tawes

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland's interracial commission submitted proposed legislation to Gov. Tawes Wednesday which would guarantee Negroes equal rights in housing, employment and public places.

If acceptable to the governor, the three bills — plus a fourth providing for enforcement — are expected to be introduced with Tawes' backing at the 1963 legislative session opening Jan. 2 in Annapolis.

The bills on employment and accommodations cleared the Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations easily but there were some objections voiced to the one on housing.

G. Cheston Carey urged dropping the housing proposal on the ground it added too heavy a burden to the commission's blanket request. Commission Chairman William C. Rogers Sr. said its purposes were achieved by President Kennedy's proclamation Tuesday night outlawing racial discrimination in housing built or guaranteed in sales by federal funds.

But two other commission members, Dr. Edward N. Wilson and S. Edward Smith, contended the state bill could do no harm even if it were covered by the presidential action.

"The primary function of this commission," said Dr. Wilson, "is to improve interracial relations and to recommend legislation to implement the provision of the laws."

Essentially, the housing bill adopted by the commission would make it unlawful to refuse to sell, lease, finance or deny or withhold commercial housing because of race.

IN PIRATES-RED SOX TRADE — The Pittsburgh Pirates announced yesterday they traded First Baseman Dick Stuart and Pitcher Jack Lamabe to the Boston Red Sox for Pitcher Don Schwall and Catcher Jim Pagliaroni. It was the second major trade engineered by General Manager Joe L. Brown of the Pirates in three days. (AP Photofax)

Pirates Trade Dick Stuart To Boston Red Sox

Bucs Get Schwall And Pagliaroni

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates sent first baseman Dick Stuart and relief pitcher Jack Lamabe to the Boston Red Sox Wednesday and General Manager Joe L. Brown promptly announced other trades could be anticipated.

Promising a "shakeup," Brown pulled his second major trade within 48 hours with the acquisition of pitcher Don Schwall and catcher Jim Pagliaroni from the Redsox. It was the first major deal of the inter-league trading period.

Just Monday, the Pirates sent shortstop Dick Groat and relief hurler Domedes Olivo to St. Louis for pitcher Don Cardwell and Julio Gotay, a shortstop, in a youth movement designed to bolster the club.

"Again we feel the Pirates have strengthened themselves considerably," Brown said. "We now have a catcher who possess great promise."

In Pagliaroni, 25, a former Red Sox bonus baby, and Schwall, 24, the American League's Rookie of the Year in 1961, the Pirates picked up two more young players.

"Our primary purpose was to strengthen the club in '63," Brown said, "and age also is a plus in our favor."

"Fenway Park will suit me better," the powerful slugger said. "I feel I can hit 50 in any park but Forbes Field."

Stuart's best year came in 1961 when he hit .301 with 35 home runs and 117 RBI's. Last season he slumped badly, hitting only .228 with 16 homers and 64 RBI's. He has a lifetime mark of .272 and 117 home runs since coming to the major in mid-season 1958.

Schwall, the other principal in the trade, also slumped last season after a brilliant rookie performance.

Coming to the Red Sox in May, 1961 from Seattle, he had a 15-7 record and a 3.22 ERA. Control troubles hampered him last year and he slipped to 9-15.

Denver Will Test New York Titans

DENVER (UPI)—The Denver Broncos, already virtually eliminated from championship contention, face the New York Titans Thursday in a bid to snap a two-game losing streak and protect their mathematical chance of capturing the American Football League's Western Division title.

Coach Jack Faulkner said the Broncos, who have suffered three of their four losses in their past four games, were "showing some fire again" and should be able to live up to their favorite's role. Denver beat the Titans, 32-10, in their first meeting this year.

Broncos officials hope to make the game the first in an annual series of Thanksgiving Day contests. It is the first of three AFL games this season to be televised nationally, (by ABC) at 3 p.m. EST.

The Broncos-Titans match opens a four-game weekend schedule for AFL teams. Buffalo is at Boston Friday night. San Diego is at Houston and Oakland at Dallas in two games to be televised regionally Sunday.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Dale Story of Oregon State, who ran the four-mile, snow-covered course barefoot last year, will be back to defend his individual title at the 24th NCAA cross country run Monday at Michigan State.

WHEN Crewman led all the way to win the rich Garden State over a sloppy track his time of 1:44 for the one mile and a sixteenth was the third fastest in the 10 runnings of the New Jersey feature.

Sport Talk with Troxell by Ted

THIS HAS NOT BEEN an especially rewarding season for two of the three Cumberland schools involved in today's traditional Turkey Day battles at the Stadium and up in Frostburg, but the hour of redemption could be close at hand.

Allegany and LaSalle go into their respective battles on the short end of the odds, but no one concerned with either of these teams is ready to concede anything.

It has often been said that past records, comparative scores, etc., mean nothing in these traditional classics. With this we can't agree entirely, but it is true that the intense rivalries are such that the underdog team generally comes up with a supreme effort.

To think that either, or both, of these clubs is not capable of victory today is ridiculous. On certain occasions this year, both have flashed good form, and Allegany showed steady improvement in its last several games.

The Campers carry a record of four wins, three losses and two ties into the Stadium this afternoon, but with a few breaks here and there during the season, this mark could have looked much more respectable.

LaSalle has won only two games and tied once in nine appearances, but it must be remembered that the deadlock (7-7) came against a big, rugged Bedford team which had nothing but praise for the Explorers' performance. Another showing like that could make things interesting in Frostburg.

Several factors have Allegany fans envisioning an upset. As mentioned, the Campers have been coming on strong of late, and they'll be at their healthiest today after suffering through a season plagued by numerous injuries to key personnel.

In Allegany County today, all roads lead to one of two places—the Stadium on Greenway Avenue in Cumberland, and Beall High Stadium in Frostburg. But the paths of thought are going in distinctly different directions.

SMALL TALK IN SPORTS—In Frostburg State's final football game of the season against Grove City (Pa.) State College several weeks ago, one of the Bobcats' linemen re-injured a knee that had been troubling him all year. Realizing that his college career had come to an end, he was a dejected figure on the bench. One of his teammates managed to get a rise out of him with this crack, "Well, I guess that kills your chances of playing in the Senior Bowl!" . . . Allegany's 1962 football team lays claim to one unofficial record that will probably be hard to beat. There are four sets of brothers on the Camper squad—Bob and Mike Harvey, Pat and Joe Chorpenning, Dave and Rick Merrill, and the Miller twins Jay and Kay. Two of the brother acts will be broken up next season, as Mike Harvey and Dave Merrill will be graduating in June. The Chorpenning brothers and the Miller twins are all juniors, and Bob Harvey and Rick Merrill are both sophomores.

Brown, Rogers Nearing New ACC Records

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—If Maryland's Tom Brown catches five passes against Virginia and Clemson's Rodney Rogers kicks a field goal against South Carolina Saturday, both will write new Atlantic Coast Conference records in their specialties.

Brown caught six passes against Clemson last Saturday. This raised his nine-game total to 43, only four short of the single-season conference record of 47 set in 1958 by Virginia's Sonny Randle.

Rogers, whose 23-yard field goal beat the Terps 17--14 in the waning seconds, tied the ACC one-season record in the process, booting his fifth in nine games. He shares the record with Bill Reynolds of Duke, Mickey Walker of Wake Forest and John Hannigan of Maryland, all of whom kicked five three-pointers last fall.

Hannigan tops extra point kickers with 14 for 15, trailed by Rogers with 11 for 14 and Reynolds 17 for 22.

Under the tourney rules, if a former winner takes the title for the second time, he will win an additional $5,000. For a two-time winner who makes it three times, the bonus will be $10,000.

Fort Hill played seven teams met by Allegany. Records of other teams were: Bell Vocational 3-4-1, Windber 3-5-2.

Fort Hill's Sentinels are conceded an edge over the Campers of Allegany High School when the teams collide head-on at the local stadium today at 1:30 p.m., for the city football championship.

This is the 27th Thanksgiving Day contest between the schools and approximately 7,000 persons are expected to sit in on the battle at the Greenway Avenue bowl. Last year 7,487 paid $8,973 to see Fort Hill register a 14-0 triumph after having absorbed two straight shutout defeats at the hands of Coach Ed Schwarz's Campobello teams.

Fort Hill, with Charles E. Lattimer at the helm for the fourth straight season, takes an 8-1 record into today's game. The only blemish on the Sentinels' record is an 18-7 setback at the hands of South Hagerstown's Rebels who romped to their second straight title in the C.V.A. League with a 6-0 record and an overall mark of 9-0. South High won over Allegany by the score of 31-12.

Campers Are Improved

Ed Schwarz's team got off to a slow start this season but has generated power in recent weeks to come from 1-3-1 to its present record of 4-3-2 and some Camper followers, dumping comparative scores out the window, feel that the West Siders are capable of providing a surprise in the season's windup affair.

Allegany has beaten four of the teams that Fort Hill whipped, namely, winless North Hagerstown, LaSalle, Westminster and Beall. Both schools lost to the Rebels. The Sentinels whipped Frederick 14-0 and Allegany battled the Cadets to a 7-7 tie. Fort Hill was extended to eke out a 20-13 decision over Martinsburg after the Campers fought the Bulldogs to a scoreless tie.

Scored 38 Touchdowns

Fort Hill has rolled up a total of 38 touchdowns and Pat Wilson has kicked 31 extra points in 38 tries to give Lattimer's team a total of 259 points to 57 by the opposition. Six players, Colin Smith, Rich Robinson, Del Proudfoot, Wilson, Jack Williams and Bob Henry have accounted for 217 of the tallies.

The Campers have scored only 22 touchdowns and seven conversions in registering 139 points to the opposition's 113. Fifty-nine of the tallies are credited to Jim Bowman who collected all 25 points against Westminster and accounted for 19 of the 31 markers scored against LaSalle. Bowman, incidentally, is the city's leading scorer at the present time while Fort Hill's Smith holds the runner-up spot with five points less.

Schwarz Holds 2-1 Edge

Coaches Lattimer and Schwarz, both products of the University of Maryland, will be opposing each other for the fourth straight year. The Allegany mentor holds a 2-1 edge over his crosstown rival in the matter of wins on Turkey Day. The most successful mentor in the holiday clashes was William P. Hahn, present Wheaton High mentor, who sent Fort Hill teams into 14 contests and emerged with an 11-1-2 record. Herman Ball was 6-1 against Fort Hill and

IN PIRATES-RED SOX TRADE — The Pittsburgh Pirates announced yesterday they traded First Baseman Dick Stuart and Pitcher Jack Lamabe to the Boston Red Sox for Pitcher Don Schwall and Catcher Jim Pagliaroni. It was the second major trade engineered by General Manager Joe L. Brown of the Pirates in three days. (AP Photofax)

Bucs Get Schwall And Pagliaroni

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates sent first baseman Dick Stuart and relief pitcher Jack Lamabe to the Boston Red Sox Wednesday and General Manager Joe L. Brown promptly announced other trades could be anticipated.

Promising a "shakeup," Brown pulled his second major trade within 48 hours with the acquisition of pitcher Don Schwall and catcher Jim Pagliaroni from the Redsox. It was the first major deal of the inter-league trading period.

Just Monday, the Pirates sent shortstop Dick Groat and relief hurler Domedes Olivo to St. Louis for pitcher Don Cardwell and Julio Gotay, a shortstop, in a youth movement designed to bolster the club.

"Again we feel the Pirates have strengthened themselves considerably," Brown said. "We now have a starting pitcher and a catcher who possess great promise."

In Pagliaroni, 25, a former Red Sox bonus baby, and Schwall, 24, the American League's Rookie of the Year in 1961, the Pirates picked up two more young players.

"Our primary purpose was to strengthen the club in '63," Brown said, "and age also is a plus in our favor."

"Fenway Park will suit me better," the powerful slugger said. "I feel I can hit 50 in any park but Forbes Field."

Stuart's best year came in 1961 when he hit .301 with 35 home runs and 117 RBI's. Last season he slumped badly, hitting only .228 with 16 homers and 64 RBI's. He has a lifetime mark of .272 and 117 home runs since coming to the major in mid-season 1958.

Schwall, the other principal in the trade, also slumped last season after a brilliant rookie performance.

Coming to the Red Sox in May, 1961 from Seattle, he had a 15-7 record and a 3.22 ERA. Control troubles hampered him last year and he slipped to 9-15.

Denver Will Test New York Titans

DENVER (UPI)—The Denver Broncos, already virtually eliminated from championship contention, face the New York Titans Thursday in a bid to snap a two-game losing streak and protect their mathematical chance of capturing the American Football League's Western Division title.

Coach Jack Faulkner said the Broncos, who have suffered three of their four losses in their past four games, were "showing some fire again" and should be able to live up to their favorite's role. Denver beat the Titans, 32-10, in their first meeting this year.

Broncos officials hope to make the game the first in an annual series of Thanksgiving Day contests. It is the first of three AFL games this season to be televised nationally, (by ABC) at 3 p.m. EST.

The Broncos-Titans match opens a four-game weekend schedule for AFL teams. Buffalo is at Boston Friday night. San Diego is at Houston and Oakland at Dallas in two games to be televised regionally Sunday.

Story To Return

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Dale Story of Oregon State, who ran the four-mile, snow-covered course barefoot last year, will be back to defend his individual title at the 24th NCAA cross country run Monday at Michigan State.

WHEN Crewman led all the way to win the rich Garden State over a sloppy track his time of 1:44 for the one mile and a sixteenth was the third fastest in the 10 runnings of the New Jersey feature.

Sport Talk with Troxell by Ted

THIS HAS NOT BEEN an especially rewarding season for two of the three Cumberland schools involved in today's traditional Turkey Day battles at the Stadium and up in Frostburg, but the hour of redemption could be close at hand.

Allegany and LaSalle go into their respective battles on the short end of the odds, but no one concerned with either of these teams is ready to concede anything.

It has often been said that past records, comparative scores, etc., mean nothing in these traditional classics. With this we can't agree entirely, but it is true that the intense rivalries are such that the underdog team generally comes up with a supreme effort.

To think that either, or both, of these clubs is not capable of victory today is ridiculous. On certain occasions this year, both have flashed good form, and Allegany showed steady improvement in its last several games.

The Campers carry a record of four wins, three losses and two ties into the Stadium this afternoon, but with a few breaks here and there during the season, this mark could have looked much more respectable.

LaSalle has won only two games and tied once in nine appearances, but it must be remembered that the deadlock (7-7) came against a big, rugged Bedford team which had nothing but praise for the Explorers' performance. Another showing like that could make things interesting in Frostburg.

Several factors have Allegany fans envisioning an upset. As mentioned, the Campers have been coming on strong of late, and they'll be at their healthiest today after suffering through a season plagued by numerous injuries to key personnel.

In Allegany County today, all roads lead to one of two places—the Stadium on Greenway Avenue in Cumberland, and Beall High Stadium in Frostburg. But the paths of thought are going in distinctly different directions.

SMALL TALK IN SPORTS—In Frostburg State's final football game of the season against Grove City (Pa.) State College several weeks ago, one of the Bobcats' linemen re-injured a knee that had been troubling him all year. Realizing that his college career had come to an end, he was a dejected figure on the bench. One of his teammates managed to get a rise out of him with this crack, "Well, I guess that kills your chances of playing in the Senior Bowl!" . . . Allegany's 1962 football team lays claim to one unofficial record that will probably be hard to beat. There are four sets of brothers on the Camper squad—Bob and Mike Harvey, Pat and Joe Chorpenning, Dave and Rick Merrill, and the Miller twins Jay and Kay. Two of the brother acts will be broken up next season, as Mike Harvey and Dave Merrill will be graduating in June. The Chorpenning brothers and the Miller twins are all juniors, and Bob Harvey and Rick Merrill are both sophomores.

Carling Open Draws Champs

Tony Lema, Barnum, Ragan To Compete

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—A field of top flight golfers, including defending champion Gay Brewer Jr., will tee off Thursday for the start of the $35,000 Carling Open golf tournament at Rio Pinar Country Club here.

The 10th playing of the tournament will draw the winners of the last three tournaments on the Professional Golfers Association of America tour, along with three of the top 10 money winners this year.

Tony Lema, winner of the most recent tournament at Mobile, Ala. will be on hand, as will John Barnum who won the Cajun Classic, and hometown favorite Dave Ragan who won the Beaumont Open

Top prize in the tourney will be $5,300, but seven of the competitors will be shooting for additional bonus money. Under the tourney rules, if a former winner takes the title for the second time, he will win an additional $5,000. For a two-time winner who makes it three times, the bonus will be $10,000.

To Defend Title

Pitcher Farmed

Brown, Rogers Nearing New ACC Records

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—If Maryland's Tom Brown catches five passes against Virginia and Clemson's Rodney Rogers kicks a field goal against South Carolina Saturday, both will write new Atlantic Coast Conference records in their specialties.

Brown caught six passes against Clemson last Saturday. This raised his nine-game total to 43, only four short of the single-season conference record of 47 set in 1958 by Virginia's Sonny Randle.

Rogers, whose 23-yard field goal beat the Terps 17--14 in the waning seconds, tied the ACC one-season record in the process, booting his fifth in nine games. He shares the record with Bill Reynolds of Duke, Mickey Walker of Wake Forest and John Hannigan of Maryland, all of whom kicked five three-pointers last fall.

VMI Needs Win Today To Cop Southern Conference Crown

VPI 6-Point Choice, Longhorns Favored Over Texas Aggies

By United Press International

Turkey Day isn't what it used to be in college football, but a nationally-televised clash between Texas and Texas A. & M. heads a six-course menu that should prove interesting to the nation's gridiron fans.

The Texas Longhorns, unbeaten in nine games with eight wins and one tie, can wrap up the Southwest Conference championship by beating the Aggies in their clash at Austin, Tex.

Favored By 16 Points

Oddsmakers peg the Longhorns as 16-point favorites to do just exactly that and, if they do, it will settle at least one and probably two bowl berths. A victory would give Texas the host berth in the Cotton Bowl game; it also would leave Southwest Conference second-place team Arkansas free to accept another bowl bid—probably the Sugar Bowl.

Arkansas players already have voted a preference for the Sugar, if they lose out for the Cotton, but aren't considering any bids until the Southwest Conference race is formally clinched.

Texas A. & M. has a 3-3 conference record and 3-6 overall.

Games next in order of importance on the Thanksgiving Day holiday find Virginia Tech a six-point favorite over VMI and North Carolina State a 12-point pick over Wake Forest.

VMI Seeks Title

The Virginia Tech-VMI game will settle the Southern Confernce championship. Underdog VMI can win the title by winning this game; but if the Keydets lose, then they drop into second place and the championship goes to West Virginia.

VMI has won all its conference games this year and lost all its non-conference games. Tech, which has been clicking since quarterback Bob Schweikert recovered from a shoulder injury, has a 5-4 overall record. VMI is shooting for its fourth league title in the last six years.

Other leading games on the program include Colorado St. U.-Montana, Richmond-William and Mary, and Tulsa-Wichita.

Fort Hill played seven teams met by Allegany. Records of other teams were: Bell Vocational 3-4-1, Windber 3-5-2.

Fort Hill's Sentinels are conceded an edge over the Campers of Allegany High School when the teams collide head-on at the local stadium today at 1:30 p.m., for the city football championship.

This is the 27th Thanksgiving Day contest between the schools and approximately 7,000 persons are expected to sit in on the battle at the Greenway Avenue bowl. Last year 7,487 paid $8,973 to see Fort Hill register a 14-0 triumph after having absorbed two straight shutout defeats at the hands of Coach Ed Schwarz's Campobello teams.

Fort Hill, with Charles E. Lattimer at the helm for the fourth straight season, takes an 8-1 record into today's game. The only blemish on the Sentinels' record is an 18-7 setback at the hands of South Hagerstown's Rebels who romped to their second straight title in the C.V.A. League with a 6-0 record and an overall mark of 9-0. South High won over Allegany by the score of 31-12.

Campers Are Improved

Ed Schwarz's team got off to a slow start this season but has generated power in recent weeks to come from 1-3-1 to its present record of 4-3-2 and some Camper followers, dumping comparative scores out the window, feel that the West Siders are capable of providing a surprise in the season's windup affair.

Allegany has beaten four of the teams that Fort Hill whipped, namely, winless North Hagerstown, LaSalle, Westminster and Beall. Both schools lost to the Rebels. The Sentinels whipped Frederick 14-0 and Allegany battled the Cadets to a 7-7 tie. Fort Hill was extended to eke out a 20-13 decision over Martinsburg after the Campers fought the Bulldogs to a scoreless tie.

Scored 38 Touchdowns

Fort Hill has rolled up a total of 38 touchdowns and Pat Wilson has kicked 31 extra points in 38 tries to give Lattimer's team a total of 259 points to 57 by the opposition. Six players, Colin Smith, Rich Robinson, Del Proudfoot, Wilson, Jack Williams and Bob Henry have accounted for 217 of the tallies.

The Campers have scored only 22 touchdowns and seven conversions in registering 139 points to the opposition's 113. Fifty-nine of the tallies are credited to Jim Bowman who collected all 25 points against Westminster and accounted for 19 of the 31 markers scored against LaSalle. Bowman, incidentally, is the city's leading scorer at the present time while Fort Hill's Smith holds the runner-up spot with five points less.

Schwarz Holds 2-1 Edge

Coaches Lattimer and Schwarz, both products of the University of Maryland, will be opposing each other for the fourth straight year. The Allegany mentor holds a 2-1 edge over his crosstown rival in the matter of wins on Turkey Day. The most successful mentor in the holiday clashes was William P. Hahn, present Wheaton High mentor, who sent Fort Hill teams into 14 contests and emerged with an 11-1-2 record. Harmon Ball was 6-1 against Fort Hill and

Senators Name George Selkirk General Manager

He faces the tough job of building a winner with a baseball team that finished in 10th place in the American League the past two seasons.

Club President E. R. (Pete) Quesada also announced that Joe Burke had been signed to a two-year contract as business manager at a substantial increase in salary. Burke, 38, was assistant general manager under Doherty and will continue to handle the business end of the organization.

JIM WILLS, commander of Victory Post No. 155, of Westernport, reports that his organization is planning a gala sports event for Sunday, December 9 or Sunday, December 16, to raise money for a most worthy cause—the Child Welfare Fund Program.

Wills points out that a number of needy families in the Tri-Towns have appealed to the Legion post for help and he is hopeful that a Sports Celebrities Dinner will be one means of raising funds to alleviate the misery of these unfortunate persons.

The Legion commander, who is well known as the drum major of the noted Blue Angels drum and bugle corps, has been in contact with a number of nationally known sports celebrities and expects to line up several for his program.

One of the highlights of the program will be the presentation of a plaque to an outstanding sports personality of the Tri-Towns. Names will be submitted to a committee which will select the person who will receive the award.

WESTMINSTER High School is planning to withdraw from the Cumberland Valley Athletic League and has asked release from its 1963 football contract with Allegany High School.

Allegany has played the Owls annually since 1956 and the eighth game of the series was slated for next year.

Westminster has been playing Fort Hill since 1951 but the Sentinels have not received any word as to whether the Owls will remain on their schedule in 1963.

The withdrawal of Westminster would reduce the CVAL football membership to six schools — Fort Hill, Allegany, North and South Hagerstown, Martinsburg and Frederick.

Fort Hill has won 12 consecutive games from Westminster while Allegany trails 3-4 in its series with the Owls.

THE SUSPENSION of 13 basketball officials by the West Virginia Secondary School Activities Commission for their failure to pay their dues or complete their exams on time was one of the chief topics discussed at length at the Potomac Valley Conference dinner meeting Monday at Burlington, W. Va.

Among those who drew one year penalties were Joe Stanislawczyk and Enordo "Moose" Arnone.

The suspension burned "Stan" to a crisp because he has been an official for 16 years and was set down because his dues had "arrived one day late." Arnone stated that he sent in his dues on time but his water was shut off because he forgot to forward his Part I examination papers.

It was suggested that the principals of schools in the P.V.C. send a letter to W. Gordon Eismon, executive secretary of Commission, urging that the rules be relaxed so as to relieve the shortage of officials in the area but the conference agreed to adopt a "hands off" policy in the matter.

When it was decided to poll the schools to find out how serious the situation really was it was revealed that only three of the 19 were without officials for about six games and that caused a hearty laugh.

One principal lauded the state association for the efficient manner in which it supervises the state athletic program while another laughingly predicted that all dues will be paid on time next year as a result of the suspensions.

The suspensions will not prevent the officials from working in Maryland during the 1962-63 season so Stanislawszyk and Arnone will not starve this winter because they get plenty of games in this section of the state.

BILL SHEPHERD, the backfield star of Western Maryland College in the 1930s and leading scorer in the nation in 1934 with 133 points to his credit, is among the nominees for the Football Hall of Fame.

Shepherd now resides in Detroit.

AND George K. O. Chaney, who recently was voted into Maryland's Hall of Fame, boxed at the Narrows Park Roller Rink over 40 years ago and knocked out his opponent in an early round.

A native of Baltimore, Chaney who was born in 1893, fought all the good lightweights in his day, among them Johnny Dundee, Rocky Kansas, Matt Brock, Cal Delaney, Benny Valger, Johnny Ray, Lew Tendler, Pete Hartley, Joe Welling, Willie Ritchie, Joe Tiplitz, Alex Hart, Shamus O'Brien, Johnny Kilbane, Abe Attell, Ted Marchant, Danny Kramer and Harry "Kid" Brown.

JIM LACY, the former Loyola College cage ace in Baltimore, who led the nation in scoring 13 years ago, is now the fire commissioner of Baltimore.

Lions Confident Of Beating Favored Green Bay Today

Packers Given 7-Point Edge In Game At Detroit

By CLARK HALLAS
United Press International

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Lions, who pride themselves on their defensive strength, were girded Wednesday for the Thanksgiving Day showdown against the mighty line of the unbeaten Green Bay Packers.

"We should have beaten them last time at Green Bay," said Lion linebacker Joe Schmidt. "They know they were lucky to get away with a 9-7 victory. We'll beat them this time."

Both teams look upon the National Football League clash as a "must" game, despite the fact that Green Bay holds a two-game advantage over the Lions and still would be in command if the Packers lose.

The Packers can clinch a share of the Western Division title by winning. A victory would give Vince Lombardi's crew an 11-0 record with three games to go. Detroit now has two losses and eight victories.

"Naturally we will be trying our hardest to win," said Lion coach George Wilson. "There's always a chance the Packers would drop another one. You never can take anything for granted in this league."

Wilson, however, admitted the Packers are in a mighty enviable spot. After they play the Lions, they have two games with the hapless Los Angeles Rams and one game with the also-ran San Francisco Forty-Niners.

Injuries have cut into the core of both teams.

Green Bay will be without linebackers Dan Currie and Nelson Toburen. Detroit probably will play without fullback Nick Pietrosante, who wrenched a knee two weeks ago and missed Sunday's game at Minnesota.

However, halfback Danny Lewis and flanker back Terry Barr both were ready to play. Lewis missed one game and Barr has been out for six weeks, both with knee injuries.

The Packers are bidding to become the first unbeaten NFL team since the Chicago Bears turned the trick in 1942.

Mantle Picks Yanks To Win By Plenty

CHELSEA, Okla. (AP) — The American League's most valuable player of 1962, Mickey Mantle, has no doubt about how the 1963 baseball race will turn out.

"We'll win the American League pennant next season — by plenty," said the New York Yankee outfielder who was named the loop's top player despite a season in which he was hobbled by injuries.

Mantle, who expected teammate Bobby Richardson to win the most valuable award, credited the success of Yankee pitchers with helping him to the honor, on a vote of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

NORTH Carolina State and Michigan State will meet for the first time in football since 1929 when they play at East Lansing, Mich., in 1966.

Ft. Ashby Opens Cage Campaign Against LaSalle

Eagles Have One Regular Returning

Fort Ashby's Golden Eagles, who last season won 11 of 21 games, open their 1962-63 campaign on Saturday, December 1, when they host the LaSalle Explorers in a Potomac Valley Conference contest.

Missing from last year's squad is Harold Kerns, who was one of the area's leading scorers with 439 points in 21 regular season games. Other lettermen who were graduated include Vernon Isner, Paul Borror, Frank Pyles, Jim Hoey and Lindley Newcomer.

Only full-time regular returning from the 1961-62 club is Gary Mangus. Don Bosley, who started at the beginning of the season before being sidelined by a knee injury, is also back. Other players with varsity experience are Steve Allen, Bill Steed, Wallace Whitacre, and Walter Malone.

Quentin Sayres is beginning his ninth season as coach of the Fort Ashby cagers. In eight campaigns Sayres' teams have won 96 games and lost 86 for a percentage of .519.

The Eagles will play 19 games in the PVC this season. Their only non-conference battles are with Fort Hill at home on December 14, and the Alumni on December 22.

Player Testifies He Got $1,000 Game For Shaving Points

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) —A former North Carolina State player testified Wednesday he was paid $1,000 per game to shave points in basketball games.

Army Lt. Donald Michael Gallagher, who graduated from State, was the first prosecution witness called in the trial of two St. Louis men, Steve Lekometros and Dave Goldberg, on charges of bribery.

Testimony began in the case after District Solicitor Lester V Chalmers and defense attorney William T. Hatch agreed on a jury of 12 men with two alternates.

the GREAT PLAY in College Football

Brady Keys

WHEN Rocky Mountain railbirds turn their bull sessions to unforgettable "great plays" in regional college football, the Brady Keys thriller of 1959 is sure to share the spotlight.

Keys, now with the Pittsburgh Steelers, joined the Colorado State University squad as a highly-heralded junior college transfer halfback in 1959. But injuries kept him out of action, and, unknown to opposing scouts, until the Utah U. game at Salt Lake City.

The CSU Rams needed to beat the Utes in this, the ninth game of the season, to get second place in the Skyline Conference. But things looked hopeless for the visitors when Utah went ahead, 17-13, with only 1:10 left. Ram rooters had given up, but not Keys or his mates.

The CSU swiftie fielded the ensuing Redskin kickoff at the Ram 15, broke into the clear behind determined blocking and outran Utah's deep defenders for a winning touchdown. The Rams added a two-point conversion to prevail, 21-17.

The finish touched off hectic action in the press box as well as on the battlefield. Writers and radiomen scrambled dutifully to find background information on Keys.

Senators Name George Selkirk General Manager

He faces the tough job of building a winner with a baseball team that finished in 10th place in the American League the past two seasons.

Selkirk, who presently is field coordinator for the Baltimore Orioles, received a two-year contract at an unannounced salary.

He replaces Ed Doherty who was fired after the Senators finished last for the second year in a row.

Club President E. R. (Pete) Quesada also announced that Joe Burke had been signed to a two-year contract as business manager at a substantial increase in salary. Burke, 38, was assistant general manager under Doherty and will continue to handle the business end of the organization.

Lions Confident Of Beating Favored Green Bay Today

By CLARK HALLAS
United Press International

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Lions, who pride themselves on their defensive strength, were girded Wednesday for the Thanksgiving Day showdown against the mighty line of the unbeaten Green Bay Packers.

"We should have beaten them last time at Green Bay," said Lion linebacker Joe Schmidt. "They know they were lucky to get away with a 9-7 victory. We'll beat them this time."

Equally confident sounding were utterances from the Packer camp.

"It's about time you did something," defensive end Bill Quinlan told offensive guard Jerry Kramer.

Both teams look upon the National Football League clash as a "must" game, despite the fact that Green Bay holds a two-game advantage over the Lions and still would be in command if the Packers lose.

The Packers can clinch a share of the Western Division title by winning. A victory would give Vince Lombardi's crew an 11-0 record with three games to go. Detroit now has two losses and eight victories.

"Naturally we will be trying our hardest to win," said Lion coach George Wilson. "There's always a chance the Packers would drop another one. You never can take anything for granted in this league."

Wilson, however, admitted the Packers are in a mighty enviable spot. After they play the Lions, they have two games with the hapless Los Angeles Rams and one game with the also-ran San Francisco Forty-Niners.

Injuries have cut into the core of both teams.

Green Bay will be without linebackers Dan Currie and Nelson Toburen. Detroit probably will play without fullback Nick Pietrosante, who wrenched a knee two weeks ago and missed Sunday's game at Minnesota.

However, halfback Danny Lewis and flanker back Terry Barr both were ready to play. Lewis missed one game and Barr has been out for six weeks, both with knee injuries.

The Packers are bidding to become the first unbeaten NFL team since the Chicago Bears turned the trick in 1942.

Mantle Picks Yanks To Win By Plenty

CHELSEA, Okla. (AP) — The American League's most valuable player of 1962, Mickey Mantle, has no doubt about how the 1963 baseball race will turn out.

"We'll win the American League pennant next season — by plenty," said the New York Yankee outfielder who was named the loop's top player despite a season in which he was hobbled by injuries.

Mantle, who expected teammate Bobby Richardson to win the most valuable award, credited the success of Yankee pitchers with helping him to the honor, on a vote of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

NORTH Carolina State and Michigan State will meet for the first time in football since 1929 when they play at East Lansing, Mich., in 1966.

Ft. Ashby Opens Cage Campaign Against LaSalle

Eagles Have One Regular Returning

Fort Ashby's Golden Eagles, who last season won 11 of 21 games, open their 1962-63 campaign on Saturday, December 1, when they host the LaSalle Explorers in a Potomac Valley Conference contest.

Missing from last year's squad is Harold Kerns, who was one of the area's leading scorers with 439 points in 21 regular season games. Other lettermen who were graduated include Vernon Isner, Paul Borror, Frank Pyles, Jim Hoey and Lindley Newcomer.

Only full-time regular returning from the 1961-62 club is Gary Mangus. Don Bosley, who started at the beginning of the season before being sidelined by a knee injury, is also back. Other players with varsity experience are Steve Allen, Bill Steed, Wallace Whitacre, and Walter Malone.

Quentin Sayres is beginning his ninth season as coach of the Fort Ashby cagers. In eight campaigns Sayres' teams have won 96 games and lost 86 for a percentage of .519.

The Eagles will play 19 games in the PVC this season. Their only non-conference battles are with Fort Hill at home on December 14, and the Alumni on December 22.

Here is this year's roster and schedule:

Player Testifies He Got $1,000 Game For Shaving Points

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) —A former North Carolina State player testified Wednesday he was paid $1,000 per game to shave points in basketball games.

Army Lt. Donald Michael Gallagher, who graduated from State, was the first prosecution witness called in the trial of two St. Louis men, Steve Lekometros and Dave Goldberg, on charges of bribery.

Goldberg's name cropped up in Gallagher's testimony of his connections with Joseph Greene of New York, also charged with bribery.

Testimony began in the case after District Solicitor Lester V Chalmers and defense attorney William T. Hatch agreed on a jury of 12 men with two alternates.

Rens Trade Ritter

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Rens traded guard John Ritter of St. Benedicts (Kans.) to the Kansas City Steers Wednesday for 6-9 forward Jack Ardon of Tulane.

Ardon will join the Rens for their game with the Philadelphia Tapers Saturday night in Philadelphia.

Large glass salt shakers bought at the dime store can be used for bath powder, for sprinkling clothes or for holding small-stemmed flowers like pansies.

Baltimore Purchases Catcher From Phils

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles announced Wednesday the purchase of catcher Jim Coker from the Philadelphia Phillies for cash. The amount of money was not disclosed.

Coker, 26, spent most of the 1962 baseball season in the Air Force. Discharged Aug. 25, he played in only five games afterward and had no hits in three trips to the plate.

Coker stands 5-11, weighs 195 and is a right-handed hitter from Throckmorton, Tex. With the Phillies for part of four different seasons, his only full year was 1960 when he hit .214 in 81 games.

Rams' Merlin Olsen Has Groin Injury

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Rookie Los Angeles Ram defensive tackle Merlin Olsen remained in a hospital Wednesday for treatment of a severe groin injury suffered in Sunday's game with the San Francisco Forty-Niners.

Ram coach Harland Svare said Olsen would probably be lost to the team for the coming game against the Minnesota Vikings. He was hospitalized Tuesday after reporting to team trainers in intense pain.

Rens Trade Ritter

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Rens traded guard John Ritter of St. Benedicts (Kans.) to the Kansas City Steers Wednesday for 6-9 forward Jack Ardon of Tulane.

Ardon was an All Southeastern Conference selection in his junior and senior years and scored 1,205 points for the Green Wave.

Baltimore Purchases Catcher From Phils

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles announced Wednesday the purchase of catcher Jim Coker from the Philadelphia Phillies for cash. The amount of money was not disclosed.

Coker, 26, spent most of the 1962 baseball season in the Air Force. Discharged Aug. 25, he played in only five games afterward and had no hits in three trips to the plate.

Coker stands 5-11, weighs 195 and is a right-handed hitter from Throckmorton, Tex. With the Phillies for part of four different seasons, his only full year was 1960 when he hit .214 in 81 games.

Built-In Safety

NEW YORK (AP)—Builders of a new apartment house here are installing built-in wall safes in every unit of their 14-story structure. The big sell stresses that this is the first multiple dwelling that has included wall safes as standard features. It concludes that they will become increasingly popular with tenants concerned about fire and theft.

The combination of the safes will not be passed on to succeeding tenants. It will be changed for each new occupant.

In World War II, United States Army and Air Force total casualties amounted to nine per cent of a total mobilization of 10 million, 400 thousand.

Built-In Safety

NEW YORK (AP)—Builders of a new apartment house here are installing built-in wall safes in every unit of their 14-story structure. The big sell stresses that this is the first multiple dwelling that has included wall safes as standard features. It concludes that they will become increasingly popular with tenants concerned about fire and theft.

The combination of the safes will not be passed on to succeeding tenants. It will be changed for each new occupant.

In World War II, United States Army and Air Force total casualties amounted to nine per cent of a total mobilization of 10 million, 400 thousand.

Work To Begin Soon On New ABL Building

Wheaton Firm Gets Contract

Construction of a $2,968,000 rocket research laboratory and office building at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Rocket Center, W. Va., will begin soon, with a completion date set for February 13, 1964, said John C. Foster, plant manager.

Missiles Sites Inc. of Wheaton has been awarded the contract for building the three-story structure which will be about 170 feet wide by 240 feet long and will be located near the intersection of the entrance road to the plant and West Virginia State Route 9.

Mr. Foster said the building site will be on new land recently purchased by the Navy for ABL.

The steel-framed structure will be built on concrete foundations, and the permanent exterior walls will be insulated panels with porcelain enamel exteriors. It will be completely air - conditioned, without windows, and have all necessary utilities, including high voltage lighting.

The roof will be built up and of metal decking with two-inch rigid insulation. The second and third floors will overhang the first floor, providing a sheltered walkway around the building.

The new building will provide office space for about 730 employes and will house the chemical and physical rocket research and development laboratories, executive offices, Navy offices and research and development offices. A cafeteria to seat approximately 300 employes is also included in the plans.

Other operating sections to be located in the 122,400 square feet of usable floor space include Central File, a first-aid station, a large drafting room, telephone equipment, a fireproof vault for storing records, and a large conference room.

The ABL library, with a reading room and library personnel offices, will also be used in the new building. The library will include three-level book stacks with a dumbwaiter for carrying books to the different levels.

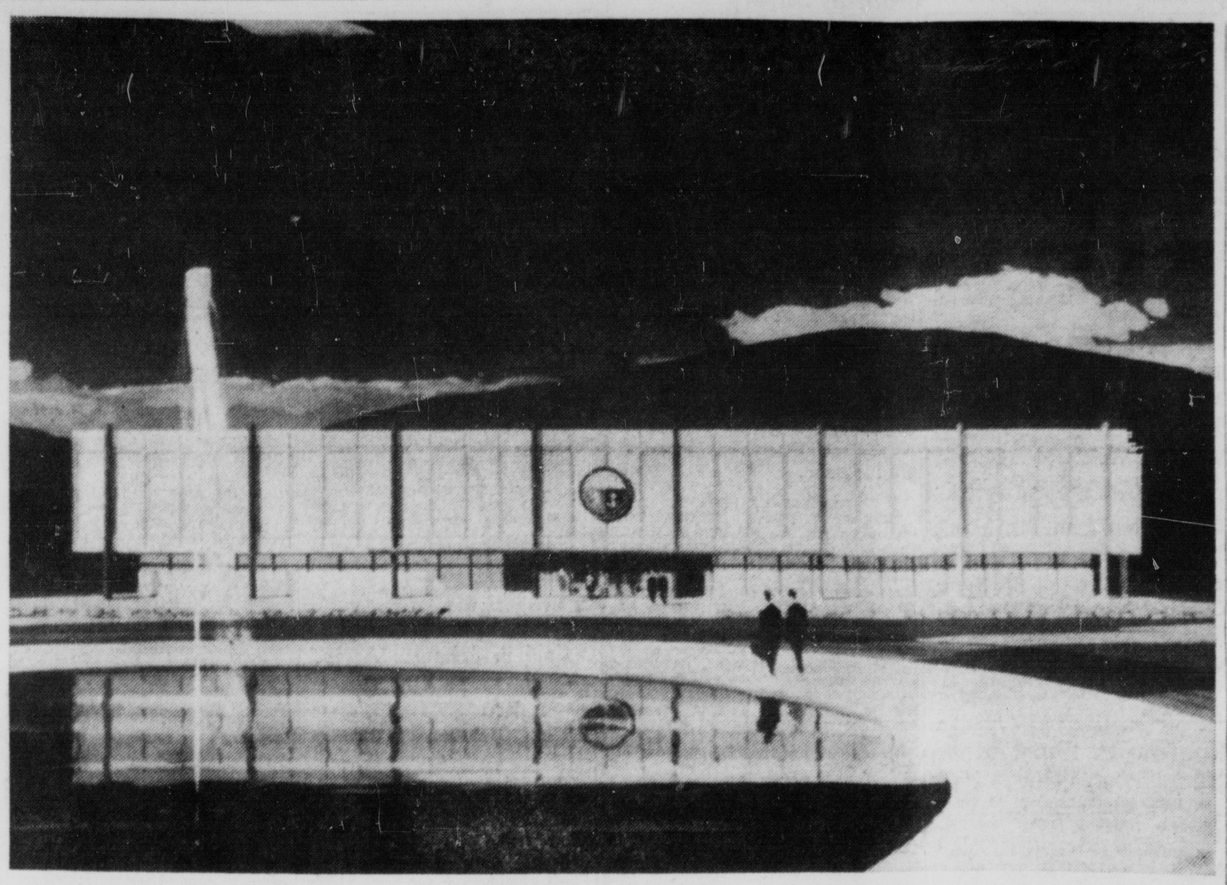
A beautifully landscaped area outside the structure will include a 400-car parking lot and a reflection pond. The pond, with water sprays around its circumference, will have an engineering as well as an aesthetic value, since it will also act as a cooling tower for the air conditioning system.

The designing and architectural work was done by Mills, Petticord and Mills, Washington.



Proposed ABL Lab-Office Building

This is an artist's conception of a $2,968,000 research laboratory and office building which will be constructed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, said John C. Foster, plant manager. The three-story building will be about 170 feet wide and 240 feet long and will be located on the knoll behind the school house overlooking the Potomac River and valley. Plans call for a steel-framed, metal-skinned structure which will house about 730 employes.

ABL Promotes Five Men In Polaris Units

Shank Transferred To Home Office

Five major personnel changes in the Polaris Development Division at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory have been announced by John C. Foster, plant manager.

Earl D. Shank, Polaris Design Department superintendent, is being transferred to the Hercules Home Office, Wilmington, Del.

Henry A. Schowengerdt, Polaris Operations Department superintendent, is named assistant manager of the Polaris Division.

Edward H. Pendergast, assistant superintendent of Polaris Design, is promoted to superintendent of the Polaris A-3 Design and Evaluation Department.

Howard D. Varner, assistant superintendent of Polaris Liaison and Test Engineering, is named superintendent of the Polaris Operations Department.

Mr. Shank, a native of Waynesboro, Pa., is a graduate of Penn State University with a B. S. degree in mechanical engineering. Later he did graduate work in servomechanisms at the University of Connecticut.

He joined Hercules Powder Company at ABL as a designer in October 1952. Prior to coming here he was employed as a test engineer and designer for Hamil-Standard Division.

Mr. Schowengerdt was born in Kansas City, Mo., and received his B. S. and M. S. degrees in electrical engineering from the University of Illinois.

Joining Hercules in June 1952 as a draftsman at Sunflower Ordnance Works, Lawrence, Kans., he advanced to the position of power engineer before transferring to ABL as development engineer in May 1958. At ABL, Mr. Schowengerdt was soon promoted to project engineer, group supervisor and department superintendent. He is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Mr. Mann, a native of Washington, attended the University of Maryland and received his B. S. degree in mechanical engineering from Cornell University. After receiving his degree, he did graduate work in electrical engineering at George Washington University.

He began his career with Hercules in December 1950 as a draftsman at the Home Office in Wilmington. The following year, Mr. Mann transferred to Hercules' plant in Mansfield, Mass., as a project engineer, becoming plant engineer before coming to ABL as a mechanical engineer in July 1957.

Since joining ABL, Mr. Mann has been project engineer and supervising engineer before becoming assistant department superintendent.

Mr. Pendergast was born in Cumberland and is a graduate of Potomac State College and of George Washington University, where he received a B. S. degree in mechanical engineering.

He joined Hercules in October 1952 as a research assistant at ABL. Since that time, Mr. Pendergast has advanced to research

'Fallout' Was Heavy In City

Had a statewide Civil Defense radiological monitoring exercise held yesterday morning been the real thing, a large percentage of the population of Allegany County would have died had they not taken adequate shelter from fallout.

Harry Thomas, who is in charge of radiological monitoring in the county CD program, commented last night that the highest reading was off Green Ridge Mountain which in a real nuclear blast would have been 215 roentgens.

Mr. Thomas assumed with other CD officials that Cumberland and the county area was on the fringe of a simulated blast from the vicinity of Ohio.

He explained that if a person was exposed for over an hour in the Green Ridge Mountain area three hours after the blast without adequate shelter, he would have died.

In Cumberland the reading was between 100 and 120 roentgens and about half those persons who would have been exposed for three hours without proper shelter would have succumbed.

Frostburg's reading was between 90 and 100, and similar shelter protection as Cumberland would have been needed.

However the reading at Lonaconing, sheltered by mountains, was zero, and at Mt. Savage, also sheltered by mountains, nine. With a reading such as this, residents would have found ample protection in an ordinary basement, said Mr. Thomas.

The test, he assumed, followed the mock dropping of a 20-megaton bomb containing fallout of 5,000 roentgens.

Radiological stations were manned by trained personnel at fire halls and schools as well as other locations throughout the county where readings were taken.

Social Security Manager Hits Books' Advice

Says Public Fooled By Sensationalism

Walter R. Campbell, Social Security district manager in Cumberland, advises the public to be wary of advertisements promoting the sale of books that promise to tell how to get around certain provisions in the Social Security law.

Some of these advertising materials, he noted, say that books will also show "how to get twice as much social security" or even "how you can get Social Security for doing absolutely nothing."

"Actually," Mr. Campbell said, "these books cannot tell the reader anything basic about the Social Security law that he would not find in the free booklets and leaflets available at the Cumberland Social Security District Office."

In fact, if advice contained in some of the books were followed, it might result in extensive investigation and thus delay Social Security payments. Following some of the advice might place the person in a worse rather than a better financial position.

"If a resident of the Cumberland area has any questions about his Social Security benefits," the Social Security district manager said, "I suggest he come in and talk to someone in our office. We may not be able to tell you how to 'earn a million dollars a year—while collecting Social Security' (as the promoters of some sensationally advertised books suggest they can do.) But the people in our office will be glad to give you full and realistic information tailored to your particular situation."

The Social Security District Office in Cumberland is located at Six Pershing Street.

Machine Tool Class Starts Here Monday

25 Will Take 16-Week Course

A second machine tool training course for men in Cumberland and elsewhere in Allegany County is scheduled to start Monday at 3 p. m., according to J. D. Lonnholm, county supervisor of vocational, industrial and adult education.

The class will be conducted in the Trade School building on Paca Street from 3 until 9 p. m. Monday through Friday for 16 weeks.

This is the second such class to be arranged through the cooperative efforts of the Department of Employment Security and the County Board of Education. Teachers will be Wallace and Dale Walker.

Francis A. Kenney, manager of the local office of the State Department of Employment Security, observed that funds for these courses have been obtained through the Area Redevelopment Act.

There is no charge for the training the men receive and they are provided a subsistence allowance which compares with present unemployment compensation in this area. Each man will receive $31 a week while attending the class.

The 25 men who have been selected to start the class were chosen as a result of their records on the aptitude test battery.

Mr. Kenney pointed out that there still are a number of job opportunities in the area for those trained as machine tool operators.

Thanksgiving Service Set At Flintstone School

A union Thanksgiving service for the Flintstone area will be held at 11 a. m. Sunday at the Flintstone School, according to James H. White, principal.

Rev. John Ewald will preach the sermon at this special community service.

Four other clergymen have accepted responsibilities for this service.

Rev. C. D. Larsen will serve as moderator. He will lead the congregation in a Litany of Thanksgiving.

The call to worship and invocation will be led by Rev. J. H. Buffenmyer. A Scripture reading and prayer will be given by Rev. Luther Travis.

An offering will be taken and it will be used for Christmas baskets. The offering will be blessed by Rev. Dairie Dolly.

The school orchestra will play Mozart's Ave Verum for the prelude and postlude. A chorus will sing "Thanksgiving Praise." The music will be under the direction of R. Monroe Harris.

Retired Pastor Branch Leader Of Red Cross

He succeeds Miss Eleanor Sloan who has asked to be relieved of her duties as chairman.

Miss Sloan, who is affectionately known as "Miss Nellie" in the Lonaconing community, steps down after over 45 years of volunteer service in Red Cross work.

She was presented her 45-year pin this week at her home by Robert L. Ebert, Allegany County chapter chairman, Mrs. Thomas Holmes, member of the chapter executive board and Mrs. Jennie Peebles, Red Cross social welfare aide, were present. Miss Sloan was scheduled to receive her pin at the annual Red Cross dinner in May, but fell at her home and was unable to attend. She has been confined to her home since that time.

In presenting the pin Mr. Ebert cited Miss Sloan's record of 45 years plus many uncounted hours of devoted, faithful work for the chapter in her community. She also served for many years on the board of directors as a representative of the Lonaconing Branch.

Serving with Rev. Goshorn as vice chairman will be Marvin T. Llewellyn, mathematics teacher at Valley High School.

Two Fined For Illegal Deer Meat Possession

Two men were fined $100 each on charges of possession of illegal deer meat yesterday in Magistrates Court.

Robert L. Gilkey, Cresaptown, and William B. Bennett, 432 Greene Street, appeared before Magistrate Paul Barnett. Charges were preferred by E. W. Law, district game warden.

Equity Suits Filed

Six new equity suits have been filed in Allegany Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Janet Katherine Justice vs. Edwin Claude Justice, Georgiana Elizabeth Wright vs. William Alvin Wright, Robert Dean Adams vs. Barbara Ann Adams, Hazel V. Muir vs. Charles J. Muir, Loretta Mary McGann vs. Bernard Francis McGann and John Edward Blonskey vs. Hazel Irene Blonskey.

Christmas Lights Go On Friday Night

Lighting Ceremony Set For 6:30 P.M.

The Christmas lights placed on poles along Baltimore, Mechanic and Centre Streets earlier this this week will be turned on Friday night.

Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday that Santa Claus will turn on the lights during a ceremony scheduled at 6:30 p. m. near the Chamber office, corner of Baltimore and Liberty streets.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney and City Commissioners as well as officers of the Chamber of Commerce and personnel of the Potomac Valley Television Company, who installed the lights, have been invited to participate.

Yesterday afternoon the lights were being tested, according to Mr. Peterson, who said the television company workmen deserve a lot of credit for such an "excellent job" of installing the lights and placing red, pink and white poinsettias in the metal planters on the poles.

Flintstone Man, Teenage Girl Are Sentenced

A 30-year-old father of four children was sentenced to a year in the House of Correction after he was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl yesterday in Juvenile Court.

Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin also found the 16-year-old girl a delinquent minor and gave her a suspended sentence to Montrose School for Girls. She was placed on indefinite probation.

Claude Henry Duvall, Flintstone, was found guilty after testimony revealed he had taken the girl to Pittsburgh, then to St. Louis where the couple ran out of money and turned themselves in to State Police there. It was also revealed that the man's wife is expecting their fifth child.

In connection with the case, Magistrate Fatkin said, "It is with a great deal of alarm that this court notes the increase in this type case, wherein a grown man, with his own children neglected, preys on young girls of the community. This court has determined to confront this type of offense with suitable punishment. It is hoped that such action will be a deterrent."

Another 16-year-old girl was sentenced to Montrose for an indefinite term yesterday on a charge of being a delinquent minor.

Harvest Festivals Date Back To Ancient Times

It has been 341 years since the Pilgrims in New England declared a Thanksgiving celebration. In doing so they were joining some strange company. The practice of giving thanks for a plentiful harvest goes back almost to the time when man first gave up wandering and hitched himeslf to a plow.

Along the Mediterranean ancient peoples held festivals at harvest time in honor of a mother goddess. The Semites called her Astarte, while the Phrygians named her Semele.

The Romans honored Ceres, the goddess of agriculture, in a celebration called the Cerealia, reports World Book Encyclopedia. The Greeks paid tribute to Demeter in secret rites called the Eleusianian Mysteries.

Christianity put an end to many of these festivals, but a pagan-inspired belief in the Corn Mother, or the Mother of Grains, survived among some peasants in the British Isles and Europe. Her spirit was thought to live in the last sheaf of grain left standing in the field.

During the Middle Ages the most common thanksgiving and harvest festival was held on the Feast of Saint Martin of Tours, or Martinmas, on November 11. People throughout Europe still celebrate the day with feasts and new wine.

The Pilgrims probably became familiar with this celebration when they went to Holland to escape persecution in England and it may have been the remembrance of this holiday that inspired them to hold a thanksgiving feast after their first prosperous year in the New World.

Grocers Take Dim View Of Check-Cashing

This matter was discussed at the recent 34th annual convention of the Independent Retail Food Distributors of Maryland in Atlantic City.

As a consequence, the convention adopted a resolution which urges the commercial banks of Maryland to investigate thoroughly all applications to open checking accounts. It also suggests that these banks consider the possibility of denying the privilege of checking accounts where such accounts are consistently lacking sufficient funds to meet the checks issued.

The resolution notes that the cashing of checks is a service for which the food dealers receive no compensation. It was emphasized that many commercial banks open checking accounts without proper investigation of the character of the person opening the account.

Copies of the resolution were sent to the state banking commissioner, clearing house, all commercial banks and other interested parties.

Another resolution adopted by the convention delegates urges manufacturers to take another look at their sales policies to the end that their salesmen might be instructed to call on the smaller distributors.

Still another resolution points out that the average consumer commonly associates any rise in the cost of living with increase in food prices. It stresses that food prices have not kept pace with increase of price of other commodities.

Finally, it asks that the United States Department of Labor make an independent statement on the rise or fall of food prices.

Educators Make Visit To Local College Library

Dr. Harold D. Reese, director of accreditation for the State Department of Education, visited Allegany Community College this week and reviewed the operation of the college library.

He was accompanied by Miss Nettie B. Taylor, director of the Division of Library Extension of the State Department of Education.

After going over the operation of the library, its books and equipment, they expressed satisfaction and were favorably impressed by the college facility.

Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, college president, said Dr. Reese's visit to the college is one of several visits he will make in connection with final approval of the college in awarding associate of arts degrees.

At the present time the library has 3,000 volumes and plans call for building the library to one with 10,000 volumes, an accepted standard for junior colleges.

Work To Begin Soon On New ABL Building

Wheaton Firm Gets Contract

Construction of a $2,968,000 rocket research laboratory and office building at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Rocket Center, W. Va., will begin soon, with a completion date set for February 13, 1964, said John C. Foster, plant manager.

Missiles Sites Inc. of Wheaton has been awarded the contract for building the three-story structure which will be about 170 feet wide by 240 feet long and will be located near the intersection of the entrance road to the plant and West Virginia State Route 9.

Mr. Foster said the building site will be on new land recently purchased by the Navy for ABL.

The steel-framed structure will be built on concrete foundations, and the permanent exterior walls will be insulated panels with porcelain enamel exteriors. It will be completely air - conditioned, without windows, and have all necessary utilities, including high voltage lighting.

The roof will be built up and of metal decking with two-inch rigid insulation. The second and third floors will overhang the first floor, providing a sheltered walkway around the building.

The new building will provide office space for about 730 employes and will house the chemical and physical rocket research and development laboratories, executive offices, Navy offices and research and development offices. A cafeteria to seat approximately 300 employes is also included in the plans.

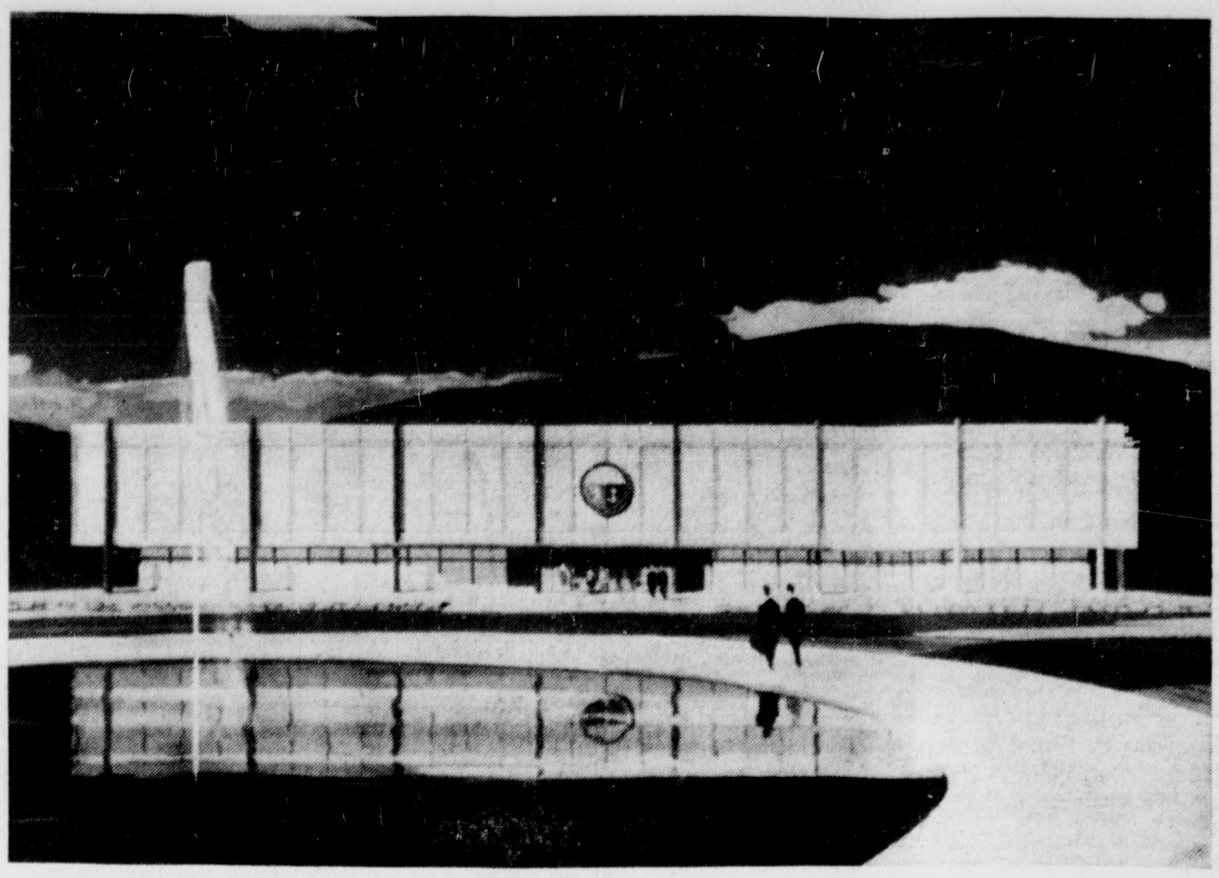
Other operating sections to be located in the 122,400 square feet of usable floor space include Central File, a first-aid station, a large drafting room, telephone equipment, a fireproof vault for storing records, and a large conference room.

The ABL library, with a reading room and library personnel offices, will also be used in the new building. The library will include three-level book stacks with a dumbwaiter for carrying books to the different levels.

Inside the entrance, a lobby and reception room will boast terrazzo flooring of concrete and polished marble chips.

A beautifully landscaped area outside the structure will include a 400-car parking lot and a reflection pond. The pond, with water sprays around its circumference, will have an engineering as well as an aesthetic value, since it will also act as a cooling tower for the air conditioning system.

The designing and architectural work was done by Mills, Petticord and Mills, Washington.



Proposed ABL Lab-Office Building

This is an artist's conception of a $2,968,000 research laboratory and office building which will be constructed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, said John C. Foster, plant manager. The three-story building will be about 170 feet wide and 240 feet long and will be located on the knoll behind the school house overlooking the Potomac River and valley. Plans call for a steel-framed, metal-skinned structure which will house about 730 employes.

'Fallout' Was Heavy In City

Had a statewide Civil Defense radiological monitoring exercise held yesterday morning been the real thing, a large percentage of the population of Allegany County would have died had they not taken adequate shelter from fallout.

Harry Thomas, who is in charge of radiological monitoring in the county CD program, commented last night that the highest reading was off Green Ridge Mountain which in a real nuclear blast would have been 215 roentgens.

Mr. Thomas assumed with other CD officials that Cumberland and the county area was on the fringe of a simulated blast from the vicinity of Ohio.

He explained that if a person was exposed for over an hour in the Green Ridge Mountain area three hours after the blast without adequate shelter, he would have died.

In Cumberland the reading was between 100 and 120 roentgens and about half those persons who would have been exposed for three hours without proper shelter would have succumbed.

Frostburg's reading was between 90 and 100, and similar shelter protection as Cumberland would have been needed.

However the reading at Lonaconing, sheltered by mountains, was zero, and at Mt. Savage, also sheltered by mountains, nine. With a reading such as this, residents would have found ample protection in an ordinary basement, said Mr. Thomas.

The test, he assumed, followed the mock dropping of a 20-megaton bomb containing fallout of 5,000 roentgens.

Radiological stations were manned by trained personnel at fire halls and schools as well as other locations throughout the county where readings were taken.

Social Security Manager Hits Books' Advice

Says Public Fooled By Sensationalism

Walter R. Campbell, Social Security district manager in Cumberland, advises the public to be wary of advertisements promoting the sale of books that promise to tell how to get around certain provisions in the Social Security law.

Some of these advertising materials, he noted, say that books will also show "how to get twice as much social security" or even "how you can get Social Security for doing absolutely nothing."

"Actually," Mr. Campbell said, "these books cannot tell the reader anything basic about the Social Security law that he would not find in the free booklets and leaflets available at the Cumberland Social Security District Office."

In fact, if advice contained in some of the books were followed, it might result in extensive investigation and thus delay Social Security payments. Following some of the advice might place the person in a worse rather than a better financial position.

"If a resident of the Cumberland area has any questions about his Social Security benefits," the Social Security district manager said, "I suggest he come in and talk to someone in our office. We may not be able to tell you how to 'earn a million dollars a year—while collecting Social Security' (as the promoters of some sensationally advertised books suggest they can do.) But the people in our office will be glad to give you full and realistic information tailored to your particular situation."

The Social Security District Office in Cumberland is located at Six Pershing Street.

Machine Tool Class Starts Here Monday

25 Will Take 16-Week Course

A second machine tool training course for men in Cumberland and elsewhere in Allegany County is scheduled to start Monday at 3 p. m., according to J. D. Lonnholm, county supervisor of vocational, industrial and adult education.

The class will be conducted in the Trade School building on Paca Street from 3 until 9 p. m. Monday through Friday for 16 weeks.

This is the second such class to be arranged through the cooperative efforts of the Department of Employment Security and the County Board of Education. Teachers will be Wallace and Dale Walker.

Francis A. Kenney, manager of the local office of the State Department of Employment Security, observed that funds for these courses have been obtained through the Area Redevelopment Act.

There is no charge for the training the men receive and they are provided a subsistence allowance which compares with present unemployment compensation in this area. Each man will receive $31 a week while attending the class.

The 25 men who have been selected to start the class were chosen as a result of their records on the aptitude test battery.

Mr. Kenney pointed out that there still are a number of job opportunities in the area for those trained as machine tool operators.

An offering will be taken and it will be used for Christmas baskets. The oiffering will be blessed by Rev. Dairie Dolly.

The school orchestra will play Mozart's Ave Verum for the prelude and postlude. A chorus will sing "Thanksgiving Praise." The music will be under the direction of R. Monroe Harris.

Retired Pastor Branch Leader Of Red Cross

He succeeds Miss Eleanor Sloan who has asked to be relieved of her duties as chairman.

Miss Sloan, who is affectionately known as "Miss Nellie" in the Lonaconing community, steps down after over 45 years of volunteer service in Red Cross work.

She was presented her 45-year pin this week at her home by Robert L. Ebert, Allegany County chapter chairman, Mrs. Thomas Holmes, member of the chapter executive board and Mrs. Jennie Peebles, Red Cross social welfare aide, were present. Miss Sloan was scheduled to receive her pin at the annual Red Cross dinner in May, but fell at her home and was unable to attend. She has been confined to her home since that time.

In presenting the pin Mr. Ebert cited Miss Sloan's record of 45 years plus many uncounted hours of devoted, faithful work for the chapter in her community. She also served for many years on the board of directors as a representative of the Lonaconing Branch.

Serving with Rev. Goshorn as vice chairman will be Marvin T. Llewellyn, mathematics teacher at Valley High School.

Christmas Lights Go On Friday Night

Lighting Ceremony Set For 6:30 P.M.

The Christmas lights placed on poles along Baltimore, Mechanic and Centre Streets earlier this this week will be turned on Friday night.

Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday that Santa Claus will turn on the lights during a ceremony scheduled at 6:30 p. m. near the Chamber office, corner of Baltimore and Liberty streets.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney and City Commissioners as well as officers of the Chamber of Commerce and personnel of the Potomac Valley Television Company, who installed the lights, have been invited to participate.

Also expected to participate are members of the Downtown Cumberland Business Association, sponsors of the Christmas lighting program.

Yesterday afternoon the lights were being tested, according to Mr. Peterson, who said the television company workmen deserve a lot of credit for such an "excellent job" of installing the lights and placing red, pink and white poinsettias in the metal planters on the poles.

The displays include red candles and strings of tinsel and sprigs of holly as new features this year.

Flintstone Man, Teenage Girl Are Sentenced

A 30-year-old father of four children was sentenced to a year in the House of Correction after he was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl yesterday in Juvenile Court.

Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin also found the 16-year-old girl a delinquent minor and gave her a suspended sentence to Montrose School for Girls. She was placed on indefinite probation.

Claude Henry Duvall, Flintstone, was found guilty after testimony revealed he had taken the girl to Pittsburgh, then to St. Louis where the couple ran out of money and turned themselves in to State Police there. It was also revealed that the man's wife is expecting their fifth child.

In connection with the case, Magistrate Fatkin said, "It is with a great deal of alarm that this court notes the increase in this type case, wherein a grown man, with his own children neglected, preys on young girls of the community. This court has determined to confront this type of offense with suitable punishment. It is hoped that such action will be a deterrent."

Another 16-year-old girl was sentenced to Montrose for an indefinite term yesterday on a charge of being a delinquent minor.
